

CAPT. COOK OF THE BROOKLYN ORDERED THE FAMOUS LOOP

Caused Vessel's Helm to Be Put Hard- Aport on Own Responsibility.

Says Schley Was an Enthusiastically Brave and Patriotic Officer.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Capt. Francis A. Cook was first new witness called before the Schley court of inquiry today. He was called by the navy department, but as he also is on Admiral Schley's list of witnesses he will be considered, like Commander Hodgson and Lieut. Doyle, as a witness for both sides. During the war with Spain Cook was commander of the battleship Brooklyn, and also Admiral Schley's chief-of-staff, thus occupying a position of great importance. Schley that Capt. Chadwick occupied terest and his testimony was listened to attentively. Other witnesses summoned by the department for the day were Lieutenant Commander William and Lieut. Joseph Beale, who was on the Albatross, were sent to the shore and ascertain whether the Spanish fleet under Cervera was in the harbor at Santiago. These are the last words of the Albatross log, and they expect to call for the case, and when they have completed their testimony.

the commander-in-chief some time had been made known to the fleet at that time to cause a change in the plan that had already been adopted," Capt. F. E. Chadwick also returned to the stand for the purpose of correcting his former evidence. After presenting his evidence, he said:

"I was in consultation," "Briefly and exactly as you can give it, what occurred?" "We talked on various subjects at the effect that the squadron should proceed to San Diego," he said. "I was satisfied that the Spaniards were not at Cienfuegos, but, he said, Commodore Schley had said, 'I am not satisfied that they are not here. I still believe they are here.'" questioned by Mr. Hanna and responded in clear and distinct tones. He said he had been at Key West on May 19. "What information did you have at that time concerning the whereabouts of Cerevera's fleet?" asked Mr. Hanna.

"We have seen three peculiar lights, insurgents and that he was going to communicate with the insurgent camp. We brought up the question about the camp and where it was and then the commodore said to him:

" 'You have seen three peculiar lights, there?' asked Mr. Hanna.

"Because of McCalla's report from the insurgents on shore."

"That, then, made it clear that the Spaniards were not there?"

"Entirely."

from rumor we understood they had left the Canary islands and a part of them had been sighted at Martinique, and from consular information or, perhaps, information sent by the Harvard, not make out what they are and I believe it is something in connection with the Spanish fleet.' 'Capt. McCalla gave a start, threw up his hands, and said: 'The run on the night of the 24th was the gent camp." He added, "Well, I can go there and find out at once."

"The commodore told him to go, to get off as soon as possible and added: 'You can send a boat across and let me time, by them to make Cienfuegos, Cuba, the first port of call. I understood that the Spanish fleet carried munitions of war for Havana, and that it was necessary for Cienfuegos, because of its accessibility to the sea.

Capt. Cook detailed conversation between Commodore Schley and Captain Cienfuegos, and then followed the route to Cienfuegos. He said there were no Spanish ships in the anchorage on the southern coast of Cuba, but that the Spanish fleet had come from Jamaica and reported that the Spanish fleet had gone to the south coast of Cuba.

"The idea," he said, "was that we should proceed in the direction of Santiago and if we found sea so rough that we could not make headway, we would turn back toward the south side of Cuba."

the time, and something was said about Crapo, Cruz. I was seated afterward looking at the chart there and it did not seem to be a favorable place. I know the subject of coaling was early considered even before leaving Key West."

Admiral Dewey: "Was your answer to me that you were not sure whether he looked upon that as entirely suspicious. Not understanding the matters and not knowing exactly his object, I when he started towards Santiago?"

BISHOP VYAN SHEELE

Representing King Oscar II. and Special Emissary
From Lutheran Church of Sweden, Visits
Lutheran Convention at Lima, Ohio.

Capt. Cook recalled the meeting of the Marblehead with the flying squadron en route to Cienfuegos, but could recall only very indistinctly the fact that the Scorpion had delivered to the Drake at that time. He did not receive the sacrament, but he said he did not consider the incident important.

Capt. Cook said that upon arriving at the church on the morning of 22 a blockade was immediately established, as the firing of guns was heard. The blockade was broken through and arrived and a fete in honor of his appearance was on.

Dr. Ransom and others also were seen, but they were not fired upon, because it was considered desirable not to unnecessarily expend ammunition.

Dr. Ransom said that the Indians and the missionaries were treated with patience, from the Lutheran church of Sweden, and representative from King Oscar II. When the bishop reached the church business was suspended and he was welcomed in an address by President Ransom in English and Dr. Speath in German. Tre. Sees welcomed him on behalf of the church and the people. Dr. Spele responded in German and said his one desire was to see unity among the churches and that it must be attained with patience.

The discussion was resumed of the resolution to recall Dr. H. F. H. in charge of the India work. The quesad not reached a vote at the noon hour. The statement was made that the Protestants in the Northwest are looking towards the Protestant Episcopal fellowship, made recently in San Francisco.

Dr. Ransom said that he had seen Dr. Ransom, the president of the council. Dr. Ransom said with great emphasis that the churches in the Northwest are scattered throughout America.

missions was completed and adopted, the statement.

TO EASTERN MARKETS.

J. M. Gidding Going There For New Things.

J. M. Gidding, of the Silberstein & Bondy company, left on the Omaha limited last evening for a buying trip in the Eastern markets. The extremely heavy preliminary fall business has already made deep inroads in the firm's stocks, which although replenished daily by fresh arrivals, require a generous order in many lines at once. This certainly is a good sign and speaks well for a heavy fall trade in this city.

Mr. Gidding, among other objects in going East, has in view the closing of contracts for recently imported Oriental rugs. He will also search the Eastern markets for any new things in fall and winter coats, etc., which are being introduced there as the firm makes it a specialty of constantly introducing new things and take particular pains not to have too many styles of any one kind, this keeping them from getting common. Mr. Gidding's large acquaintance with Eastern firms and buyers, where he lived all his life, previous to locating in Duluth, enables him to keep in touch with the prevailing style introductions of the East.

Pretty Late Baseball.

There was a rather uninteresting game of baseball played yesterday afternoon at Duluth Heights between the Duluth Heights and the Black Diamonds. The Diamonds won by a score of 27 to 10. The batteries were: Duluth Heights, Reaney, Harwood and Enton; Black Diamonds, Lowe and H. Lewis.

ACCUSES HER OF CRUELTY.

M. C. Miller's Brief Wedded Life Was Unhappy.

M. C. Miller desires to end the marriage contract he entered into with May Miller March 9, 1901, only seven months ago, and his reason is that she has treated him cruelly and inhumanly, which is one of the grounds for divorce recognized by the law of this state. They were married in Carlton, and he is 34 and she is 30 years of age. He alleges that immediately after the marriage she began to systematically treat him cruelly and inhumanly, refusing to live with him, refusing to eat the same table with him, and he charges that she has ever since spent most of her time in the company of women of questionable character. She has refused, he says, and still continues to refuse to fulfill any part of her marriage vows or contract. Alexander Marshall is his attorney, and the defendant has defaulted in the case, not having filed an answer within the period after service of summons required by law.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Be sure and ask for Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

MORE ASSYRIAN TROUBLE.

Jamely Abalan Seeks Separation From Her Husband.

Jamely Abalan has asked the district court for a divorce from Habbab Abalan on the ground of adultery, which adds another dispute from the Assyrian colony to the district court calendar. She is 17 and he is 21 years of age, and they were married in St. Paul June 2, 1899. Mrs. Abalan alleges adultery with one Daisy White in Superior, Minn., and that whose real name is unknown, in Minneapolis. She is charged with adultery in the defendant's refusing to recognize her as his wife, repelling tenders of affection and refusing to support her and her children. She wants $20 per month alimony, $25 for expenses and for attorney's fees, and she says the defendant is able to pay because he has a large interest in Turkish rugs worth $2000. H. E. Hall, of St. Paul, is her attorney.

TO BE BUSINESS MANAGER.

Capt. Gibson Joins Pearson Boat Company.

Capt. George E. Gibson, who since his return from the Philippines, where he served with much distinction in the Thirty-fourth Infantry, has been in Chicago, will hereafter have charge of the business of the Pearson Boat Construction company. Mr. Gibson was for a number of years with the American Express company, of this city, leaving there to enter the army, joining the Fourteenth Infantry, volunteers, going from there last week that there was talk of his entering the regular army. He has many friends here who will be glad to see him return here to make his home.

C. Pearson will, as at present, have general charge of the plant and the mechanical portion of the business.

Railroad Men Here.

Superintendent J. H. Foster and Chief Train Dispatcher P. L. Richards of the Milwaukee road, in company with Chief Train Dispatcher R. H. Nichols of the Northern Pacific road arrived from the Twin Cities yesterday on business connected with their respective companies. In view of the rumor given out in a Milwaukee paper last week that there was talk of the Milwaukee interests buying up the South Shore road it was expected a number of the company officials would be in the city yesterday. President Boarding of the Milwaukee road and party were in Minneapolis yesterday morning, but have not yet paid the predicted visit to the head of the lakes.

TIRED OF WALKING

Duluth Heights People Object to Footing It Up the Hill.

Hold a Meeting and Talk of Strenuous Measures.

May Cease Paying Rent Unless Landlords Push Matters.

The residents of Highland park, on Duluth Heights, held a mass meeting at the town hall yesterday afternoon to enter a protest against the failure to install service on the incline. About 150 were present at the meeting, which was presided over by Leroy Coons. A number of residents gave heart to heart talks during which they expressed their opinion that the present conditions of things cause advanced, and which the people at the meeting seemed determined to carry out, is that they will refuse to pay rent on the heights unless the landlords take a hand in the effort to bring about street car service. They say they will force the property owners to bring ejectment suits and they will then leave the heights.

A committee of three members was appointed to confer with the city council about the matter and petition that body if necessary to bring some action to bear on the street railway company that will cause them to make any improvements that they may contemplate on the service to the heights.

MAY BE DARK.

Some Homes May Be Without Lights Part of Tonight.

Some homes in the city may have to resort to the light of other days for illuminating purposes tonight. The Commercial Light & Power company, which is spending $100,000 in improving its electric light service, is installing the first of 750 horse power electric generators.

The company said today that while it would push the work with all possible speed and hoped to have the light all on tonight, there was a probability that some homes would be without light for a few hours.

The dynamo, which is being put in today, replaces the old one and is the most modern piece of electrically-making machinery that has ever been turned out. The other generators will be put in place in a short time.

An Autumn Idyll.

She shivered in the autumn drizzle as she approached police court. A raglan covered her light summer skirt and the on was chill. It's usually chill for such as she in that neighborhood. She looked small and blue, and her teeth, knees and rings knocked together as if they were intent on confessing her distress.

"Edith Churchill, stand up," said the court.

"Pay a fine of $15 and costs or stand committed to the city jail for a period not exceeding fifteen days. The raglan was agitated with renewed trembling, due to sadness.

Too Pugnacious.

Because he whipped a steek soubrette of the featherweight division, George Nichols, a waiterweight, was given his choice between going to jail for twenty days and paying $25 and costs.

Down on St. Croix avenue he met an ingenue. She looked small enough, so he smashed her. As a result the girl is said to have fainted ten different times in the course of two hours. At noon Nichols had not paid the fine.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion. Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the sympathetic and pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor indigestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable harmless digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets sold by druggists at 50 cents. Little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart company, Marshall, Mich.

STRIKES THE PIER

Steamer Jenney Hits Riprap Around the South Canal Pier.

Vesselmen Considerably Worried Over Presence of This Danger.

The Boat Was Light and Drawing Little Water.

While coming through the ship canal Saturday night the large Jenney, of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, went into the riprap work that is used to bolster up the south pier of the canal, and damaged that will necessitate a repair bill of $1500 were inflicted. The Jenney is in the drydock today, and there is a hole in her port bilge, just a little aft of midships, that is probably twelve feet long by four feet wide.

Vesselmen are considerably aroused over the presence of this danger, and they say that what has happened to the Jenney is likely to happen to any vessel, and that some day there may be an accident where a sinking will take place. All around the head of the south pier there is riprap that approaches very near the surface of the water, and while as a rule vessels keep as near to the center of the canal as possible, it may often happen that one will swing within a few feet of the pier. That was what happened to the Jenney, and though she was light, and therefore as far removed from this danger as she could be, the riprap was not so deep but that she went into it.

CHICAGO PEOPLE HERE.

On Their Way From Cass Lake Region.

A private car containing a party of prominent Chicago people was brought down over the Eastern Minnesota road from Cass Lake yesterday, and went out over the same road to Minneapolis last night. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cooper, Clarence J. Peck, Jr., and Masters P. W. W. Peck, Spalding and Winfield. Frederick Peck was one of the world's fair commissioners, and was also a commissioner to the Paris exposition. J. S. Cooper is an ardent Chicago advocate of the Minnesota park scheme.

It is believed that the present visit of the party to the reservation about Cass Lake had something to do with the advocacy of the Chicago men with the park scheme, but so far as can be learned they did not express an opinion about it while in this city. The party lunched last evening at the Spaulding.

To Basswood Lake.

Steamboat Inspectors Monaghan and Chalk left today for their first trip up to Basswood Lake, a body of water north of Ely that extends into Canada. The inspectors have gone to inspect the steamer Myrtle J, a towing steamer recently put on the lake by J. H. Jeffrey of this city. Mr. Jeffrey's son is running the boat. The Myrtle J, is said to be the first boat put into Basswood lake on which a government inspection was required.

RATE IS UP.

Lumber Freight Rate Makes Expected Advance to $3.

It was given out on the authority of a vesselman this afternoon that the lumber rate from the head of the lakes to the Lake Erie ports would be $3 after today. This is an advance of 25 cents over the vessel rate that has prevailed for the past month. The vesselmen claim that the demand for boats, the lateness of the season, and the uncertainty of the weather are factors that have influenced the raise. As the advanced rate is made effective tomorrow, no new charters at $3 are yet known. There is still a large quantity of sold stocks that must go down the lakes this fall, or there will be a congested condition at most of the docks. The manufacturers say, will not only be felt next spring, when the saving season opens and before the boats are moving, but it may curtail late cutting on the part of some of the mills this winter.

Time Has Expired.

The period of thirty days prescribed for the public expression of mourning for the late President McKinley was up yesterday, and today was the first day that flags might have properly floated at the peak. Notwithstanding the fact that the period of mourning is over, not a few flags in Duluth still floated at half mast today.

The run was said to be due to rumors which cannot be confirmed, that large sums due the bank from Pan-American contractors tomorrow would not be forthcoming.

MORMONS IN OHIO

Their First Church of Latter Day Saints There.

President Snow From Mantua and Attended Oberlin College.

Persecution Drove Volunteers of Faith to Far West.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The death of President Lorenzo Snow, of the Mormon church, removes, it is believed, the last of the obstacles which have stood in the way of the settlement of this sect. It is now generally known that Ohio was in reality the cradle of the church of the Latter Day Saints, and that it was within her borders that the first Mormon temple was erected. This temple is still standing at Kirtland, a village also miles southwest of Palmyra, in Lake county. It is still used by a branch of the sect that does not subscribe to the doctrine of polygamy taught by the founder, Joseph Smith, and carried to its full fruition by Brigham Young and Joseph Cannon.

As is generally known Joseph Smith first made known his doctrines at Palmyra, N. Y. in 1824 or 1825. After he had published the first Mormon Bible through the assistance of a credulous farmer named Martin Harris, Smith met Parley P. Pratt, a resident of Lorain county, this state, who passed through Palmyra on the canal. Pratt became converted to the new religion and invited him to come to Ohio. Pratt was the intimate friend of Sidney Rigdon, a preacher of the denomination called "Reformers" and "Disciples." Rigdon was an eloquent speaker and was extremely popular in and about Mentor, in Lake county, where he resided.

It was in 1830 that Mormonism made its first appearance in the state. Joseph Smith and his brother had fitted out an expedition under the command of Cowdrey to penetrate the then unknown West and convert the Indians who were known to the sect as Lemmings.

In October of that year they reached Mentor, well supplied with Mormon Bibles and literature, and began to proselyte. They were first met with success in a village where a few families belonging to Rigdon's congregation had been converted to the new doctrine. They were an extremely fanatical set, and were constantly looking forward for some wonderful sign to take place. Seventeen were baptized in one night by Cowdrey, and the preacher Rigdon soon followed the example of his flock. This gave the new religion a powerful impetus, and the congregation soon increased to more than 40 members.

Filled with the zeal of a new convert, Rigdon went to Palmyra, where he remained two months, receiving instructions from the Prophet Smith and being permitted to share in the "revelations" that that personage was receiving from on high, he he returned to Mentor in the year 1831. Rigdon returned to Mentor, where he was later joined by Smith and his family. The visitors were overwhelmed with attention, and the congregation soon increased to more than 40 members.

When Governor Nash and his return to Ohio, only this year on their return from San Francisco they were entertained by President Snow, who seemed to be the successor in 1840 of the man who had converted him sixty-two years before.

He mentioned with some pride that he had received his Ohio and his class at Oberlin. Snow was a firm believer in polygamy and had twenty children by his various wives, leaving 26 descendants in all. He was a man of great energy and was punished during the anti-polygamy agitation in Utah by being sent to prison for six months. He was a man of great energy and was punished during the anti-polygamy agitation in Utah by being sent to prison for six months.

The person of Smith for the commercial side of the priesthood manifested itself in the rearing of the temple which cost $40,000. It was rough stone, 9 by 30 feet, and measured to the top of the spire 142 feet. In the middle of the door is a tablet inscribed thus: "House of the Lord, built by the hands of the Latter Day Saints, A. D. 1831." The interior was arranged much after the fashion of the present Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake City. It was converted to the use of a school, and the left a building house. An unsuccessful application was made to the general assembly for a charter for a state bank. On being refused, business was proceeded with free of restraint or state control. The fame of the colony grew, and in 1835 and 1836 there were about 300 converts. Many were drawn thither by mercenary motives. About the time that they became tired the church bank had failed, and its debts were not collectible. In 1837 the prophet left the state, carrying his followers to the Turkish lands, which he claimed to be the true Zion. Among this number was Lorenzo Snow.

The importance of these channels is recognized by all those interested in safeguarding commerce passing into Bering sea, and the light-house board shortly will erect light-houses in that locality. The Pathfinder soon will proceed to the Philippines, via Nagasaki, to take up the work of surveying the south polar regions. Meriden, Conn., Oct. 14.—With $11 in his pocket young August Gilchrist, the 15-year-old son of Frederick Gilchrist, of this city, rode to Buffalo on his bicycle to see the exhibition. ## LOVED ONE

They Thought Was Buried Returned to His Family.

Greenville, Penn., Oct. 14.—William M. Fletcher, of this place, received a telegram from Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 2, announcing the death of his son, Oran M. Fletcher, the previous day. He went to that city on the first train, and at a coroner's inquest the supposed dead man's wife positively identified the remains as those of her husband. The father, too, while skeptical at first, admitted it must be his son.

The death occurred in a saloon where the man had called for a glass of beer and a sandwich. The bartender testified he knew the man to be Oran M. Fletcher. The body was brought here for burial, and many friends viewed it and mourned the death of one they knew to be alive. The widow and three children came to live with the father, who is a prosperous farmer. Saturday the parents and children were both astonished and rejoiced by the report of his death until last Sunday. He does not give any reason why he did not make some effort to see his father, who was not many miles away from Cleveland. Who the man is who bore such likeness remains unknown. Oran Fletcher has not been learned, but he received a decent burial at the hands of the strangers.

Cure for Asthma and Hay Fever.

The statement published below confirms the claim of Dr. Schiffmann that he has now discovered an absolute remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever. Mrs. Mary Zachery, Pleasant Hill, La., says: "I have found your Asthma Cure a permanent cure for asthma, for which I used it seven years ago. I have never had the slightest return of the trouble since. I have also found your remedy excellent in Bronchial affections. I shall ever have a feeling of gratitude for the benefits derived from your Cure."

A Hay Fever sufferer writes: "I have had Hay Fever for fourteen years. I bought a package of your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure), of our druggist and due to its use this is the first summer that I have not been troubled." Mrs. Frank Gullfogle, 6227 Ridge avenue, Roxboro, Philadelphia.

PREVENTED BY SHAME.

Did Not Write Family For Many Years.

Boston, Oct. 14.—"The dead has returned and in the flesh," Postmaster Gilman muttered to his assistant. "There walks Julian Levia, of Ashabula, Ohio, who has been buried these twenty years or more, and of whom no living man in these parts has heard for a quarter of a century."

Twenty-five years ago Julian Levia disappeared. He left a wife and two children and went to Ashabula, Ohio, where he had been a source of great annoyance to him and it was finally decided that he had taken his own life. His wife went into mourning, and the children spoke of their father as being dead.

Julian Levia said that when he left Ashabula he worked his way to Pennsylvania, and after a lapse of years drifted down the Ohio river to Ashabula, where he found his own life. He was very poor and went into the shoe business, and he kept him from writing to his wife and children.

MANAGER CASE EXPLAINS

About Laying of West Michigan Gas Main.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Permit me to make an explanation through your columns of the laying of a gas main in West Michigan street at this time.

First, as to its necessity, and second, as to its being done so late in the season.

We have two 10-inch supply mains up Thirteenth avenue, from there to Ninth avenue, only one 10-inch main, and east of Ninth avenue, again two 10-inch mains.

It has been almost impossible on account of the growth of business to force sufficient gas at certain hours of the day through the single 10-inch main between Thirteenth and Ninth avenues.

It was foreseen last winter that a parallel 10-inch main must be laid before another winter. It was recommended to the council early in the spring and approved. The materials were ordered and arrived about July 1.

I interviewed Manager Warren in the presence of the city engineer, and after hearing all of the conditions affecting the street car service, and the almost impossibility of the company's caring for the public with the work already being done, and knowing that our work would require the company's use but one track when we would be at work, I consented to postpone operations until October.

In the meantime the street at this point demanded the immediate attention of the board of works. One of its members came to me and asked that our work proceed at once so that they could put the street in good condition.

I submitted the entire matter then to the mayor, in the presence of Councilman Butchart, and the mayor advised, in the interests of the public, that as to the construction, and the necessity of not embarrassing the car service any more than was being done at that time, the work of the paving, that the board of public works go ahead, simply spreading crushed rock and paving as wide as possible to make the street passable, and that this department keep its agreement with the city engineer, and when we commenced work to carefully remove the crushed rock, and when the trench was ready to be laid, to complete the resurfacing of the street as fast as possible.

It is to be regretted that this work has to be done, but I desire to assure the public that it will be done as rapidly and with as little obstruction to public traffic as possible. Yours truly,
Manager Water and Light Department,

AT WEST DULUTH

Charles F. Andrews and William L. Andrews, brothers, aged 26 and 24 years, respectively, reached West Duluth last night on their way from Montana, and will visit friends here for a few days. Both young men have been working west of Havre, Mont., for more than a year past, as teamsters for a mining company. They say things are prospering in Montana, but that Havre, Mont., is filling up so fast with men that are looking for work, that there are few opportunities for jobs there now. They came to the head of the lakes to put in the winter, learning that there was a scarcity of labor at that point. The elder one says that in the section in which they have been working, some of the people are very rough and that the camp was often the scene of hot shooting affairs. There is one saloon, a cabin affair, about as long and as wide as a passenger coach, that is so full of lead from the shooting affairs that Mr. Andrews claims the wind could not possibly blow it away. It is, however, the custom of the country out there and when the shooting begins the spectators either sit still or duck under the bar and tables according to the known accuracy of aim.

Teamsters are paid $4 a month in Montana, but the cost of living is so much higher that lower wages in this part of the country are preferable.

CHARGES HYPNOTISM.

Baptist Minister an Easy Victim of Fraud.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 14.—Rev. D. J. K. Maddox, the well-known Baptist minister, who has filed suit for divorce, makes the allegation that his wife hypnotized him; that he was only a "country minister," and that he was therefore an easy victim of her alleged fraud.

Mrs. Maddox has answered and denies her husband's charges, and says that she had been a widow twenty-one years and was induced by Mr. Maddox to marry him on a ship while after the death of his former wife.

He is 56 years of age and he is some years older than she.

He is not only a well-known preacher, but has been a member of the Kentucky divorce suit will be hotly contested on the grounds of the wife's claim for maintenance and alimony.

TOM HOGAN MURDERED

Lake Avenue Saloon
Sunday Morning.

Pat Rivers, One of His Workmen, Charged

Dead Man a Well Known
Character and Well Liked.

Jolly Tom Gehagen, known better as Tom Hogan, was murdered yesterday morning in a saloon at 210 South Lake avenue.

He was stabbed in the heart. The blow was apparently struck by Pat Rivers, now under arrest.

Gehagen has been a celebrated character along the harbor front for the past ten years. He was a big, pleasant, good natured man, with hundreds of friends.

He was foreman of the tonnage gang of freight handlers of which Pat Rivers was a member. Rivers was also well known and well liked, and during his long residence in Duluth, it is said, he was never in trouble but once. It is claimed that he was the man that threw a policeman through a plate glass window of the Spaulding hotel during the street riots of 1889.

Yesterday morning, about 6 o'clock, Gehagen, Rivers and three or four other freight handlers entered the saloon of A. W. Anderson. Rivers was accusing Gehagen of giving him the worst of it loading a certain boat.

Gehagen started back toward the door, but Rivers quickly followed him. One man in the saloon claims that the latter said: "I will kill that —"

There was no sound of scuffle in the saloon. The other men stood about, scarcely comprehending what had happened, and Rivers left the saloon unmolested.

Officer Loftman was summoned and notified police headquarters. Chief Constable, Capt. Besche and Detective Devine hurried to the saloon. They looked the curious crowd out and the men that saw the murder took to the streets.

Speaking to the bartender, Gehagen said: "Take him away, Albert, I'm bleeding."

The bartender separated them. Gehagen died within a few minutes, saying scarcely a word. The other men stood about, scarcely comprehending what had happened, and Rivers left the saloon unmolested.

CARRYING MUCH ORE

Eastern Minnesota Road
Is Having All It Can Do.

Shortage in Cars Delaying the Traffic to Some Extent.

Stony Brook Junction an Exceedingly Busy Place, Now.

The Eastern Minnesota road is at present doing a heavy carrying business between the mines and the company docks at Allouez bay. Six mines, the Chisholm, Clark, Mahoning, Penobscot, Saunier, and the Stevenson are shipping ore as fast as they can obtain the cars.

There is, however, a great shortage of cars, a condition that has necessitated during the past ten days a decreased production at the mines.

The ore is being shipped over the Eastern Minnesota road, a cut-off from Stony Brook to Ells, where it is taken to Hibbing and Virginia. The company has had a large crew at work all the season on the new line and now it is graded and ballasted and in excellent condition.

There is a camp of about 100 men laborers near Allouez on the new line, that has been established all summer. The work done by the line has been finished by Oct. 10, when the men will be sent back to Chisholm. The line is a very interesting place for the men in holes in the ground that they have dug out and covered.

The Eastern Minnesota company, after a long and costly fight, has, it is claimed, conquered three sink holes on its new line. It is now in the way of saving the way of timber, rock, gravel, sand and gravel, and the line is now in the way of saving the way of timber, rock, gravel, sand and gravel.

OUTCLASSED.
Superior Football Team
Not In It With Duluth.

By the decisive score of 16 to 0 the high school football team clearly demonstrated its superiority over the Blaine high school team of Superior on Saturday afternoon at the Driving park.

Rains during the morning and the early afternoon had made the field rather slippery and the wind, which was a hindrance to the game, kept the attendance down to small proportions. The hundreds of spectators that the superior people had promised to bring were not in evidence.

Two twenty minute halves were played, and Duluth, winning the game, kicked off to the Superior.

BANKERS MEETING

Members of American Association Gather at Milwaukee

President Trowbridge Responds to Addresses of Welcome

Reports of Officers Show a Most Satisfactory Condition

Milwaukee, Oct. 15.—Bankers from nearly every state of the Union are guests at the Milwaukee Convention of the twenty-seventh annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, which opened here last night shortly after 10 o'clock this morning.

The convention was called to order by the Hon. Charles F. Johnson, mayor of New York city, by the introduction of Alexander J. Burrows, president of Marquette college, who delivered the invocation.

D. W. S. Rose, mayor of Milwaukee, and James P. Lombard, president of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, were guest speakers. President Trowbridge's response was in part as follows:

"The day has passed by where we expected to have gathered three weeks ago, and it is now more than a month since the earlier date the world was shocked by a terrible crime, which cost the life of our country's greatest statesman. It is to many loyal citizens that the bankers—men whose lives are devoted to business—are more precious and important. As we witness the admiration and veneration for the man at the murderer has softened in anger at the murderer has softened in the admiration and veneration for the man who sleeps, while we think of his great work for this nation in every condition of life. A man above his fellows by reason of his richer character, he had done for us in the development of our highest office undoubtedly had come into the world for such a time as this. Let us tender to him due loyalty, even while we mourn our ruler dead."

A CURIOUS MEMENTO.

P. M. Westaway Brings One From Alaska.

Philip M. Westaway, who has been employed by the United States government at St. Michaels, Alaska, for some time, and who recently returned home, has presented the Duluth Historical and Scientific association a document of much interest. It contains the signatures of a bunch of Filipino prisoners of war that were deported by the government to the island of Guam because of pernicious activity in the rebellion in the Philippine Islands.

The prisoners were taken to Guam on the transport ship Isconcaran and the purser of that vessel got a copy of the signatures of the prisoners. Later the transport was sent to St. Michaels to bring to Portland the troops and government employees there, and Mr. Westaway came down on that trip. He secured the document from the purser and had it, and generously donated it to the Historical society. The paper contains about forty signatures, including "generals de division," "generals de brigada," "coronels," "commandantes," "captains," "civils," etc. The handwriting in most cases is very good, quite up to the average, though the unfamiliar Spanish names and titles make them difficult reading to anyone unacquainted with the Spanish tongue.

SETTLED.

Street Railway Said to Have Paid Louis Felix $5500.

Louis Felix, who was hurt in the accident by which a West Duluth car ran off the bridge just beyond the Misabe ore docks, last summer, is still mentally incompetent as a result of the injury, and this morning his wife, Phoinoise Felix, was appointed guardian for him.

The street railway company has settled Felix's claim for damages because of the accident and Mrs. Felix is the authority for the statement that $5,500 was paid in settlement.

Taken Under Advisement.

Judge Dibel in district court this morning heard the divorce case of M. C. Miller, a truck driver, against May Miller, who did not appear, on the ground of cruelty. Miller claimed that he married his wife at Carlton, and that from that day to this she had refused to cohabit with him or live with him and to fulfill any of her marital vows. Miller admitted on the stand that while he charged his wife in his complaint with going with immoral women, he knew she did that when he married her. Judge Dibel took the case under advisement, and said that if he denied the application it would be on the plaintiff's own testimony.

The case of the Iron Belt Mining company against the Duluth Furnace company went to the jury in the United States court yesterday afternoon, and a verdict of $25,000 for the plaintiff was returned. The plaintiff sued for $30,000 for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of failure on the part of the defendant to carry out a contract for the purchase of ore.

PUNISHMENT

Of Anarchists Is Demanded by American Bankers' Convention.

Milwaukee, Oct. 15.—At the American Bankers' convention today by unanimous consent a resolution presented by James A. Wilcock, of Pittsburgh, was received and adopted by the convention relating to the punishment of anarchists. The resolution recites that there exists an imperative necessity for the enacting of laws by congress to punish assassins and for the suppression of anarchy, by providing:

1.—Capital punishment for those convicted of murder or attempted murder of officers in high public positions.

2.—Adequate punishment by imprisonment of all parties counseling violence to those in authority.

3.—Laws to prevent anarchists from entering into this country.

4.—That we urge upon congress and the state legislatures action that shall keep our land free from the charge of fostering conspiracies against rulers of foreign lands.

Secretary Branch, through the executive council, was authorized and sent a message of greeting to President Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt appointed Messrs. Kaufman, Herrick, Whiting, Pugsley and Mulvaney a committee to prepare a memorial on the late President McKinley. Adjournment was then taken until tomorrow.

RIVERS WAIVES

Geaghan Murderer Is Held to the November Grand Jury.

Strong Net Work of Evidence Is Being Fastened About Him.

Anderson, the Bartender, Says Rivers Was Not Drunk.

Pat Rivers is held to the November grand jury.

He waived his right to a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

He is held—and will probably be indicted for murder in the first degree.

The body of Thomas Geaghan, the murdered man, was forwarded to Ypsilanti, Mich., this afternoon.

All morning the remains of the popular foreman of the "ton gang" lay in state in Durkan & Crawford's undertaking room.

Hundreds of his friends, fellow workers, and curious people called. Many touching tributes to his memory were paid by stalwart longshoremen as they stood by the cypress casket and looked in on the face of the man they had worked for ten and fifteen years for the last time.

The network of incriminating evidence which is gradually being woven about Rivers seems invincible.

Many people say his case is parallel to that of James King, recently sent to Stillwater for life.

The men that sought to testify that Rivers and Geaghan were not in A. W. Anderson's saloon at the same time, were so intoxicated at the time that their testimony was more against than for the prisoner.

Rivers himself admits that he and Geaghan were in that saloon together. The testimony of Alvin Johnson, the bartender, has been pronounced the only testimony worth considering of the six men that were in the saloon at the time.

Mr. Johnson has the name of being a clean-cut man. The police keep a very close record of men in his line of business, and they say that he is to be relied upon. However he says, he is not a drinking man.

Mr. Johnson says that he heard Rivers and Geaghan exchange words. Heard Rivers threaten to kill Geaghan. Saw him follow Geaghan into the lavatory, and saw him come out with blood on his face and hands. Separated them and while doing so saw something "bright in Rivers' eyes."

Geaghan is not the first man that Rivers threatened to kill. In going into the case today the police discovered that he is the same man that was going to kill George Farmer about three years ago.

The Rivers were living at 630 West Superior street at that time and they had some trouble with Mrs. Farmer over the renting of a flat.

Rivers got his gun and waited for more than an hour in the heavy of the Farmer flat, declaring that he was going to kill Mr. Farmer. The latter, however, heard Mrs. Rivers trying to dissuade him from carrying out the threat, and notified the police. Rivers was arrested by Officer E. McLennan, who has since left the police force.

It is claimed that Rivers was not drunk at the time of the murder and Mr. Johnson, upon whose testimony so much stress is placed, says under oath that he is positive that Rivers was not drunk when he had the trouble with Geaghan Sunday morning.

A peculiarity of the situation is that Rivers and Geaghan have always been the very closest of friends. This friendship runs back over a period of twelve years. They were so intimate that Rivers always had the key to Geaghan's room and a standing invitation to sleep there any time he felt too tired to go up to his home on Duluth Heights.

Geaghan, however, frequently sent Rivers off of vessels that the freight handlers were working on, on account of drunkenness. The murdered man was very strict with his bag and would let no member work while under the influence of liquor.

The bloody clothing of Rivers and the blood stains on his hands are likely to cut considerable figure in the trial. The police made the prisoner put both hands down on paper as soon as he was arrested, and the blood which was not dry, shows up strongly on this diagram.

There is also blood on the telephone instrument at the Omaha freight dock, where Rivers telephoned to Wharton's saloon to find out the result of the stabbing.

In all probability the incriminating evidence of the bloody stains will be attributed to a small cut on the first finger of the right hand. This cut is fresh and rather deep. The police say that it might have been caused by closing the knife quickly.

Dr. Bagley, in testimony given at the coroner's inquest yesterday, said that the blood spots on the clothing was the result of spitting blood, and that blood from a wound such as appeared on the first finger of Rivers' right hand would not spurt.

A WIDOW TRICKED.

Glad the Mistake Was Discovered In Time.

Keswick, Cal., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Florence Kilmer, a widow with two children, does not know whether she is fortunate or unfortunate. She arrived in Keswick Friday morning from Linton, Ind., and expected to marry the man who had promised to marry her and be a father to her children, and boy aged 10 and girl aged 12. The man is a miner named J. T. Farnsworth. He was not even in town, for he departed with his bag and baggage only two days before Mrs. Kilmer came.

Mrs. Kilmer views the matter philosophically and deems herself fortunate that the mistake was discovered before it was too late. She is a music teacher of ability and a good deal of "spunk," and is abundantly able to take care of herself and hers.

MINGLED FEELINGS

Acting Mayor Cromwell's Order Is Received With Conflicting Emotions.

Cromwell Talked For Mayor---Hugo Sends a Message.

'Twas midnight on the Bowery! The moon was glinting the glistering thoroughfare with silvery rays. The ambient atmosphere was redolent with whiskey, peroxide and other chemical perfumes.

The odor of whisky to the rounders was as cheerful as Alpine hospice to a fainting traveler.

Suddenly apparitions of blonde, curly-haired, feminine grace rose on every side like steam from the sea.

Gentlemen, your attention for a minute, cheerfully choried a blushing "louse."

"For an hour," was the welcoming cry. "Look not on the cup which cheers, but inclines," she cried.

"We can't," groaned the crowd. "Not as long as Cromwell's acting mayor."

"Drink not at all!"

"Only before 11 o'clock on week days and not at all on Sundays," came the sweetly sibilant voice from the rounders.

"Slack-track whisky, gin, highballs and fizzes," continued the blonde.

Low means from the crowd.

"How would you like Cromwell for mayor?"

Signs of distress and deeper leader moaning.

"Oh, I'm flogging, brace up!" Crack! whizz! A French beveled shoe shot from its manifold covert of filmy fluffery, and sent a host of a bystander many fathoms aloft.

"Here, I paid 50 cents for that hat," shrieked the owner.

"It isn't worth it now," was the hilarious response of a prouetting nymph.

The Bowery was blithesome for a moment, then some person mentioned the fiasco of the dining room and there was a scramble for shelter.

The order of Acting Mayor Cromwell that saloons should close at 11 o'clock and all day Sunday caused much excitement in temperance, political and boozing circles last night.

Chief Crandall that failure to heed the warning would be tantamount to resignation from office.

The order, while not in the least different from the standing order of Mayor Hugo, except in the matter of all day closing on Sunday, is received in sundry ways by sundry people.

The temperance people showed their appreciation by talking of bouquets, medals and majority honors for the acting mayor.

Certain Republican politicians claim that it's a champagne drink at Mayor Hugo, who is away for a month's vacation.

The liquid refreshment interests say that it's a plot against the Irish.

A man prominently identified with the present administration said today: "Chief Crandall did right in enforcing the order from the acting mayor. But mark my word that was done for political purposes. There is a certain class of people that are booming Al-derman Cromwell as the temperance candidate for mayor. This temperance movement is, of course, encouraged by the Democrats, as it is supposed to draw away from Hugo. I tell you its politics are pure and simple."

The temperance people, however, insist that they have not up to this time considered Mr. Cromwell as a majority possibility, and say that he is absolutely right and should be given all credit for what he has done.

Throwing all political produce aside, however, the policy of Mr. Cromwell was just what Mayor Hugo had been the policy of Mayor Hugo had been here.

Yesterday, before Mr. Cromwell's order was published in The Herald, Mayor Hugo wired City Attorney Mitchell from Washington as follows: "If man was killed in saloon Sunday, advise with Crandall and suggest that Cromwell close saloons up tight."

"HUGO."

MR. TOWNE ARRIVES

Returns From the East After Several Weeks Absence.

Preparations Complete For the Banquet at the Armory.

The List of Toasts---Ladies Admitted to the Gallery.

Charles A. Towne arrived in the city this morning from the East, where he has been for a number of weeks. Upon his arrival here he learned for the first time of the large scale on which the banquet in his honor tomorrow evening will be given. He appreciates keenly the honor which is being done him by the people among whom he has lived for many years, and said this morning that he could not find words to adequately express his feelings.

He remarked that as he drew into Duluth on the train during the morning and the thought came to him that he was to leave the city, which has always been very dear to him, his emotion threatened to master him for the moment.

Mr. Towne is in splendid health, and while his time has been filled with business since his absence, he seems to have thrived physically upon it. He had very little to say other than that he had been very busy and expected to be so for a period that so far as he knows promises to be indefinite.

He will be here for some days arranging for his removal to the East.

The ladies will have an opportunity to hear the speeches made at the banquet tomorrow evening, but they will have to hear them from the galleries at the Armory. The pressure becomes too great for the committee to withstand and they compromised the matter by making the above arrangement.

The ladies will be admitted only upon presentation of tickets, which will cost them 50 cents each. The managers of the banquet do not want it to be understood that they are trying to make any money out of the attendance of the ladies, but decided to charge an admission in order to limit the number.

No person will be admitted to the galleries. All ladies who expect to be present are requested to be in their seats not later than 9 o'clock.

The St. Louis hotel will entertain the the out of town guests and parlor G of the hotel, will be the headquarters of the Bryan and Towne club all day Wednesday.

Voters from twenty-one counties in Minnesota and several towns in northern Wisconsin have written that they will be present at the banquet. They are every county in the old Sixth district will have from one to a dozen representatives and the committee take place with regard to their old leader.

The program of toasts has been arranged as follows:

Grace.....Rev. Harry White, Townsminister.....Joseph Ward Reynolds

"Democracy".....Hon. John L. Bryan

"Moral Courage".....Hon. William J. Bryan

"What I Know About Lumbering".....Hon. L. A. Rosing

"The Vanquished Victor".....Hon. J. M. Owen

"Progress of Municipal Government".....Hon. James Gray

"Charles A. Towne".....Hon. C. O. Johnson

"A Retrospect".....Charles A. Towne

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained at Kugler's drug store, Bennett's news stand and the St. Louis hotel news stand.

Arrangements have been made whereby street cars for West Duluth, Superior, Woodland, Lakeside and the East End will be provided at the close of the banquet, thus avoiding any disturbance by those who would otherwise have to leave before the close.

Sing Toy Dies.

Sing Toy, a popular member of Duluth's Chinese colony, died this morning at St. Luke's hospital. He was 41 years of age and leaves a wife and child in China.

Sing Toy came to Duluth about two years ago from Boston. He worked here in a Chinese laundry, but two months ago was taken down with consumption.

His body was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it will be held pending the funeral arrangements. The body will probably be buried here for the present, but later it will be removed to China.

COOK IS EXPLICIT

The Judge Advocate Fails to Shake His Testimony.

Strengthens His Endorsement of Admiral Schley's Conduct.

Brooklyn Was Struck Twenty Times In the Engagement.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The afternoon session of the court of inquiry began with the recall of Capt. Francis A. Cook, for the purpose of correcting testimony given by him yesterday. While he was on the stand, Judge Advocate Lemly asked him the following questions:

"What conversation, if any, did you have with Commodore Schley about the retrograde movement, either before or after the signals were made under order given on May 26 to return to Key West?"

"As near as I recollect the circumstances, there was a conversation after the message had been brought to me that signals had been made 'Head for Key West by Yucatan channel.' I did not understand the signal, and don't recollect that at that time anything had been said about that. I went to see the commodore about it. I asked him what the signal meant, and he said that he must lead the ships. I must seek some place to coal then and he said that he would find an opportunity to coal the ships. I must keep within striking distance of the commodore."

"I said that I recognized that he felt the responsibility as no one else could and that it was a serious question. He answered that he recognized that fact, but that he must act in accordance with his judgment, whether right or wrong; that personal consideration was of no account when the safety of the fleet was considered. That is about all I recollect."

Was anything further said at any other time of the county, and the commodore?"

Not except what I have stated in regard to the fact of having gotten coal about the Texas."

"Can you state whether this conversation took place before or after the signal was made regarding the coaling of the Texas?"

"This conversation took place, if my memory serves me right, between 8 and 9 o'clock on the evening of May 26, after the signal was made, and before we were to return to Key West."

"When did the conversation between you and the commodore take place with regard to coaling the Texas?"

"That was on the evening of the 27th."

The court asked the witness the following questions:

"What instructions did you receive from Commodore Schley regarding the movement of the Brooklyn after it was discovered that Commodore Schley was coming out of the harbor of Santiago?"

The commodore was on deck when the discovery was made and when we went forward the ship was moving toward the entry. Everything had been connected with regard to the handling of the ship at his post or the place he had elected to stand, which was near the commodore. I was not in communication with him. I don't recollect any specific instructions. We were standing in the chase of the enemy."

"Please repeat any conversation that took place between Commodore Schley and yourself from the time the Spanish squadron came out until the Brooklyn was steamed on her westerly course in the chase of the enemy."

"He several times spoke of the position of the enemy. At one time he spoke of the turning of one of the ships from relative to the turn to the westward. I saw it, I saw it, the Viscaya, I think, turn out and turn in again. He spoke of that. He said the coming time to look out for the torpedoes or torpedos, torpedos boats, I think. I know at that time that he was in communication with me and I turned to him and said: 'Look out for torpedos boats' or 'torpedos attacks.' He said: 'Aye, aye, sir,' and left me. I have no recollection of seeing them. I did not concern myself much about them. Then there was the conversation as to putting the helm apart, which I already have stated. He spoke distinctly to me during the action about cautioning the men at the batteries to fire steadily."

"He does."

Mr. Rayner: "What damage or injury was done to the Brooklyn on the day of the battle by the Spanish ships?"

"My recollection is that she was struck twenty times by the shells of some forty injuries, but examination showed twenty shot holes."

"This refers to the shells that were fired from the batteries at the end of the battle that so far as the ship herself was concerned, she was ready for action again. She was not materially injured. The most injury was done by a shot that entered the midship compartment and tore things up pretty badly. There were shots through the smokestack that might have interfered with her draught. Of her five-inch battery there were seven out of the twelve carriages that had been injured to such an extent that we could not elevate them. In fact at the end of the action, we were lifting with pieces of board, in imitation of old chopping blocks."

"Court: 'Were those injuries you last referred to caused by the shot?'"

"No. They were caused by the fire of the guns and the spring of the elevating gear."

Mr. Rayner: "Was Commodore Schley's injury done to the Brooklyn on the day of the battle, one of danger?"

"Yes, much as anyone on board. He was in the open all the time."

The court: "How far was the Colon from the Brooklyn when the turn to starboard was completed?"

"Two thousand or 3000 yards."

Lieut. Commander Sears resumed the stand when Capt. Cook retired. He testified in regard to the arrival of the flying squadron of the Seventh National bank, to resume business about Nov. 1, and to continue the name of the corporation as the Seventh National bank.

NEW POINTS. Canadian Lumber Company Raises New Tax Questions.

Some important questions were raised in the personal property tax case against the Rat Portage Lumber company, which was decided by Judge Dibel in district court this morning. Among other points that were raised by the company, one was that the logs were in transit between this country and Canada, and were therefore under the interstate commerce act and beyond the jurisdiction of the state. Nevertheless the company accepted a reduction in its valuation of logs to $15,000 in the amount for which judgment was entered.

The company cut some logs during the winter of 1898-1899 near the northern boundary of the county, and the logs were taxed in this county. The assessors reckoned the logs at $25,000, but the company put a valuation of $8 per 100 feet for the lot, making a total valuation of only $2,400, on which a tax of $122.64 was levied. The company claimed that it had cut the logs in 1898, and that the logs in the harbor at Duluth were cut in 1899, and that the logs were not in the harbor at Duluth when they were cut. The company also claimed that it had cut the logs in 1898, and that the logs were not in the harbor at Duluth when they were cut. The company also claimed that it had cut the logs in 1898, and that the logs were not in the harbor at Duluth when they were cut.

GOOD COFFEE MAKER. Experience With the Berry.

"I have gained twenty-five pounds since I left off coffee and began drinking Postum Food (coffee in its place). I had become very thin in flesh and suffered tortures with heartburn, was a nervous wreck with headache practically all the time until one dreadful day when the good doctor told me I must quit drinking coffee, as he had nothing left to try to relieve me."

I could not drink tea and had tried everything else, even Postum, but put it by at the first trial, because it was tasteless.

Forced to it again, I determined to see if it could not be made palatable and found at once that when I followed directions and boiled it long enough, that I not only liked it but gave it to my husband for several days without any complaint. I have gained twenty-five pounds since taking up Postum. I am healthier today than I have been for years, and give Postum all the credit. Please do not use my name in public. This lady lives at Burlington, Iowa, and the name will be furnished by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., to those interested.

TO RESUME NOV. 1. New York, Oct. 15.—It was decided today, at a meeting of the stockholders of the Seventh National bank, to resume business about Nov. 1, and to continue the name of the corporation as the Seventh National bank.

Our four children have not drank coffee for three years, and all have gained health and flesh. I give Postum one son, who was always sick, has been greatly benefited by its use, and as above stated, I have gained twenty-five pounds since taking up Postum. I am healthier today than I have been for years, and give Postum all the credit. Please do not use my name in public. This lady lives at Burlington, Iowa, and the name will be furnished by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., to those interested.

F. C. Bolin and William Wood, of the well-known Brainerd logging firm of Bolin & Wood, are in the city today on a business trip. Bolin & Wood have recently closed with the Brooks Timber company, of Minneapolis, one of the largest logging contracts that has been made in the Northwest for a long time. The total amount of timber to be logged is between 200,000 and 250,000,000 feet of pine, which was recently purchased by the Brooks Timber company from Cook & Turrish and associates.

Mr. Bolin said today that his firm was probably log about 40,000,000 feet on the contract this winter, though the amount depends largely on the progress made in the construction of the new logging railway into the timber. He says the logging firm is getting into the woods as fast as possible with men and equipment. They brought out a crew of forty men from Brainerd, and during the winter will keep enlarging the crew. Mr. Wood and himself are in the city today in connection with their business interests.

Both D. F. Brooks and H. E. Gippson, of the Brooks Timber company, are in the city today in connection with their business interests.

THE HEARING. Court Room Crowded at Examination of Pat Rivers.

The scene around the municipal court room when Pat Rivers was brought in for examination this afternoon was memorable.

Every available inch of space in the court room back of the railing was occupied. The corridor was crowded and people looking in at the second avenue east windows were so numerous as to darken the interior of the court room.

Rivers, neatly dressed in a black suit with immaculate shirt and collar, looked anything but the part of a murderer.

It was a few minutes before the thousands of eyes were focused on him. He was calm through it all and held his head as high as any man in the room, except those in the back part who were trying to look over the shoulder of the men in front.

When Attorney Neff announced that the prisoner waived the preliminary examination, the prisoner was hurried out of the side door by Court Officer Jensen and into the private office of the court officers. This was done so quickly that most of the curious crowd lost track of him. The next move was made by the plain clothes men, who walked the prisoner right out through the midst of the crowd and over to jail before the curious recognized.

Later in the afternoon, after the crowd had dispersed around the city hall, Rivers was taken to Edy's photograph gallery by a few plain clothes men.

The prisoner did not talk to any great extent. On the way to a police headquarters, he asked for a glass, and in response to a question as to how he felt, he said: "Well, I feel mighty bad over this, but physics I guess I'm right."

GIRL A GOOD "SHADOW."

Follows Man Miles and Has Him Arrested.

New York, Oct. 15.—Charles V. McCarthy, aged 21 years, of 157 East One Hundred and Seventh street, was arrested in the Harlem court before Magistrate Mayo as a suspicious person. Two girls were present to prosecute him. They were Pauline Jacobs, aged 18, and her sister, Esther Jacobs, aged 17, both of 124 East One Hundred and Eighth street.

Miss Esther was at home Saturday night awaiting the return of her sister, Pauline, who had gone shopping. Between 10 and 11 o'clock, she heard some one knocking at the front door, but did not investigate the noise. A little later she heard her sister's voice and opened the door. She found her sister standing there, and also McCarthy, who was sitting on the floor. The sisters came to the conclusion McCarthy had been trying to get into the house. They spoke to him, but he gave no answer and walked away.

Throwing down her basket, Pauline ran after the man. She followed McCarthy to Third avenue. Here she was joined by Edward Charnick, whom her sister had told her had been with McCarthy. Pauline and her sister followed him, and entering the same car, they rode down to city hall, where the man got off, followed by the two pursuers.

He then boarded an up-town train. The two shadowers followed him and started up-town. No policeman had yet been seen, but at Thirty-fourth street, Policeman Hubbard got on the train, and Indianapolis, Oct. 15.—Claude McDowell, of Yorktown, this state, is perhaps the most persistent and at the same time the most successful deserter with whom the United States army officers have ever come in contact. He has been captured three times, but each time he has managed to escape, and is now on his way to join his young bride in the Philippines.

One night he disappeared from the camp in the Philippines, and the next day he was in the Philippines. He had been captured by the army officers, and was being taken to the United States. He was taken to the United States, and was being taken to the United States. He was taken to the United States, and was being taken to the United States.

On Wednesday last Mrs. Liebeck came to Burlington, Liebeck and the American, who still insists she is his lawful wife, went to the home of Sheriff Ballou. Liebeck insisted that the alleged marriage in Europe had been performed by a friend who had no authority to perform the ceremony.

AT WEST DULUTH

A very unique outfit passed through West Duluth this morning on its way to Duluth. It consisted of a man, his wife and several children, in a sort of primitive schooner rig. The wagon was covered with an old canvas through which stuck a stovepipe. The wife and children could be seen peeping out over the covering at the front. The owner of the outfit sat in front to drive. His team consisted of a horse and a cow harnessed together. It was not a well-matched team, but appeared to answer the purpose.

The fire had a good start and the car was practically destroyed before the department could reach it.

SEEKS AN ENTRANCE

Black River Falls Electric Company Asks For a Franchise.

Agree to Begin Construction Within a Year's Time.

Street Railway Company Comes In For Several Sharp Jabs.

At the council meeting last night:

A 30-year electric franchise was asked for.

Installation of street car speed was considered.

Plagman was ordered for Smithville crossing.

Electric transportation to Heights was requested.

Zentil Telephone gross earnings report received.

Fifth avenue viaduct was urged built quickly.

Estimates for widening Piedmont avenue were received.

North Alaska avenue houses were ordered numbered.

Protest was made against an East Fifth street sewer.

The city is asked to give the Black River Falls Electric company a 30-year franchise.

An ordinance containing this request was introduced in the council and referred to the ordinance committee for future consideration.

There is no immediate danger of the franchise being granted without an expression of public sentiment.

Its introduction was a surprise to thirteen of the fourteen aldermen present.

There was some discussion as to whether or not the ordinance should be formally incorporated in the council proceedings, but it was finally decided that the ordinance should be taken up at the next meeting.

The Black River Falls company is a Wisconsin corporation controlled by a well-known Duluthian.

It is developing a water power of the Black river at a point about eight miles south of Superior.

Recently the council of Superior granted it a 30-year franchise similar to that now asked of this city.

If the franchise is granted the backers of the Black river concern say they will be willing to forfeit it if actual work on this city is not begun within a year.

They also promise to have power of not less than 20 horse power transmitted over the proposed Duluth lines in two years.

Another ordinance introduced last night for the purpose of limiting the speed of street cars on Lake avenue and Superior street between Twenty-third avenue west and Third avenue west.

Alderman Trevillion, the author of this ordinance, says that the street cars run entirely too fast through the center of the city.

Under the present ordinance the points mentioned are twelve miles an hour, while a speed of fifteen miles an hour is permitted down Lake avenue.

The ordinance committee will take up the ordinance at its next meeting.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Northern Pacific railway company to station a flagman at the intersection of Smithville and Twenty-third avenue.

This crossing is a dangerous one, and the company is asked to station a flagman at the intersection of Smithville and Twenty-third avenue.

The street railway company came in for much hostility. There was a good deal of discussion as to whether or not the company should be allowed to install a counter balance system without delay.

Subsequent resolutions were introduced for the purpose of limiting the speed of street cars on Lake avenue and Superior street between Twenty-third avenue west and Third avenue west.

Alderman Johnson, who is the only member of the council who has introduced a resolution calling for the construction of a bridge connecting the city with the mainland on the Tenth avenue west viaduct.

He said that the hundreds of working men that were compelled to cross the viaduct at that point were suffering from the cold and that the city should do something to help them.

The resolution was adopted.

The work of putting in the cement foundation for this viaduct will begin next week according to the present plans of the contractors.

The structural steel is expected as soon as the foundations are in.

Alderman Mayor Cronwell had a resolution passed directing the city engineer to prepare a house numbering plat for property on the city.

We had heard considerable of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine, and knew that for years it was considered in the East, where it was known by both physicians and laymen, as the very best blood and nerve remedy in existence.

We also knew that it was sold only by one leading pharmacist in each city and town, and in view of all information we feel honored to represent it in this section.

And we can truthfully say that the sale is and can be made in a most successful manner, and that it is doing lots of good hereabouts.

And we guarantee it to cure all blood and nerve disorders, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaint and dyspepsia. And we guarantee it to give strength.

The Zenith Telephone company submitted a brief report on its gross earnings, showing that for the year ending June 30, 1901, the gross earnings amounted to $3,285.22.

Under the company's franchise the city gets 2 per cent of the gross earnings.

No report has yet been made of the changes proposed by the Zenith Telephone assembly, that the Zenith company was violating its franchise by using a cheap wire instead of a high grade copper metallic system.

City Engineer Patton reported to the council estimates for cutting away part of the famous Point of Rocks in order to widen Piedmont avenue at Thirteenth avenue west.

Mr. Patton says that it will cost $320 to cut away a strip of the rock ten feet wide and $325 to cut away a strip fifteen feet wide.

The bulk of interstate and West Duluth traffic will be thrown on Piedmont avenue, which is a narrow street, and the widening of the street, when the Garfield avenue viaduct is built, will be a most desirable thing.

At present it is but a narrow street, and the widening of the street, when the Garfield avenue viaduct is built, will be a most desirable thing.

The department of public works notified the council that in maintaining the proposed sewer on Fifth street from Fifteenth to Eleventh avenues east, this sewer was properly petitioned for by the residents of the block.

The council was asked to reimburse the department of public works for the cost of the sewer.

Especially if I caught cold or over-exerted myself I tired very easily and often when working about the house my back hurt me so that I was obliged to sit down and rest myself. I tried many remedies, but could get nothing to relieve the trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended I procured a box at W. A. Abbott's drug store and commenced using them. ## AN ERROR.

Game Law of Last Session Seems to Contain One.

There appears to be a curious error in the law of 1901 relating to the protection of game, and it is possible that in amending the law on deer, the legislature failed to carry out its purpose and left the animal unprotected.

The law of 1901 was in the nature of an amendment of the law of 1897, which was the latest pronouncement of the legislature on this subject.

The law of 1897, which was the latest pronouncement of the legislature on this subject, provided that no person shall kill or take any deer or elk at any time, except that deer may be killed between Nov. 10 and Nov. 30 of the same year, but no person shall kill more than three deer in any one season; provided, that no buck, doe, or fawn shall be offered for sale or sold at any time.

The section amended had after the word "deer" the words "and fawn," which are omitted in the amendment. The provision relating to the number of deer that may be killed in any one season, in the law of 1897, was amended, the number in the law of 1901 being five in place of three.

The law of 1901, which was the latest pronouncement of the legislature on this subject, provided that no person shall kill or take any deer or elk at any time, except that deer may be killed between Nov. 10 and Nov. 30 of the same year, but no person shall kill more than three deer in any one season; provided, that no buck, doe, or fawn shall be offered for sale or sold at any time.

Whether the courts would hold that it is in the law to kill the deer at any time, because of this omission is a question, and it would hardly be safe to rely on the law as it stands.

MARKET FOR FURS

One Thousand Men Hunting and Trapping Around Dawson.

Industry Yields a Revenue Every Year of Nearly $350,000.

Marten the Most Numerous and Black Fox the Scarcest.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald).—A report emanating from Dawson is to the effect that that city is the central market for a vast extent of fur-bearing country, stretching from the Mackenzie basin to the coast range and from the Porcupine to the Hootalinqua. In this area, perhaps, 1500 men are engaged in hunting and trapping, exclusive of the Indians, and from Dawson, fully 40,000 peltries are annually exported to the great fur markets of London and New York.

The industry yields a revenue every year of nearly $350,000.

The season is now at hand when the hunters and trappers are moving their outfits to the various rivers and streams where they will winter, and men are leaving Dawson almost daily for their long sojourn amid the "great white silence."

In most cases, the work of reaching the mouth of the river is an intensely arduous nature, as they must pole their canoes to the head waters of the swiftest streams, making long portages, and penetrate pathless woods. But no hardships daunt these Yukon trappers, and they will devote the success they so frequently achieve.

According to a report from Consul J. C. McLeod of the local fur market London quotations govern. These are fixed twice a year—March and August—by a board of principal dealers in the city, and prices are gauged according to that scale in all parts of the world, except Russia. The present rates, compared with last year's prices, show an increase on bear, weaver, otter and mink, and a decrease on silver fox, marten, and marten. On most other peltries quotations are the same.

A wide difference is often noted between the maximum and minimum figures. This is due to variations in the shade and quality of the fur, and to the time of the year in which the animal was caught. For instance, pelts of bears caught in the spring, just after the hibernating process is over, are worth much more than those secured in the fall, because the fur is soft and thick, instead of harsh and thin. In all pelts, winter fur commands often three times as much as summer fur in price, and in most cases dark-colored fur is worth much more than the lighter varieties.

Local dealers say the pelts in this vicinity are of better quality and obtain higher prices than those taken along the lower Yukon and on the Alaskan coast. The hair is softer and more glossy in appearance.

In varieties, martens are the most numerous and black fox the scarcest. The latter is the most valuable of all the good pelts readily bringing $300, and muskrat is the least costly, being worth only a few cents.

The favorite rivers among the trappers are the Pelly, White, Stewart and Porcupine, while game hunters prefer the Klondike and Forty Mile, because of their accessibility to a ready market. The Bear and Little Salmon, Hootalinqua, Chandelar and Selwyn rivers are also frequented by many trappers, while a goodly band is scattered along the Yukon itself. The Peel and other streams flowing into the Mackenzie basin are also considered choice trapping grounds.

A SLIGHT DECLINE

Wheat Starts Out With an Advance But Weakens.

Improved Cables Were Cause of Early Strength.

Flax Receipts Heavy and the Market Somewhat Weaker.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 15.—The wheat market started at an advance this morning and ruled quite strong throughout the early part of the session. The higher cables from Liverpool were the cause of the opening strength. The rise there was ascribed to partial failure of the Argentine crops, but today's advances from Argentina reported the crops in better condition. The Argentine receipts were light. After the noon hour the market turned weaker and closed at the low price of the day.

Liverpool closed 1/2 cent higher. Antwerp was unchanged and Paris and Berlin were higher.

Primary receipts were 1,500 bus. last year 1,000 bus. Shipments 45,000 bus. last year 25,000 bus. Breadstuffed reported an increase of 1,500 bus. in the wheat visible. Clearances of wheat and flour equaled 45,000 bus. last year.

Corn was steady and fluctuated very little. The primary receipts were 5,000 bus. last year 5,000 bus. Shipments were 25,000 bus. last year 25,000 bus. Breadstuffed reported a decrease of 2,000 bus. in the corn visible.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 801 cars, against 528 last year, a total of 1044 cars, against 528 last year.

Trading in wheat was active and the market strong. The latter part of the session held steady for an hour selling at 95c at 10:30. It declined to 94c at 11, and then rallied to 94 1/2 at 1:30. From that point it declined steadily and closed at 94 1/2, a decline of 1/2 cent from the opening.

Cash sales aggregated 15,000 bus. which was very light considering that two days' receipts were in the market. Prices were unchanged, continuing at December price for No. 1 northern, 2 1/2c under for No. 2 and 3c under for No. 3.

Flax was active and weaker although the market turned stronger in the afternoon. The session registered some of its loss. October receipts were 1,500 bus. last year 1,000 bus. Shipments were 25,000 bus. last year 25,000 bus. Breadstuffed reported a decrease of 2,000 bus. in the flax visible.

MEAN BUSINESS

Police Are Taking Acting Mayor Cromwell's Order Seriously.

Certain Saloonkeepers Have Evidently Looked Upon It Humorously.

Two Arrested and Warrants Are Out For More.

Certain blithe and debonair saloonkeepers are not inclined to take Acting Mayor Cromwell's closing order seriously.

The police are taking it seriously, however, and threaten to mix the saloonkeepers a little police court cocktail that costs $30 a bottle.

Two saloonkeepers were arrested yesterday for alleged violation of the acting mayor's order. Warrants are out today for three others and more warrants will be sworn out later on.

It seems that the acting mayor's order was utterly disregarded by some of the most prominent saloonmen in the city.

The two arrested yesterday were Patrick Lison and John Moloney, of 421 West Superior street.

Warrants will be served late this afternoon on A. Wagner, 312 West Superior street; M. J. Dahlstrom, proprietor of the variety store at 19 Second avenue west; and J. J. Sullivan, of 229 South Lake avenue.

The police are taking a very close watch on all saloons and if they are not closed promptly at 11 o'clock, the names of the proprietors will be taken and the order is jotted down on the police blotter at headquarters.

There was more talk today of the charges against them in police court next Monday. They claim that they were not open at the hour mentioned by the complaining patrolman.

There was more excitement yesterday when Alderman Cromwell on the temperance ticket for mayor. He is well known throughout the city and his temperance interests are commending him warmly for the stand he has taken with regard to the saloon closing.

"Delay of not going immediately into this work."

"Explain what you mean by 'immediately.'"

"Mr. Rayner: 'Just one moment. Does the state of this city mean to me? Into this case? He said he never had such a conversation. Suppose he was irritated? But? Does that affect this case?'"

Judge Advocate: "If the court please, the state of this city is not a subject for discussion. He says he was irritated at the delay. I think it is fair to let him say what he has to say. He should state what delay he has referred to, whether it is the delay on that point or the delay in getting a boat out. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"After the surrender was accomplished, where did the Brooklyn go?"

"When Capt. Cook returned on board we were sent to the eastward at once and the Brooklyn was ordered to follow. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"Did you intercept any Spanish man-of-war?"

"About dusk we met the Austrian cruiser Maria Teresa."

"Was that the vessel you were ordered to intercept?"

"I imagine it was."

On cross-examination, Commander Mason said he had not made the coast supply his special concern. He had not discussed the question with the commodore, nor had he had any conversations with him on any official matters. He was quite sure that the Brooklyn was not particularly short of coal.

After the turn of the Brooklyn the vessel ran on 2000 or 2500 yards. The starboard 5-inch guns had been slightly damaged by previous engagements, rendering it difficult to elevate them, but this defect had been removed by the ingenuity of the men, and none of the guns were out of action, though the rapidity of the fire was reduced.

GOOD ADVICE
Why Everybody Should Read This Article.
Why pay doctor's bills for the treatment of innumerable ills which one remedy, inexpensive and never failing in its wonderfully quick and sure results, will infallibly cure? Cascarine is the remedy which is endorsed by thousands of those who have been suffering from constipation, indigestion, racking headaches and lame backs, catarrh of the stomach, distention, nervous dyspepsia, dropsy of the abdomen and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. If you are afflicted with any of these ailments, take Cascarine. You will see the effects of one bottle. No matter how obstinate or long standing your trouble has been, Cascarine will quickly cure you. It gets at the root of the trouble and puts the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels into a healthy state and unless this is done your ailments will never leave you, but will increase rather than diminish. We have yet to know of one case Cascarine has failed to cure. It is recommended and used by some of the most eminent and successful specialists of today.

CURED OF ASTHMA

After 35 Years of Suffering.

It will be gratifying to Asthmatic readers to learn that an absolute cure has at last been discovered by Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann, that the remedy is an effective one cannot be doubted after perusal of such testimony as that of C. W. Van Antwerp, Fulton, N. Y., who says: "Your remedy, (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure) is the best I ever used. I bought a package of your drug and tried it and one box entirely cured me of asthma, and I have not had it since. I can now go to bed and sleep all night with perfect comfort, which I have not done for thirty-five years and I thank you for the health that I now enjoy. I hope that you will publish this letter, that others may learn of its wonderful virtues."

MASON'S EVIDENCE

Glendon and Maj. Wood are supposed to have been present, and participated in that conversation.

"I do not recollect it at all. It could not be possible I said such a thing. They have misunderstood what I said. I was irritated at the delay. I think it is fair to let him say what he has to say. He should state what delay he has referred to, whether it is the delay on that point or the delay in getting a boat out. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"After the surrender was accomplished, where did the Brooklyn go?"

"When Capt. Cook returned on board we were sent to the eastward at once and the Brooklyn was ordered to follow. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"Did you intercept any Spanish man-of-war?"

"About dusk we met the Austrian cruiser Maria Teresa."

"Was that the vessel you were ordered to intercept?"

"I imagine it was."

On cross-examination, Commander Mason said he had not made the coast supply his special concern. He had not discussed the question with the commodore, nor had he had any conversations with him on any official matters. He was quite sure that the Brooklyn was not particularly short of coal.

After the turn of the Brooklyn the vessel ran on 2000 or 2500 yards. The starboard 5-inch guns had been slightly damaged by previous engagements, rendering it difficult to elevate them, but this defect had been removed by the ingenuity of the men, and none of the guns were out of action, though the rapidity of the fire was reduced.

was between three and seven miles. He said that the squadron was kept steaming slowly all times, but that it occasionally drifted in at night. The torpedo boat Dupont arrived in the morning of the first day and that night performed picket duty inside the fleet. The Casline was on picket duty the next night.

Referring to the blockade of Santiago, witness stated that the vessels were in column, steaming slowly at a distance of from four to six miles.

"The custom was," he said, "to steam a certain distance to the eastward, turning in toward shore or out, and then to the westward, the total run being about two hours. As the Brooklyn could not steam slower than three knots an hour, I should say that the length of the line would be about six to six and one half miles, that is, three miles each side of the entrance."

Mr. Rayner asked witness how many times he had seen Commodore Schley under fire, to which he replied:

"During all the engagements."

"What was his general conduct, manner and bearing on these occasions?" Mr. Rayner asked.

"Excellent, in every particular. He was calm, collected and brave."

Asked to give brief accounts of the battle of July 3, Commander Mason said:

"When I saw the leading ship of the enemy coming over I gave the order, 'clear ship for action.' What was done to engines I do not know, although my impression is that they were started at once. Soon as I reported the battery to Capt. Cook, in the conning tower, he ordered: 'Fire as soon as you are ready.' I immediately gave the order to Lieut. Simpson, the senior officer of the forward turret to fire as soon as he could, giving him a range of 2500 yards. I think the first gun was fired within five minutes, or very close to five minutes, after the first alarm. The rest of the battery took up the fire at once and continued to fire until the morning until the ranges commenced to get down to 1800 and 1600 yards. I asked Capt. Cook what was the range when the ranges were going round, it being necessary for me to know on account of changing the battery below, shifting from one side to the other. He replied that he was going with port helm. I gave the necessary orders and went below."

"As I arrived in the after cabin the after five-inch gun was fired for the first time on the port side and the starboard battery then was engaged for the rest of the day. The ranges at the time we turned, as far as I remember, was about 1900 yards, although I say the position of the ship was being sent to me once. I will say here by way of explanation that the ranges were sent to me by the gunners. If they were sent direct to the officers of the division, after swinging around the range would have been 2300 to 2500 yards."

"I saw none of our vessels after the first signal alarm. As to the position of the enemy, they were on the port bow outside of the harbor when we made the turn with the port helm. At the end of the turn they were on our starboard beam and quarter with one of them at the head of the line. They were very shortly after this, or about the end of the turn, dropped astern and she showed for about the hour and a half following along some short time later, leaving the Viscaya and the Colon. I made the statement a moment ago about not seeing any of the vessels of the squadron. It was just about this time I saw the enemy coming out of the smoke. After the Commodore got ashore we had a running fight with the Viscaya for some time, the Colon going ahead of her and on the inside. The Viscaya finally when well forward on the beam, put her helm hard astarboard. It looked as if she was going to turn and run, but we crossed our path, then immediately shifted to hard aport, went clear around the circle and started shooting at her. We had a chase of some time with the Colon, in which, for a time, she made better speed than we did, but gradually we managed to overhaul her."

Mr. Rayner: "What time was it when the Colon ran ashore?"

"I took no time. I only knew by the report of the time that it was about 1:15 p. m."

"What did the Brooklyn do immediately after the surrender of the Colon?"

"She stopped about a mile and a half and sent officers to receive her surrender. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"After the surrender was accomplished, where did the Brooklyn go?"

"When Capt. Cook returned on board we were sent to the eastward at once and the Brooklyn was ordered to follow. We had trouble in getting a boat out, many of them being disabled."

"Did you intercept any Spanish man-of-war?"

SUFFERED FRIGHTFULLY FROM CATARRH OF STOMACH.

PE-RU-NA MADE A NEW MAN OF HIM.

Hon. W. P. Wand, Bond Clerk United States Custom House, in a recent letter from 1434 Leavenworth Street, San Francisco, Cal., writes as follows:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Gentlemen: "It affords me great pleasure to recommend Peruna to all my friends and to all who may read this who may be suffering from that dread disease, catarrh of the stomach. I have suffered from it frightfully. I tried all sorts of medicine but derived no benefit from any. At last a deputy collector of the port, who had obtained great benefit from the use of Peruna, advised me to try it. I did so and felt good effects from the start. I have taken so far four bottles and it has done me good. I feel like a new man and enjoy life now, something that I have not done before for months."—W. P. WAND.

CATARRH of the stomach is one of the most common diseases of modern times. This disease is generally known as dyspepsia. At first people try to cure themselves by dieting or using some one of the many pills and powders recommended for this affection. After that generally a doctor is consulted, as it is so going to turn out, the liver is thumped and the blame fastened upon some one of the digestive organs.

Many of these people go the rounds from doctor to doctor without receiving any benefit. Sooner or later they are bound to hear of Peruna.

It would not be possible to find any town or city in this country where someone could not be found who has been cured of catarrh of the stomach by Peruna. Once cured these people continue to recommend Peruna as long as they live.

In this way the dyspepsia victim is sure to hear of Peruna. The news of Peruna's virtues is spread among the people by those who have used it and have been cured which is a thousand times more potent than all the advertisements in the world. Having heard that Peruna cures some one else he tries it. His experiment almost invariably ends in complete recovery.

The doctor has called dyspepsia a liver complaint or indigestion was early the commonest of all ailments. A full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanatorium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. Hanna asked about the Oregon in the chase. Witness said that her course was about 600 yards from the Brooklyn and on the Brooklyn's starboard quarter. In reply to Capt. Lenix, witness said he had first seen the Colon lying in the harbor at Santiago on May 29, the day after the arrival of the flying squadron. In reply to a question from Capt. Parker, Commander Mason said "the muzzle of three of the 5-inch guns were swelled, but we fired with them and kept on firing notwithstanding this trouble."

The court asked a number of questions before discharging the witness. In reply to these, Commander Mason said that beyond sending men aloft and having Capt. McCalla go ashore no effort had been made by the flying squadron to determine whether the Spanish were in the harbor at Cienfuegos; that he knew of no American ships being between the Brooklyn and the Spanish ships when the Brooklyn was turning to starboard July 3; that when the Spanish fleet came out of the harbor, the Brooklyn was near her regular blockading position which was 600 yards from the Moro; that on the voyage from Cienfuegos to Santiago the fleet had been delayed by the smaller vessels especially the Eagle, and but for these vessels better speed could have been had; that the Commodore had observed the best of the Colon from the foretop of the away and had noted that some of the shots from the American ships fell short and while the Commodore was not at all engaged that the guns in the Spanish vessels fell outside the American vessels; that he had concluded from this evidence that the guns in the Spanish vessels were swelled; but he did not know the cause, when the symptoms all disappeared.

ARE AGAIN TAKEN IN

Take Advertising Scheme Catches Several Duluth Merchants.

Purported to Be In Interest of Government Employees.

Solicitor Collected Some Money and Now Badly Wanted.

Another fake advertising scheme has apparently been worked with success on certain merchants of Duluth.

In the Fakes' Credit association this city must have an unusually high rating.

Some time ago a brunette young man, rather tall, pleasing in appearance and interesting as a talker, called on a body of government employees.

He informed them that he would get up a handsome souvenir for their organization. The government employees were to have half tone pictures of themselves and the book was to be filled with advertising. The organization was to receive 25 per cent of the money paid on advertising.

Several of the largest business houses fell in with the scheme and singular as it may seem they paid for it in advance.

Detectives are now endeavoring to locate the tall, brunette young man. It is claimed that he collected considerable money and that only $10 was turned over to the government employees.

They took in lots of money before they were exposed by William E. McEwen, the secretary of the state federation.

As one of the young men was leaving town he is said to have remarked that Duluth was "ready money for anything from a cold brick deal to shaking loaded dice."

At the first sale but 15 per cent of the lots were realized and at the second 25 per cent increase over the first. At the sale yesterday $20,000 was realized which is over 25 per cent of the taxes. Do not delay treatment. Thoroughly cleanse the system of the humors on which this ailment depends and prevent their return.

The medicine taken by Mrs. Ida E. Ward, Cove Point, Md., was Hood's Sarsaparilla. She writes: "I had a disagreeable itching on my arms which I concluded was salt rheum. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and in two days felt better. It was not long before I was cured and I have never had any skin disease since."

OMAHA'S MR. HYDE.

A Slayer of Animal Pets at Night.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 15.—The addition of Walnut Hill to a picnic over a "neighborhood monster," who has this week gained prominence as a poisoner of cows, horses and chickens. The unknown Mr. Hyde has appeared in the same vicinity before in the role of a brute, a dozen vacant buildings and barns being sacrificed to his mania within a month.

Every effort was made on the former occasion to catch the monster without success. The incendiary was in the habit of appearing in an alarm himself after a fire had been started, and several times a slender, bearded man was seen running from the scene. He is either a negro or his face is blackened with charcoal.

When the midnight illuminations had ceased to become a novelty, the unknown incendiary turned his attention from arson to the less dangerous indulgence of murdering live stock. With a purposeless meddlery which characterized his earlier work, he ended animal life wherever he found it. His first victims were a Jersey cow and calf belonging to Mrs. Anton Nels at Port and Alker street. The cow was in perfect health at milking time in the evening, but two hours later was found dying with its head cast by its side.

Dogs, Belgian hares, and finally thirty chickens in a group were marked for slaughter by the prowler until the Walnut Hill residents were frantic. Homeholders are keeping guard with shotguns over their animal pets, declaring that the offender is an enemy to the human race, and as such must pay the penalty if he is not caught.

The police believe that the trespasser leads a respectable life by day, but counterfeits his outrageous deeds by night. There is so far no tangible clue.

TOUCH OF HIGH LIFE.

Freddie Gebhard Gives Sioux Falls a Sensation.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 15.—Fred Gebhard, who has been in town several months establishing a residence for a divorcee, was finally furnished the people something to talk about. In honor of the wine supper, which many of the leading legal lights, big politicians and high rollers were invited. There was no limit on the expense and no curtailment of the quantity of liquor should drink. There were delicate viands from the Atlantic coast, fruits from our new possessions and wine direct from France. Costumed waiters drew the coals and later carried off the guests as they rolled from their chairs. The affair was said to have been gorgeous up to the time the memory of the guests vanished and it is supposed it was brought to an end the same way.

For sprains, swellings and lameness there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it. For sale at Boyce's drug store.

FRAUD CASES.

Rathbone, Neely and Reeves Indicted at Havana.

Havana, Oct. 15.—The indictments in the Havana postoffice fraud cases, sent by the fiscal to the audiencia, implicate Peter G. Rathbone jointly with C. F. W. Neely and W. H. Reeves in defrauding the government, his completely being based on the contention that he permitted and therefore consented to and tacitly authorized the fraudulent transactions.

The whole amount of the alleged embezzlement on all counts in the indictment is estimated at $300,000. The fiscal has recommended that each of the accused be fined in this amount, and also that Rathbone be sentenced to imprisonment for twenty-five years, Neely for twenty-five years and six months and Reeves for twenty-four years and six months.

The fiscal has further recommended that Moxia and Mascara, stamp clerks, be sentenced to imprisonment for six months and one year respectively.

Regarding the destruction of surcharge stamps, the fiscal says the amount sent to Havana was $20,000 and the amount sold $25,000, leaving $5,000 as the balance to be destroyed.

Neely reported that he had destroyed stamps to the value of $302,500, leaving $20,000 which was used to make up the deficit actual money stolen from the receipts.

Dyspepsia cannot be long lived because it is not nourishing until it is digested. A clearer stomach cannot digest food. It must have assistance. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

FEDERATION*Of Women's Club Holds*Annual Convention*at Owatonna.

Owatonna, Minn., Oct. 15.—The state federation of women's clubs opened its seventh annual convention yesterday at the First Baptist church in Owatonna.

Three hundred club women participated in the opening session. Of these, 120 were accredited delegates representing eighty-three of the clubs in the state.

After listening to an oration recited by Mrs. Fred Church, and an invocation pronounced by G. M. McCall, a welcome to Owatonna was delivered by W. C. Kautz.

The delegates then gave their attention to the annual address of the president, Mrs. Lydia P. Williams. Although Mrs. Williams' address was anticipated, made something of a departure from established custom in confining her annual report closely to practical club work, the address revealed again the brilliant wit which has given Minnesota's federation a prominent place among the women's clubs of the country.

The problems which now confront the club women of Minnesota were referred to, but received no comment in the president's annual report.

After a recessing approval of Mrs. Williams' address, the delegates gave attention to the report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. F. Graves, told of the growth of the federation from its inception in April, 1892, to its seventh year's history of progress, and of the various lines of activity. The federation has now one club during the year and gained for.

The most notable fact reported by Secretary Mrs. Williams was the adoption of the ballot system by the clubs. The treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Butts, announced the total receipts of $255.35, leaving a balance of $20.25. These encouraging accounts of federation progress were continued by the report of the seven congressional districts.

EASY TO GET THEM*Hunters' Licenses Can Be*Procured From Town*Clerks.*The Amendment of Last*Winter Made This*Possible.*Rule Does Not Apply,*However, to Non-*Residents.

It is not generally known that those who wish to take out licenses to hunt deer and moose need not make a trip to the office of the county auditor to get them. That was the case as the law originally stood, unless the county auditor appointed deputies over the county for the purpose of issuing licenses.

The legislature last winter amended the law, however, so that now licenses may be secured through any city, village or town clerk. That is, licenses for residents of the state may be secured that way. Licenses for non-residents must be secured by personal application at the auditor's office. A resident of the state may apply through any clerk of his county. The clerk may then send in the request in writing, accompanying it with the license fee of 25 cents, proof of the applicant's residence, and a receipt from the physical description provided for by the law. Residents of unorganized townships may apply for such license to the nearest town clerk of the same county. The description includes the age, weight, height, complexion and color of hair and eyes, and the signature of the applicant.

When the license is returned from the auditor's office the clerk is entitled to a further fee of 25 cents for his trouble. He costs 25 cents to get a license in this manner, while 25 cents is enough when it is procured through the auditor's office.

Dear Sir: I received your favor of Aug. 2, and I am very glad to know your readiness to enter the enterprise in regard to the islands in the Pacific ocean. I have not the slightest doubt that we can get hold of the entire group at a reasonable figure.

The inhabitants still live in tribes but some of them are partially educated. Their chiefs are mostly ex-gold people, somewhat inclined to civilization. A great many of the natives are still cannibalistic, but the danger

ANOTHER EMISSARY

Has Been Sent In Search of First Messengers.
Headquarters of Brigands
Has Been Located.

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—As no news has been received here from Messrs. Baird and Haskell, the missionaries who have been attempting to get into touch with the brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, a third missionary has been dispatched in quest of them and the brigands.

New York, Oct. 17.—Rev. R. Wardlaw Thompson, director of the collegiate and theological institute at Sofia, cables from Samnovo, Bulgaria, to the Journal and Advertiser the following details concerning Miss Stone, the kidnapped missionary: "The headquarters of Miss Stone's captors is a thickly wooded mountain top near the boundary line of Turkey and Bulgaria. Miss Stone has only light summer clothing and a cotton dress. The brigands refused to allow her to keep her baggage, but let her have a Bible. The leader of the band is the notorious Boucho, from the Bulgarian town of Dubnitz. "We sent word to Constantinople, pointing out that being private individuals, we cannot prevent the government from pressing the brigands; also, that the ransom is too pitiful. No such sum was ever before demanded. No rejoinder has yet been received. Usually brigands ask about £100 and agree for half. "Twenty thousand Turkish pounds means two horse-loads of gold, and that is more gold than there is now in Bulgaria. Besides, the brigands demand payment in Turkish gold, for which it would be necessary to send to Constantinople. I should not give the brigands the ransom until Miss Stone is safely delivered to us, as they might murder her after receiving the money. The more desperate brigands murder after ransom in order to seal the lips forever. We have three theological institute students who were captured in the Stone party. One tells pathetically how he was robbed of money intended to pay for tuition."

THE HILL-MORGAN DEAL

The First Movement Looking Toward the Consolidation of Northwestern Roads Made In Incorporating the C. B. & Q.

Burlington, Iowa, Oct. 17.—What is believed to be the first tangible move in the Hill-Morgan deal for the consolidation of Northwestern roads, was taken here when articles of incorporation for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company were filed in the county auditor's office.

The capital stock of the new company is $100,000,000 and its object, as set forth in the articles of incorporation, is to acquire the Burlington system and other roads and to maintain a railroad in the states of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Montana, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The life of the corporation began Oct. 15, 1901, and will continue for fifty years with the principal place of business in Burlington, Iowa.

It is said that the corporation will take charge of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy company and the many lines leased and controlled by that company and then transfer them all together to the Hill-Morgan syndicate. This new corporation is legally entirely separate from the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy company. The old company is incorporated under the laws of the state of Illinois, while the new one is controlled by the laws of the state of Iowa. There is but one change in the name of the company. The old is a "railroad company" and the new is a "railway company." The incorporators are J. C. Penney, J. M. Deering, J. D. Connel, W. W. Dabney and M. M. Shelton. They met in Chicago Tuesday and formed the articles of incorporation, but nothing was then given out about the matter. The same papers will be filed in the secretary of state's office at Des Moines. The first meeting of the incorporators of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company will be held in Burlington. The new incorporators probably will meet on Saturday and elect officers and the steps contemplated for taking control of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway will be taken.

RAPID OCEAN TRANSIT

Oil Burning Steamships Which Will Make the Run
From Massachusetts to Ireland In Three and One-Half Days.

New York, Oct. 17.—Edward Croker, of Cork, Ireland, said to be a cousin of Edward Croker, is here for the purpose of promoting rapid transit between Europe and America. The Journal and Advertiser says that Mr. Croker is the general manager of the Cork, London & South Coast railway, which runs through the principal towns in Ireland between Cork and the lakes of Killarney. It is the intention of the company to run a line of steamers from Narragansett bay to Castletown, Bere Haven, Ireland.

From Castletown there will be a railroad connection to Bantry, where the line will join the Cork, London & South Coast railway. The new steamships will be the fastest in the world and are expected to make the run in three and one-half days. In order to attain this great speed a new style of hull has been devised and will be used. That will take up little space and furnish a greater heat. This has been found in Texas oil, which has been thoroughly tried in Russia and found to be very satisfactory.

TO ENFORCE PAYMENT

Panama Courts Order Seizure of Building Owned
By Panama Canal Company to Enforce Payment of an American Claim.

New York, Oct. 17.—The Gazette de Panama, an official organ of the Colombian government has published a legal notice of the Panama courts announcing the seizure of the Panama Canal company's large 3-story stone building in Cathedral square, Panama, to enforce payment by the canal company of $2000 due to Henry Schuler, a United States citizen, says a Colombian dispatch to the Herald.

Mr. Schuler is the oldest United States citizen in Panama. He arrived in 1849 and has been a pioneer in many industries. The building which has been seized contains the offices of the director general, treasurer, accountant and other officials of the canal company, and originally cost $100,000. It is in the hands of a receiver.

SIGNALS BY SAMUELSON

Are to Be Brought Into the Schley Inquiry.
New York's Movement On Day of the Battle.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The first new witness called before the Schley court of inquiry today was Lieut. Commander T. D. Griffin, who, as lieutenant, was the senior watch officer on the Brooklyn during the war with Spain. After him came a number of the junior officers, who served on the Brooklyn during the campaign. As usual, before the new witnesses were summoned, a number of former witnesses were called for the purpose of correcting their former testimony. It had been the intention of Admiral Schley's counsel to propound yesterday a number of questions to the court which it was proposed to put to the witnesses for the purpose of determining to what extent Admiral Sampson's connection with the present inquiry could be gone into, and it was not decided until the beginning of the afternoon session whether the questions should be asked. This decision was then reached largely because it was believed that the information intended to be elicited by the questions could be secured in a more direct and certain way by Lieut. McCauley's testimony regarding signals on July 3.

The question which had been formulated for presentation previous to Mr. McCauley's taking the stand related principally to the movements of Admiral Sampson's flagship, New York, on July 3, the day of the battle of Santiago, and especially to the signals of that day directing the fleet to disperse the Spanish fleet. It is still the intention to present other questions involving Admiral Sampson's relation to the inquiry before the close of the case. It seems probable that their presentation will be deferred until a time shortly before the beginning of Admiral Schley's testimony.

The first witness called for the correction of testimony was Commander Mason, and after him came in succession Lieut. Commander Sears, Lieut. McCauley and Lieut. Webster. Quite a number of additional questions were addressed to Lieut. Webster by Mr. Hanna. Replying the witness said that he had seen signal lights at night on the shore while lying off Santiago. In connection with the question of the distance of shore at Santiago, Mr. Hanna said: "While the vessels were at blockade at Santiago, from May 20 to the inclusive, were you able during the night to distinguish points in shore readily while lying off Santiago?" "Witness replied in the negative. "Could you make out Araduros and Cabanas?" "I was not familiar with the coast at that time and would not have known those points under any circumstances, but it was so dark I think I could not have seen them." "The high hills back of Santiago gave us good points later when we were familiar with them. We could see quite readily." "Could you discover the shore line at night?" "Not without the aid of searchlights." On re-direct examination Mr. Hanna asked Lieut. Webster concerning the hearing of the Iowa and the Texas on the morning of July 3, the beginning of the battle. Witness said they bore aloft the starboard beam of the Brooklyn, the Texas being to the right of the Iowa. The Brooklyn was headed, he said north or north-northwest. In reply to another question by Hanna, he stated that after the surrender of the Colon July 3, he had gone to the forecastle to look for other ships. He had seen the Oregon and the Texas. The smoke of other vessels was visible but not the vessels themselves. When Lieut. Webster was excused Lieut. Commander Griffin was called. He gave details of the Cienfuegos campaign saying that distance of the blockading line there varied from three to seven miles, being farther out at night.

LANSING WAS EXCITED

People of Iowa Village Disturbed Over Report That a Prisoner Would Be Liberated and Town Set on Fire.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 17.—A special writer from Lansing, Mich., says in the jail at this place is confined Clarence Hastings, who is alleged to have assassinated little Clara Dose, of Stoddard, Wis., some days ago, and who since his arrest has been in the custody of the federal authorities. The report caused great excitement from justice, awaiting the arrival of the papers from the governor of Wisconsin that he may be taken back to answer to his alleged crime.

Around the jail are stationed special watchmen, day and night, for all unusual vigilance on the part of the officials. Lieut. Hastings and all are to be kept in the most strictest of guard. The report caused great excitement from justice, awaiting the arrival of the papers from the governor of Wisconsin that he may be taken back to answer to his alleged crime.

PLACE FOR THE WOMEN

In the Church Is Strongly Urged By Rev. T. C.
McClelland Before the Council of Congregationalists.

Portland, Me., Oct. 17.—Because 20 authorized delegates in the national council of Congregationalists failed to present their credentials, the business committee introduced a resolution today providing for a committee to correspond with the conferences of the various states, for the purpose of deciding a plan whereby a part or the whole of the expenses of delegates may be met by the conferences. This resolution was adopted.

A resolution regarding the appointment of a committee of seven to consider the plan of publishing a systematic and graded work for Sunday schools was adopted. Women's work in Congregational churches was the theme considered by the Rev. T. C. McClelland, Ph.D., pastor of the United Congregational church at Newport, R. I. In substance, he said that the latest records of national councils show the names of nine women licensed by some Congregational order to preach in set assemblies, and the names of thirty-seven women who have received full ordination to the pastoral ministry, sixteen of whom are settled as pastors and teachers, that nearly two-thirds of the missionaries of every Protestant denomination are women and that of the total number the roll of the American board of per cent are women.

Bookle, Mo., Oct. 17.—Walter Robinson, of Swinton, Mo., was shot and killed by Marshall Kelly here last night. He rode into town heavily armed and announced his intention of marrying Miss Nannie Nations his cousin, or murdering her if she refused to marry him. He resisted arrest and tried to shoot the marshal, who shot him down.

GOODBYE TO TOWNE

Great Demonstration In Honor of Charles
A. Towne at the Armory.
Seven States and Twenty-Four Minnesota Counties Represented.
Splendid Ovations Given to Mr. Towne and Hon. William J. Bryan.

"Goodspeed to you, Charles Towne. "We have fought with you, fought against you, and some of us have fought against you, but in this hour we are one in wishing that good fortune may attend you and that your silver tongue may ever speak for the right and for the truth as it has in the past." So said a thousand men at the Armory last night, all that could gather around all the tables that the hall would hold. And they said it in no uncertain and no wavering voice. It was not Hon. Charles A. Towne last night. Neither was it Senator Towne. But it was plain Charles Towne, the name by which he has been known in the hearts of the fellow-townsmen that have loved him well, and that turned out last night in an extraordinary demonstration to show that love on the eve of his departure for another part of the country. The scene was an inspiring one and it reminded many of other inspiring scenes that have taken place in the same hall, with the same man in the post of honor.

Among the guests from outside who were seated at the banquet board were: J. M. Hawthorne, St. Paul; B. J. Mosier, Stillwater; J. M. Bowler, Minneapolis; J. A. O'Shaughnessy, Stillwater; J. A. Dubois, Sauk Centre; James E. Bennett, Jr., W. P. Renner, N. P. Kraemer, St. Cloud; James Askew, M. Erickson and Editor Swindhurst, of Wadena; H. S. Lord, J. S. Goodell, T. F. Scott, Barnum; H. C. Dear; J. B. Connors, Judge Lelke, B. O'Rourke, Thomas York, Ellingbo; H. H. Salmon, M. Berkeland, Bravak; T. J. Walsh, M. F. Marion, Tower; Joseph Therrien, E. Therrien, Two Harbors; Clarence Denie, Ashland; John Macdonald, Grand Rapids; John Deutner, Proctor; Mayor Jesmore, Eveleth.

West Superior was represented by W. D. Dwyer, George S. Cooper, T. F. McCausland, John Brennan, Carl Wilson, Harry Smith, William Munro, R. B. Dear and others.

HON. CHARLES A. TOWNE.

Rev. Harry White said grace, and the guests spent a short time in eating, after which the real purpose of the banquet was reached. Bert Fesler, president of the Bryan and Towne club, began by introducing the toastmaster, Joseph Ward Reynolds, in these words: "Gentlemen: Representatives of twenty-four counties and seven states are gathered here tonight to bid good-bye to our distinguished guest. I present to you for toastmaster a gentleman who stands for the main center for which the Bryan and Towne club stands—honest, independent thought and the courage to express it publicly."

C. O. Baldwin and E. S. Corser, of Minneapolis.

Besides his townsmen, many came from afar to do him honor. Seven states and twenty-four counties of his home state were represented, and from Lincoln came the peerless leader of Democracy in two historic campaigns. The long rows of tables were filled, and in the gallery were many women who looked on and cheered as heartily as any. A very elaborate spread was impossible, and no attempt was made to give one. A light but neat lunch was served quickly and smoothly, and cigars followed. Platten's orchestra contributed musical numbers throughout the evening.

The utmost enthusiasm and the deepest feeling characterized the affair. The speeches were notable, and they aroused to the highest pitch the emotions that were ready to be kindled. Mr. Towne and Mr. Bryan each received ovations and the other speakers were given warm receptions. The crowd was ready with its cheers and applause, and each of the speeches was marked throughout by the highest appreciation and the loudest applause.

At the speakers' table on the stage, Joseph Ward Reynolds, the toastmaster, occupied the center. At his immediate right was the honored guest of the occasion, Hon. Charles A. Towne, and beyond him: Rev. Harry White, T. T. Hudson, C. D. O'Brien, of St. Paul; Dr. M. B. Cullum, L. A. Rosling, of St. Paul and H. Jeckel.

RETURNS TO HOME

John Triplett Back In Indiana After a Long Absence.

His Wife Had Married and Second Husband Dead.

Children Accept His Story and Happy Reunion Results.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 17.—Seventeen years ago this city was excited over the sudden and mysterious disappearance of John Triplett, one of its most influential citizens. Today there was another interesting chapter upon its return. He was not recognized but made inquiries relative to his family.

One morning Triplett rose at the usual hour and went to the barn. He never appeared again. Murder was suspected and every bit of territory within a radius of several miles of Muncie, then a little town, was inspected for traces of the supposed dead. Months passed and no word came. Months passed and no word came. Months passed and no word came.

After eight years Mrs. Triplett secured a divorce. A few years later she was married to Cyrus Wilkinson. They lived happily together for several years. The children by the former husband are now married.

One morning, three years ago, this city was startled by the finding of the body of William Stoll, a well-known resident, dead upon the sidewalk near his home. Wilkinson was arrested, but the preliminary trial resulted in his acquittal. He brooded over the shadow that would rest upon his life and several months afterward unable to ward off the suspicion that had been cast upon him, he shot himself. A few days ago an old man, grizzled and bent with age, appeared and inquired the whereabouts of a number of the family. A long story was told.

He finally inquired for his wife, but she having been married after his departure, she could not direct him. She was not known by him. The old man remained in the city, and this morning learned that his family was alive and in the city.

He finally has accepted the reported return of the husband and father, and a reunion of the family is being arranged. It is claimed that Triplett spent many years in the West and that he soon grew wealthy, and, growing old, concluded to return to the scene of his childhood and seek his family. This morning Mrs. Triplett-Wilkinson stated that her husband had returned, but that she had not yet seen him. She is sixty years of age, and when speaking of the case her eyes were dimmed with tears, which bespeak her love for the man who so ruthlessly abandoned her and their children. A happy family reunion is anticipated at any time, as relatives will bring the official father to his family at once, it is believed.

A marriage will also probably be one of the next features that will characterize this reunion. In a marriage in the past the families of the children abandoned when little children will be brought together and the longed-for relatives who they were taught to believe were dead. The two daughters of Triplett, Mrs. William C. and Mrs. James Pollock, are prominent in society here.

CHANDLER

May Again Become the Secretary of the Navy.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The latest rumor of a change in President Roosevelt's cabinet is contained in a special from Washington to the Chronicle, which says that former Senator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire may succeed John D. Long as secretary of the navy. Mr. Chandler was secretary of the navy under President Arthur and made a record which has been equalled by only one of his successors—William C. Whitney, who was President Roosevelt's first secretary of the navy. Mr. Chandler is chairman of the Spanish treaty claims commission.

Senators Lodge and Frye, and other close personal and political friends of the president are of the opinion that Chandler's selection as secretary of the navy upon the ground that he is one of the few men in the country who have the necessary experience and courage to take up the duties of the position, and the disorganization and department politics that have been made by the Schley court of inquiry through the admission of naval officers who have been witnesses before that body have caused the president a great deal of concern. He wants to have in a manner that will assure the public and congress of his sincerity and ability. A few years ago he was the subject of investigation of the department which might further compromise his position. It is believed that the president will demote Secretary Long's resignation very soon after the delivery of his message, and concludes its work. If the secretary does not resign voluntarily before that time.

RICH FIND.

Much Gold Has Been Taken Out of Candle Creek.

Port Townsend, Wash., Oct. 17.—The steamer St. Paul has arrived from Nome bringing 300 passengers and a big shipment of gold. She sailed from Nome Oct. 6 and arrived here too late for quarantine inspection. She will remain over night in the stream. According to reports brought by the St. Paul, Candle Creek is rich in gold. It is said that the steamer arrived at Nome from that creek, in an instance.

The sail has not been told about Candle Creek. I have mined all over the world and I have never seen anything like it. The creek is only about ten feet wide and the bottom is composed of gravel and water to their thighs, shoveling gravel from beneath the water. Good pay dirt has been found on twenty-seven claims.

RIOTING CONTINUES

At Seville But No Further Damage Done.

New York, Oct. 17.—Dispatches from Madrid to the Times says the rioting at Seville is continuing, but no further damage is being done. Attempts to remove the tramway lines have been stopped by cavalry. It was rumored in Seville last night that anarchists intended to attack the convents. The military took precautions to prevent this. The town was tranquil last evening, though troops were still patrolling the streets.

AUTOMOBILE RECORDS

New York, Oct. 17.—In order to test the amateur and professional automobile records on a straightaway track Park Commissioner George M. Brewer of Brooklyn has granted the Long Island Automobile club the exclusive use of Ocean parkway, between the known streets in Brooklyn, during the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 16. It has been claimed by W. J. Vandervort, Jr., A. C. Bostwick and other amateurs that they could drive their carriages faster than a mile a minute over a clear, straight course. An effort is being made to induce the last known professionals in the county to compete.

Human Bones Found In Ashes of Burned Building.

Calumet—Persons examining the ruins of a barn recently destroyed by fire on the east side of Torch lake found human bones, and it is thought a tramp or hunter was burned alive. A coroner's jury will investigate.

The Mineral Range railroad has received fifteen new steel lumber rock cars from Chicago. This is the first shipment of a big order. The cars are of a better pattern and have a capacity of 50,000 pounds each. The Duluth, Shore & Atlantic railroad received five cars of building material consigned to Copper country points Saturday.

Menominee—Guy W. Clark, foreman for Holmes & Son, loggers, was killed in camp near Pembine, at Brown's Spur. He was coupling cars, and the projecting end of logs struck him in the head, fracturing his skull. The accident happened at 6 o'clock p. m. and he died at 7 last night. He was well known in this part of the country, having been foreman for Holmes & Son for years. He was single and his mother lives in Canada.

Crystal Falls—Bill Masse, night policeman at Crystal Falls, had a narrow escape from death at the hands of a drunken man the other morning. The man shot twice at Masse, the first ball passing through his coat and the second striking a suspender buckle, cutting the man's arm.

Ironwood—Express Messenger J. P. Bennett is in an ironwood hospital as the result of being accidentally shot a few days ago. Two hunters boarded Bennett's train and fired at him. One of their guns was discharged. The ball passed through two car seats and the partition between the smoker and baggage car, then lodging in the express messenger's arm.

EXPENSES OF CITIES

Government Statistics Disagreed With By Duluth Officials.

Claim Water Plant Expenses Should Not Be Included.

Also Assert Fire Department Is Reported Too High.

Government statistics about Duluth are again perplexing city statisticians.

According to Census Bureau figures the government report, it costs more per year to run Duluth than almost any other city of the 50,000 class.

The city experts claim that the government report while correct as regards to actual expenditures, is not to be considered for purposes of comparison.

Duluth is the only city in the 50,000 class that owns its water and gas plants. This adds an additional $100,000 per year to the municipal expense, while the other cities of the same class expense such expenses entirely.

City Clerk Cheadle says that for purposes of comparison with the cities of the United States that $100,000 should be taken off the expenses of this city.

The government report shows the expense of the city for the year 1899 was $1,645,190; in 1900, the expense was $2,213,433, and for six months of the current year $1,282,862.

From this it will be seen that the government report shows the city's expenses for the year 1899 were $1,645,190; in 1900, the expense was $2,213,433, and for six months of the current year $1,282,862.

PAT RIVERS.

Who Is Charged With Murder of Thomas Gaeghan.

Pat Rivers, who will be tried before the November term of the district court for one of the coldest-blooded murders ever committed in Duluth, is not an Irishman, as has been stated. He is half French and half Spanish.

When once a patient is rescued by me from the ravages of disease or weakness of any form, I do not rest until I have restored him to his former health.

The above picture is an excellent likeness of him. It was taken immediately after he had waived his preliminary examination in police court Tuesday afternoon.

Rivers was born forty-eight years ago on the shore of the Bay of Biscay, in France. He is one of a large family and of well-to-do parents.

He has lived in Duluth since 1886, working along the harbor front. He was married eight years ago and has a wife and one child about 8 months old.

While sitting for his picture, Rivers suddenly expressed his sorrow for the killing of Thomas Gaeghan, though he did not admit having stabbed him.

Many prisoners, when being "mugged" for the rogues' gallery, give the detectives and photographers as much trouble as possible.

Rivers simply said: "Boys, I'm awful sorry to put you to all this trouble."

The indications are that a great legal battle will be fought by his wife. His friends have engaged Porter J. Neff and the firm of Baldwin & Baldwin to defend him.

RAILS ARE LAID.

Cut Off on West Superior Street Nearly Ready.

The rails have been laid on the new cut-off of the West Superior street line at the corner of the West Third street line at the corner of West Superior street and Garfield avenue to the West Duluth line at Eighteenth avenue, west and West Superior street, it is a double track and will be graded within the next few days.

As soon as the grading is completed the Duluth cars will abandon the run between Third and Eighteenth avenue to West Superior street. The cars will be run on the new line at the upper approach to the new Viaduct at Garfield avenue. The street railway company expects to begin the construction of its new standard gauge line to South Duluth in the near future.

There is no trouble in getting enough men at the Superior work now.

Education In Porto Rico.

The expense of maintaining schools in Porto Rico is very high. If we consider the amount spent for the small number of pupils enrolled, but as the country is gradually brought in closer touch with our own, their system will eventually be changed until it reaches our present state of perfection. In this country the people are being educated to the fact that there is a sure cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and that medicine is Huesteter's Stomach Bitters. It should be taken at the very first symptom. If you would avoid unnecessary suffering, it will give you prompt relief and eventually cure, as hundreds of people, including many prominent physicians, have testified during the past fifty years.

AT WEST DULUTH

There were rumors afloat at the Dynamite club this morning that J. Allen Scott, the Central avenue insurance man and real estate dealer, will very soon construct a new dog kennel.

Mr. Scott has announced to his friends that hereafter his pet cocker spaniel will have to take up its abode outside of the house. Mr. Scott has good reasons, and thereby hangs a tale.

One afternoon this week one of Mr. Scott's children left the house, forgetting to close the front door. His cocker spaniel stood at the doorway sniffing his appreciation when a neighbor's bull dog trotted alone in front of the house. He spied the spaniel and, being out for trouble, the bull dog immediately gave the spaniel his undivided and strenuous attention.

The dogs followed Mr. Scott's parlor for their battle ground, and the rounds that followed in rapid succession were fought with great destruction. Tables were overturned, curtains torn down, lamps smashed and damage done that will foot up to many dollars. The family was practically driven from the house until a neighbor with a stick of cordwood went into the lot. Although the room was wrecked, the principals came out of it with hardly a scratch.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Last evening the Royal Neighbors of West Duluth tendered their retiring oration, Mrs. W. J. Smart, a farewell reception at the Old Fellows hall. Mrs. Smart is soon to leave for Hibbing, her future home. The event was largely attended and passed off pleasantly in a social way.

CURE TO STAY CURED

What the afflicted man wants is not a temporary relief, but a permanent cure. The beneficial effects of my treatment are as lasting as life—I cure to stay cured.

FRIDAY BARGAINS.

The BANKRUPT STOCK SALE is increasing every day

More goods are arriving on every train. Better things for Friday than any day since the sale was inaugurated. Pleased customers by the hundreds are crowding this store to its utmost every day. Nothing could keep business at such a pitch but the low prices that are being made on this great money-saving occasion. The prices are going down every day as the management won't leave a dollar's worth of this bankrupt stock on shelves to interfere with regular fall goods. Keep coming as often as you can, there's no let up to the bargains. In the stock we find new things in every shipment that surprises ourselves. Come tomorrow, Friday, if possible, and avoid the masses of people that will surely be here Saturday.

AFTER POPE.

Steege Would Have Public Examiner Indicted For Libel.

St. Paul, Oct. 17.—F. W. Steege, superintendent of streets, whom Public Examiner Pope sought to connect with alleged discrepancies in the pay rolls of the city engineer's office, will send to the grand jury a letter asking that Gen. Pope be indicted on a charge of criminal libel. Mr. Steege's attorneys will file also a civil action against Gen. Pope, asking $25,000 damages for alleged libel.

The decision was reached early last evening, after Mr. Steege had sought, unsuccessfully to get a present from County Attorney Kane for the arrest of the public examiner. Mr. Steege was backed in his request by First Assistant Corporation Attorney Griggs, who attended the conference held in the county attorney's office. Mr. Kane did state positively that he would decline to act, but he refused to grant the warrant until there had been further developments.

Mr. Steege objects especially to the steadfast refusal of the public examiner to discuss the name of the writer of a letter made public by Gen. Pope, in which charges are made against the superintendent of streets. Mr. Steege visited Gen. Pope's office at the capitol yesterday and in the presence of a witness, demanded to see the letter. Gen. Pope read the letter to Mr. Steege, but he kept the name concealed.

The contention of Mr. Steege and his attorneys is that if such a letter is to be made public, the writer has a right to know the name of his accuser. If other methods fail, an attempt will be made by civil action to have the letter produced in court.

"I do not intend to have my character blackened in this manner," said Mr. Steege, "and I shall fight the case through the courts. My acts have been open and above board, and if there have been any discrepancies I am not connected with them. I have asked the grand jury to act as early as possible, that I may have an opportunity to defend my reputation. This amounts virtually to a stab in the back."

When last heard from they were returning to Duluth to consult the authorities there.

Washburn People Do Not Want Railroad Tracks Torn Up.

Washburn, Oct. 17.—The order of the United States court permitting the receiver of the Washburn, Bayfield & Iron River railroad to tear up the road and sell the equipment and rails has been received here with a good deal of displeasure, as the county voted $15,000 paid bonds to the enterprise. As the result of a citizen's mass meeting a committee of ten citizens, headed by A. W. The Northern Pacific will be interviewed, and possibly be induced to become interested.

A man eats and drinks by the clock, without regard to the needs of nature. Because of careless eating and drinking "stomach trouble" is one of the most commonest of diseases. Sour and bitter regurgitations, belchings, unnatural fullness after eating, dizziness, headache, and many other symptoms mark the progress of disease of the stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of other organs which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach, and all organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, cures obstinate cough and heals weak lungs.

I wrote to Dr. Pierce about my condition, having full confidence in his medicine, and he advised me to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I did. I can highly recommend it to all persons as a good and safe medicine."

LOOKING FORWARD

Iron and Steel Makers Studying Conditions For Next Year.

Situation Is Perplexing on Account of Unusual Features.

Activity In Pig Iron Is Reported From All Markets.

New York, Oct. 17.—The Iron Age says: While ample work for blast furnaces, steel works and rolling mills is assured beyond a doubt for the balance of the year, interest centers in study of the conditions as they bear on the first quarter and first half of next year. The situation is perplexing in some respects because it possesses some unusual features. Conspicuous among these, of course, is that the tube, sheet and tin plate mills are under enormous pressure to meet past engagements, and that it will require months of work to restore to their normal conditions the stocks which the trade must carry, from the great jobber to the cross roads store. Reports from the principal markets indicate continued activity in pig iron. The November output of the valley furnaces has been taken up, with the exception of a moderate block of Bessemer pig. The recent purchases of the leading interest in the central West have included considerable foreign iron and the balance being chiefly basic. It is not true that large orders of the latter have been sold for Pittsburgh delivery by Southern furnaces. Cincinnati notes further activity in Southern pig and St. Louis reports sales of two lots aggregating 25,000 tons. In the Chicago bar trade there has been good buying of steel bars but the tonnage of bar iron has fallen off. Very large amounts of structural material have been taken in Chicago by contractors and by architectural works. In the rail trade a sale of 15,000 tons for Cuba was made by an Eastern mill. It is probable that the Pennsylvania steel rail order for 15,000 tons will be placed this week.

NEW PENSION LAW

Is Proposed By a Nebraska Congressman.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 17.—Congressman Burket, of the First Nebraska district, has framed an amendment to the pension laws, which will introduce at the next congressional session. The laws of 1900 provide for the granting of pensions to all veterans unable to perform manual labor in an amount varying from $2 to $12 a month. A pension rating board at Washington passes on the degrees of disability as based on the reports of the examiners. Mr. Burket's bill will abolish the rating clause and grant the veterans a flat pension of $2 monthly. In addition it will abolish the rating board, do away with two-thirds of the expense attached to examinations for increased allowances and increase rather than reduce the number of clerks at the pension department at Washington. The Nebraska congressman fixes the total annual increase in the pension roll under his proposed law at $2,500,000, and he also estimates that the government spends over a million dollars in establishing the degrees of rating. He will advocate that this money should go to the soldiers rather than to rating boards, examiners and pension clerks.

TO REDUCE DEFICIT.

Action Is Taken By the Post-office Department.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The postoffice department struck its first blow yesterday for a reduction of its deficit on account of second class matter, and excluded a number of New York publications as second class matter, forcing them to pay third-class rates, 1 cent for two ounces. Seventeen publishers suffered by the decision, and the reading matter affected is all fiction of a serial character in book form. The postmaster at New York was ordered to cancel the second-class matter certificates under the law as amended last winter.

ROBBER MAY DIE.

Suffering From Wounds Received From Citizens.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 17.—Two of the supposed robbers who dynamited the safe in a store at Howell, near this city, are in the hospital suffering from wounds received during a fight with citizens.

One of the men lies at death's door. His name is Henry McCarroll, of Nashville, Tenn. The other man who was wounded and captured by the posse is not seriously injured. He gives his name as William Denny, also from Nashville. The third man has as yet not been captured, but it is believed he soon will be found as Marshal Sumpter is positive that he wounded him.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

"Moral Courage" Exemplified In Guest of Honor.

And then the toastmaster introduced William Jennings Bryan, the man who had shared in a measure with Mr. Towne the interest of the evening. William Jennings Bryan, the leader of Democracy during two campaigns, and a leader of Democracy for many years to come in all probability. His reception was only second to that of Mr. Towne. Cheers upon cheers arose, and continued to rise until the speaker quelled the ovation by a simple gesture. Then he turned to the toast, "Moral Courage," a toast particularly fitting because of the man it honored, as follows:

"The trip from Lincoln is short, when the object is so pleasant. I am glad to be here. For several years this state has possessed the most extraordinary attractions. In the great contest of 1896, which began with the effort to rescue the Democratic party from the control of plutocracy, and which ended in gathering 5,000,000 of people to plead the reforms for which the party stood, the issues brought out in the state of Minnesota, two of the leading Republicans, and from that time they have been conspicuous among the reformers of this country. And it is always a pleasure to me to come to Minnesota, which has had a governor who gave to his office the highest type of official duty the state has ever seen, and to the United States one of the grandest, strongest advocates of government of the people, by the people and for the people who ever raised his voice in the senate in behalf of the masses. (Applause.)

"I have been gratified to find here the most harmonious co-operation between the elements of the reform forces, and I have gloried in the patriotism and charity that helped these three elements to join on the issues they agreed upon without quarreling over those they did not agree upon. I regret with you that your distinguished townsman is going to leave this state. Yet I am prepared to commend the wisdom of the move. He can do more good in New York than in Duluth. I am glad the people there, many of whom think the West lacks patriotism and intelligence, shall have a chance to see one of the best representatives the West has ever produced, and learn from him that the West has both patriotism and intelligence.

"I am not here to talk on partisan themes, yet the gathering tempts me beyond the power of resistance to say a few words on the subject of moral courage. From the response that you will bear with me, I have not been here since the election. I was here shortly before the election. I am glad defeat has not dishonored you, and that there are gathered here those whom your opponents would call anarchists, but who who have no superior in good intent. It is the duty of those who fought the battles of 1896 and 1900 to continue to fight, no matter what the result, because those who fight in the cause of truth know no such thing as defeat. I hear the Republicans boasting, and in a nearby state a Republican official has said that in five years the Republican party has demonstrated the truth of all its arguments. I am reminded by this of the story of a man in Tennessee who got drunk and walked up the street in his nightgown, shouting in front of him he said: 'I can lick any man in town. The man, seeing to was drunk, passed around him and left him alone. The drunken man walked further, and meeting another man, he stopped in front of him to say: 'I can lick any man in this county. The man, seeing that he was drunk, passed around him and left him alone. Then he met a third man, and stopping in front of him, he said: 'I can lick any man in the state of Tennessee.' The man promptly hauled off and knocked him down. Wiping the blood off his face, the drunken man said to himself: 'I guess I took in too much territory that last time. (Laughter.)

"The Republican party in its boasting claims too much. It is only necessary to show that one argument has fallen through, that one prophecy has failed. But on the other hand the Republican party cannot point to one that was promised in 1896 or 1900 which has been fulfilled by anything the party is responsible for. In 1896 it promised international bimetalism, and it dropped it within a year. It then said we needed more money, and now boasts that it has more than we ever had before. It is boasting from this incoherent promise, and they wonder the power it would control the trusts. It never expected to fulfill its promise, and they were more organized in the first year of its administration than in the entire history of the country before.

"It repeated this promise in 1900, and its first step after success was the appointment of an attorney general who was the private attorney for one of the largest trusts in the country. The organization of the trusts went on, and the trusts continued to grow. The last birthday, said that more has been organized than the wildest howlings of Democrats and Populists had prophesied.

"It went into the campaign of 1900 with the same policy of imperialism and militarism. It denied that it favored an imperial policy. We pressed that they intended imperialism, and that they would change the form of government; they denied it. When they came to the election, they claimed victory for imperialism. The result of the election was that the supreme court rendered its decision that it would never be rendered if the Democratic party had won. Today they use phrases they would not have dared to use in 1900. They speak now of colonialism. They have torn off the mask, and they advocate a policy that England had 125 years ago.

"Within the past few weeks, when a great calamity came over the nation, when its head was struck by an assassin, the more partisan of the Republican papers protested against Democrats even mourning for the loss, and there was presented the spectacle of the Republicans sucking political comfort from the wounds of the dying president. Since the terrible tragedy these papers have been suggesting the limitation of the press and free speech. They speak as though it were necessary to change the principles of the government to preserve the executive. If anyone says to you that it is necessary to put an end to free speech to stop anarchy, point to the European countries where free speech is least free, and tell them that it is there that anarchy thrives most. We are trying to get the classes together. They say we are trying to disturb the peace, and we say we are trying to bring about harmony on the basis of equal rights. In the great struggle through which we are passing, it is necessary that we should have the highest form of moral courage.

"Buckley says that civilization is measured by the mastery of the human mind over the force of nature. In elaborating this proposition he declares that the moral element in civilization is insignificant compared with the intellectual element. The reason which he gives is that the same moral principles have been generally accepted throughout the ages, and that the difference between the races, nations and civilizations is due to the difference in the mental development. His error, I believe that he errs, is due to the fact that he confuses the acceptance of a ### LETTER FROM HON. JOHN LIND.

"Hon. Charles A. Towne Duluth, Minn.: Dear Friend:—It is with the keenest regret that I now probably address you at Duluth for the last time. I feel as though you ought not to have left us, but I suppose that the same feelings and necessities which compel me to withdraw from public life prompted your action.

"Your leaving us brings a feeling of personal loss and sorrow to thousands of hearts and those of us who feel that human intelligence has reached a stage of development where conscientious effort should be of avail to better the condition of the masses feel a loss far greater than the more personal one. Minnesota has had your youthful vigor and enthusiasm in behalf of right. Your talent and zeal have carried your influence far beyond our boundaries. We are proud of your work and proud of you. We have no more victorious as measured by certificates of election. We are hopeful of victories yet to come, but he that as it may, we have done our duty.

"Your moral courage is needed among our private citizens, that they may be as bold to punish unfaithful officials as they are ready to commend the faithful. In times of war the individual is ready to give his life, if needed, in the service of his country. The demands of peace are equally imperative. The nation is entitled to the brain and heart as well as to the body. It claims the best thought and the best consciences of its citizens.

"Great issues are at stake; great interests are involved—aye, even our civilization itself, and through us the civilization of the world. This nation is a world power; it has not acquired its influence by war, but for a century and a half it has been permeating the world. Every citizen is a factor in our civilization, and by his conduct raises or lowers the levels of that civilization. He cannot expect his neighbor to be more conscientious than himself, and cannot rely upon some one performing the duty that he ought himself to discharge. He owes it to his country, to his fellow citizens, to his posterity, to throw the weight of his influence upon the right side every public question. For the right discharge of his duties he will require the highest form of moral courage.

"I wish you and your good wife fortune's kindest care and in this every member of the family joins, including the baby. We hope that he may have a chance to vote for you. Sincerely yours, JOHN LIND."

HON. P. M. RINGDAL WRITES.

T. T. Hudson, Committee on Invitations—Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your invitation to attend the banquet to be held at the Hotel Chicago, Duluth, on the 16th inst. It is with deep regret that I find myself forced to forego the pleasure of being present in person. I assure you, however, that I shall be with you in spirit and sentiment.

"We all regret that Mr. Towne does not find it to his interest to remain a citizen of Minnesota. We could make good use of him. But we are glad of the fact that he is too big to be lost. The boundaries of the Union we are content, for we are still with us and of us.

P. M. RINGDAL.

HON. THOS. D. O'BRIEN.

HON. T. D. O'BRIEN'S TRIBUTE.

Daniel G. Cash, Committee on Invitations—Dear Sir: For the last ten days I have been suffering from a severe indisposition, but had hoped until now that I would be able to attend the banquet to be tendered Senator Towne. I find, however, that I must forego the pleasure of regretting exceedingly that I cannot be present with you and add my testimony to the estimation in which we hold you. The Democratic party of Minnesota feels that its most fearless and able champion by his departure. If the statements which are made as to Senator Towne are true, they serve but to emphasize the fact that he is a typical Democrat. Wendell Phillips, in speaking of his cause, said: 'Every proud man who hates his brother is our enemy; every vicious man, desiring to advance himself in life by craving no more than he can honestly earn, is our ally, somewhat garbled, as I have not the original before me, but I think what I have said conveys the idea correctly. Material prosperity as well as in civic virtue. It is because we believe that every man is entitled to the honest fruits of his toil, mental or physical, and because we believe that every man should have an opportunity of realizing such fruits, that we are Democrats.

Democracy means independence, thrift, honest toil and sufficient remuneration. Democracy teaches that mankind should have advanced and progress, and that the aim of each individual should be to make himself independent by his honest efforts, and that system which tends to make the great masses dependent state, must sooner or later be destructive of popular government.

THOMAS D. O'BRIEN.

moral principle with living up to a moral principle, whereas nations are not to be measured, not according to the moral principles admitted to be true, but according to the moral principles which govern the lives of the people. If you will take the worst thing that can be found in the penitentiary and place it beside the best spirit you know, and then question the two, you will find that both admit the binding force of the Ten Commandments. The difference, then, between the two? It is this, that one puts his moral principles into every action, while the other suspends his moral principles in a moment of temptation and becomes a criminal.

"A careful study of the causes that have led to the decay of nations and to decay of races will, I think, convince an impartial student that the moral element is not only important, but paramount, in a nation's life. Take, for instance, the fall of the Roman Empire—it was the Roman heart, not the Roman head, that went astray, and it is as true today as it ever has been in the past that there can be no real or permanent national growth unless that natural growth is accompanied by the development of national conscience and national character.

"The nation is but a collection of individuals, and reflects the intentions of the people. As the moral element is to an individual, there is danger of our becoming inferior to the nations of the world, and it is likely that we shall place a low estimate upon the development of the mind, but in our rush for wealth and material advantage there is danger that we shall ignore the most important part of man—the heart.

"Plutarch has said that men entertain three sentiments concerning the gods: that they fear them, because of their strength, admire them for their wisdom, and love them for their justice. Men entertain towards their fellows the same sentiments which, according to Plutarch, the ancients entertained towards their deities. Force may excite fear and genius may arouse admiration, but only love the heart that loves. Justice—the fruit of love—is the element which gives strength and permanence to organized government. So important is the moral element in the individual that no man has ever won a lasting place in the affections of the people who has not in his life given evidence of a broad and deep affection for his fellows. It may be truthfully written upon every monument reared by grateful hands to the memory of a great man: 'We loved him because he first loved us.'

"Of the qualities of the heart moral courage is the most essential; it is the shield that protects the other virtues. It is the fortress that guards integrity. The image of the creator is never seen more clearly stamped upon the brow of man than when his moral courage stands erect, proclaiming the conviction of an honest heart, and ready to live for them or to die for them. There is strength and inspiration in the presence of such an one.

"It is sometimes difficult to select a subject for an after-dinner speech, but when I received an invitation to participate in the farewell banquet tendered by the people of Duluth to their distinguished townsman and my friend, Senator Towne, I felt that I had found the subject. I have given special evidence of the possession of that quality which makes him a well-come defeat rather than a surrender, which to him seems right.

"I am proud to commend the faithful. In times of war the individual is ready to give his life, if needed, in the service of his country. The demands of peace are equally imperative. The nation is entitled to the brain and heart as well as to the body. It claims the best thought and the best consciences of its citizens.

"Great issues are at stake; great interests are involved—aye, even our civilization itself, and through us the civilization of the world. This nation is a world power; it has not acquired its influence by war, but for a century and a half it has been permeating the world. Every citizen is a factor in our civilization, and by his conduct raises or lowers the levels of that civilization. He cannot expect his neighbor to be more conscientious than himself, and cannot rely upon some one performing the duty that he ought himself to discharge. He owes it to his country, to his fellow citizens, to his posterity, to throw the weight of his influence upon the right side every public question. For the right discharge of his duties he will require the highest form of moral courage.

"Some may be disposed to stamp the word 'failure' upon the political career of our distinguished guest. I hope that the future may have in store for him a reward that will be worthy of his high merit. But, even if he were to die tonight, he would have lived in the hearts of his fellow citizens, and that must weigh heavily on the side of civic virtue. He has faced without flinching a fire as hot and hellish as ever came from cannon's mouth, and he has won a victory greater and more glorious than ever crowned the life of one who favored at the feet of power or bartered away his manhood to secure an office.

"We have had many opportunities greater than come to most men, and he has been equal to them at all times. In the struggle for the right, for the things we believe to be best, he is sustained by the same faith that sustains all of us. Nothing done for the right done without effect. Hearts given to a cause do not ask that they share in its success, but they demand that they be remembered by the people because he forgot himself in his devotion to the people.

"When the speaker finished there was a wild scene for a few minutes, as the guests rose to their feet and waved handkerchiefs and hands.

ROSLING IS CAUSTIC.

Gives State Administration Some Hot Shot.

Hon. L. A. Rosling, chairman of the Democratic state committee, responded to the sentiment, 'What I Know About Running a Political Campaign.' There was some humor, and considerable ginger in Mr. Rosling's speech, as it went into the delinquencies of the present state administration to some extent and that forcibly. He said:

"Mr. Toastmaster and Gentlemen: While the committee has assigned to us various and well chosen topics to discuss, I am sure that on this occasion there is but one thought uppermost in all our minds, and that is, the regret that our fellow-citizens and fellow-Democrats are going to leave us—regret that we are not to have his influence and power to aid us in future campaigns. We shall miss Charles A. Towne in Minnesota, our only consolation being that in the new field to which he goes there will be greater opportunity for his great talents, and from there he can exercise a wider influence. May God speed him in his new field.

"I feel grateful to the committee on this occasion for the subject of 'What I Know About Running a Political Campaign.' Had they treated the proposition in any other way, I should certainly have had to ask for more time in its history because a force for good, and largely contributed towards making this the 'butter state.' The more I know of the state administration, the more I am convinced that the educational department, the labor and other departments of the state.

"Time will not permit me to go into detail, but the record of the last state administration with a ruler who has governed and gave direction to these departments, and whose strong stances of each particular campaign, and the instrumentalities with which the committee has to work.

"In this state the opposition has control of every metropolitan newspaper except one, The Duluth Herald, whose services to the cause of Democracy have been invaluable. In the state we have a number of local dailies and a still larger number of weekly papers that have performed heroic service in behalf of Democracy, and good government. It gives me pleasure to have this opportunity of testifying to the unselfish and unwearied work of the whole anti-Republican press.

"Not having the support of numerous daily papers, we have had to reach as many of the people as possible through the medium of pamphlets, personal correspondence, and by public meetings, addressed by public-spirited men, who, for the most part, traveled at their own expense, and have always responded nobly to the call of the chairman for aid.

"Since I have had the privilege of being connected with the work of the Democratic state committee, we have been extremely fortunate in our candidates—those who have run such an arduous campaign as he is bound to get some of the glory.

"The only real tip I would give to future chairmen is, look wise, say little and work a great deal.

"But, my friends, I know you will pardon me if I depart from the text and speak somewhat of the future, in the few moments I have at my disposal.

"It is well for a party, as it is for the prudent business man during the dull season, to take account of stock. What has the Democratic party of Minnesota, as a capital, to base its future upon? Let me first state some of the negative advantages of Democracy in this state. We have, in the first place, an absolutely colorless position. When we ask what does the present state administration stand for? Echo answers, what, the truth be told, the representative of the plutocracy that governs this state stands more loudly and shakes hands with plutocrats than any governor we have ever had; he is the real good fellow, don't you know. Then, too, he has a board of control and a railway and warehouse commission, and there is where this administration shows its real colors. Why, my friends, the Republican leaders of this state, after the state convention, boasted that they had at least one honest man on that commission, and that sentiment has since frequently been repeated. The Republican press of the state, so far in its history, unfortunately the commission has not accomplished anything that would warrant us in judging who the honest man is.

"But what about the record of the commission? Let me just cite one of their acts as an illustration. Shortly before the Democratic commission went out of power, they promulgated an order reducing freight rates on the iron ore roads to 10 per cent. That order was suspended by the present commission immediately upon their assuming office. What have they done since? Simply had hearings from time to time which have been adjourned again and again until the winter season for shipping ore has passed and the roads have profited during the winter months. The order reducing rates, which yielded a profit sufficient to practically rebuild the roads every eighteen months, and the greater journey is not if the people of Minnesota are not watchful the right to regulate the tariff rate of the roads of the state will be conceded away entirely. And strange to say that while the people are deeply interested in this matter, the daily papers of St. Paul have not given us any information in regard to these important hearings.

"Then that entire body has chosen as its secretary the famous Mr. Clauson, this, I suppose, to impress upon the public that in the grain department, at least they intend to be honest. You want to see the Republican press bulletin grow eloquent in praise of Mr. Clauson? Well, Governor Rosling said that Clauson was one of the best grain men in the state. Well, Governor Lind said that, and I have stopped right there. He never said his peculiar honesty and integrity particularly fitted him for the position, and gave the most impressive proof of his honesty by his conduct in the grain department. The son of Erin quit his job, because of a remark made by his employer. You are discharged. These are only a few of the points touched upon briefly.

"Affirmatively we are much stronger, because the people of this state have tested Democratic principles as applied in state government; they have seen the state made towards equality in taxation and the curbing of special privileges under a Democratic government. They have seen the highest efficiency in administration developed in every office controlled by the state administration under Governor Lind. This state never had a public examiner worthy of the name until Lind appointed one, and to the time of his resignation. The new appointee could give of his fitness for the position he is about to assume, that was to say that he would follow the pattern set by Lind. The Democratic railway and warehouse commission accomplished more in the one year that they had control than had been done in the history of the state before. O'Shaughnessy, insurance commissioner, made the insurance department a credit to the state and accomplished more in the two years that he was in office than any other insurance commissioner in the history of the state. Mr. Bowler, who was divorced from politics, and for the first time in its history became a force for good, and largely contributed towards making this the 'butter state.' The more I know of the state administration, the more I am convinced that the educational department, the labor and other departments of the state.

"Time will not permit me to go into detail, but the record of the last state administration with a ruler who has governed and gave direction to these departments, and whose strong personality impressed all is one of the best and largest capitals that any party ever went to the state on and asked for a renewal of confidence, and then in addition to all this, we have the man with us who made this record possible, John Lind.

"With the organization of the party we now have, we are in better position to wage a winning campaign than ever before; 1902 will be a Democratic victory in this state.

VANQUISHED BUT VICTOR.

Fine Tribute By Hon. Sidney M. Owen.

Hon. Sidney M. Owen, of Minneapolis, the well known and most conspicuous member of the Populist party in the state, responded to the sentiment, 'The Vanquished But Victor,' and it was one of the prettiest tributes of the evening, following the line of thought that, while politically defeated, in reality the principles for which Mr. Towne strove have been vindicated and are victorious. He said:

"Mr. Toastmaster—I am reminded by this occasion of a couple of incidents that I propose to relate by way of preface to my remarks. Doubtless they will not be new to you, but they are interesting because incidents are so common with them that it is able to get lost in the mass, but with a little reflection, as I think, we may be able to store them away in the locker of our memory. So, what I relate may be new to you.

"In the fall of 1896, just before going to Washington to take the office of attorney general, I met for the first time the beneficiary of this splendid evidence of his fellow citizen's respect and love. And, strange coincidence, he was sitting at the same table as I was, at the dining room of a hotel in this city, I said:

"Mr. Towne, what is your party going to do about the money and analogous questions, and other measures for the relief of the people?

"You will remember that the people needed relief at that time, while now you could hardly hear it for the money, no use for help of any kind. Mr. Towne replied:

"It will depend upon the man you have in the White House, as if I or mine was responsible for Cleveland? And upon the upper house.

"It will be your own associates in the lower house that will decide upon the legislative interests of the country.

"Black and white, clear, incisive, unequivocal; if that proves to be the case, I will be glad to hear of it. I will follow, or some other fellow, in the effort to give promise of a successful result.

"That moment I metaphorically pinned the napkin of my faith under the mouth of the speaker, and I have never since, I have been there ever since. My admiration for the speaker, I was a stranger to him, but I did not wait for an introduction. With what I fear was blunt rudeness.

"In March, 1898, I saw another gentleman, who is with us this evening, at once I was a guest, and of welcome. He had on the silver question, in Minneapolis. At the conclusion, I, with a score of others, hurried to the stage to speak to and congratulate the speaker. I was a stranger to him, but I did not wait for an introduction. With what I fear was blunt rudeness.

"Mr. Bryan, suppose your party in a national convention in Chicago, next June, does not declare itself favorable to the sentiments you have expressed tonight.

"Mr. Bryan looked me straight in the eyes and said: 'I am sure the presiding officer will declare the presiding officer a backbone somewhere about his person, assumed a still further pose, as I answered him, he said: 'I will be all right but I propose to stand by my own convictions.' I did not embrace Mr. Bryan, I hadn't time. In thoughtful mood I went home, and all the way two names were sounding in my ears, and there was a young man in them too—'Bryan and Towne.' I was thinking of the two men, one of both, and mentally said, those are two men that the country is ever proud to back districts and all. And, Oh! my problem, I was a stranger to him, but I did not wait for an introduction. With what I fear was blunt rudeness.

"In the last instance the man did not have to bolt his party ticket. The man and his opportunity met, and by virtue of his matchless power, he molded the ticket and strategy of the party to his way of thinking, he made his party bolt his Republicanism, and—well, you know the result.

"The other instance the man was there, but the opportunity was not. Given the opportunity to all know, Mr. Charles Towne would have been a great deal more than a mere name. But fate was perhaps less kind to him, he had to go to bolt his party ticket. I will not say what the other man said, but I will say that the man who was there, the young man situated as Mr. Towne was, but I can say you are a great deal more than a mere name. In my poor opinion; and that is, that judgment seat you under with a record of having bolted a party ticket, that a record of having commanded legions that slaughtered thousands of God's children in unjust or unnecessary wars.

"Well, the country did hear from those two men, one as the presidential candidate of his party, and the other as a candidate for a lesser office and one of the most eloquent and effective advocates who ever pleaded a just cause before a jury that had to be monkey-witted to prevent it giving a verdict in favor of his side. You remember that memorable campaign you have not forgotten how our friends, the enemy, were frightened. They were in a frenzy of fear that they would have to go. Rather than run that risk, a Republican party manager will eagerly and cheerfully spend all the money that corporate beneficiaries of his party are willing to cough up in the interest of keeping him out of being real good. The great leaders who are with us tonight overrid the scoring business. They were not able to do anything to prevent it. We can't argue with those fellows, said the enemy, but we can buy the country. And they did.

"The country did hear from those two men, one as the presidential candidate of his party, and the other as a candidate for a lesser office and one of the most eloquent and effective advocates who ever pleaded a just cause before a jury that had to be monkey-witted to prevent it giving a verdict in favor of his side. You remember that memorable campaign you have not forgotten how our friends, the enemy, were frightened. They were in a frenzy of fear that they would have to go. Rather than run that risk, a Republican party manager will eagerly and cheerfully spend all the money that corporate beneficiaries of his party are willing to cough up in the interest of keeping him out of being real good. ## A TROLLEY ROMANCE

The Story of How a Motorman Won a Girl.

Gained Her a Position in the Company's Office.

Then Began Business as a Broker in Tickets.

Duluth, Oct. 17.—Recently it was stated that a number of conductors and motormen employed by the Everett-Moore electric lines had been discredited for selling tickets several times through connivance with parties in the office.

The full details of the affair brought to light by Detective John Manly, executive agent of the police, are as follows: A story of untold scandal, it shows how one man by clever manipulations managed to secure a position in the company, and that all through a romance. Of course, there is nothing in the case that is unusual, and it is the fact that makes the story interesting.

The star actor in the drama of the electric road is Fred Roloff, a young man from the firm, who secured a position as motorman on the Tolesto Traction company's line.

One of the patrons of the line was Emma Rosten, employed by the Woolson Spool company. She was a very attractive girl, and it was not long before Roloff became infatuated with her.

Roloff began to appear with a gold watch and a diamond ring, and he began to wear a suit of the finest quality.

Frederic Roloff, who had been a motorman, was promoted to the position of conductor, and he began to wear a suit of the finest quality.

VALUE OF SPARROWS

Of Great Benefit to Agriculture as Weed Destroyers.

Bulk of Their Food Also Includes Insect Pests.

As a Class, They Are Well Worthy of Protection.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald).—According to investigations made by experts of the department of agriculture, based on extended field observations and an examination of over 4000 stomachs of sparrows, the sparrows of this country have been found to be of great value to agriculture as weed destroyers.

The native sparrows are the most abundant and widely distributed of the small birds inhabiting the rural districts of the United States. Wherever there are farms, these birds are found. Little birds may be found nesting in orchards, berry patches, vineyard and hedgerows, and in the shrubbery around dooryards and outlying fields with their songs, or in winter rising from the ground and fluttering about the bushes before one who invades their haunts. As a group they are constantly present on cultivated land, although many of them retire to the woods during the winter and their places are taken by other species from the North.

Sparrows are well known and have figured frequently in ornithological literature, but the position they occupy in relation to agriculture has heretofore received only casual consideration. It is evident that the sparrows are abundant, so widely distributed and in such constant association with farms and gardens as to play an important part in rural economy and that a thorough investigation of their food habits should be made.

The great bulk of the food of sparrows and other small perching birds consists of insects and their larvae. The fruit may be wild berries taken from shrubs or trees of no economic importance, but the bulk of their food is made up of insects.

Whether the bird eats much or little, or it may be cultivated fruit, in which case it is desirable to know the amount destroyed.

The seed element is of particular interest, but the position they occupy in relation to grain or fruit is usually the most important. ## MUNYON'S RHEUMATISM CURE

When Prof. Munyon says his Rheumatism Cure will cure rheumatism there isn't any guess-work about it—there isn't any false statement about it—there isn't any bluffing about it. It is a splendid stomach and nerve tonic, as well as a positive cure for rheumatism.

All the Munyon remedies are just as reliable, 25c. The Guide to Health is free. Munyon, New York and Philadelphia.

MUNYON'S INHALER CURES CATARRH.

In the stomach of a Nuttall's sparrow were found 30 seeds of amaranth, and in another 30 seeds of lamb's-quarter; a tree sparrow that was examined by the division of biological survey, department of agriculture, had consumed 30 seeds of alfalfa-seeds at a meal, while a snowflake taken at Beaverdam, Wis., which has been breaking fast on alfalfa-seeds in March, had picked up 150 seeds of amaranth.

English sparrows are also useful destroyers of weeds. Thousands of these birds are found on the lawns of the department of agriculture feeding on crabgrass, and yard-grass, two weeds that crowd out good turf-making grasses. They destroy further credit for their food value is the fact that they are full of dandelions. When the yellow bloom has disappeared the head closes and a downy tuft appears at the upper end. In this stage it is most frequently attacked by the English sparrow. The bird enters the hollow of the seed and exposes the plumed seeds or achenes. It seizes a mouthful of these achenes, lops the plumes with its bill and swallows the seeds. In many cases, especially those of alfalfa, the bird is found to remove the plumes. Generally it drops the seeds in the open, and usually leaves a few inches to the edge of the receptacle. In this destructive habit the English sparrow is aided by several native birds, chief among them being the chickadee, the bluebird, the white-throated sparrow, and the white-bellied sparrow.

As observed, the native birds usually feed on the seeds of the weeds, and it is evident that the English sparrow is capable of getting out seeds alone, for one of the birds was found to have a seed in its mouth. In this case the bird was found to have a seed in its mouth. In this case the bird was found to have a seed in its mouth.

to the state department that in regard to the difficulty experienced in furnishing names of Greek importers of certain lines of goods, he received numerous letters from the United States asking for this information, and some of them are now being forwarded to Athens that our trade can be extended in Greece by sending trustworthy men to attend to it. The McCormick Harvester company, for instance, has done so and is reaping large profits. British and German exporters have their representatives on the ground, and although giving long terms of credit, seldom lose through dishonest debtors, and their trade steadily increases.

THE DULUTH EVENING HERALD.

IN RAGS.

An Insane Deaf and Dumb Girl Was Captured.

Portsmouth, Ohio, Oct. 17.—After a nine weeks' search, Sarah Purse, a deaf and dumb inmate of the county infirmary, who escaped from that institution, was found living in a cave three miles east of this city. She was in a pitiable condition. Her clothing was in rags, and over her garments she had placed two coffee cans to shield her body from the wintry blasts. Of shoes she had scarcely a trace, and her feet were torn and bleeding from contact with the rocks and buns of the cave.

As she rose from her couch of leaves, when her hiding place was discovered, her unkempt hair falling in tangled locks over her haggard countenance, setting off in a startling manner the deep-set eyes burning with the glow of insanity, she presented the appearance of some wild creature of ages ago.

Nine weeks ago Miss Purse escaped from the infirmary, and although a reward was offered for her capture, and a constant search kept up, not until this week was her hiding place discovered, and then by mere chance. The Jenkins, a most generous offer and the following of the city, discovered a beaten path of which he had no knowledge. Following it from a spring on the hillside, it led straight to the mouth of a cave extending for a distance of fifteen feet into the hillside.

At the entrance were the remains of a pair of woman's shoes, giving evidence of occupancy, and a few scraps of food were seen. Unheeding, but intuitively warned of danger, she advanced upon him, and in a moment she was in his hands. She was slowly retreated to the mouth of the cave, followed by the woman. In the open air he grappled with her and a sharp struggle ensued. Notwithstanding her emaciated appearance, she struggled bravely for several minutes, and then she was taken to the county jail, where she was committed to the Athens asylum.

An examination of the cave disclosed the slender resources upon which Miss Purse had subsisted. A few ears of corn, several ears of corn, a small pile of wheat, a few scraps of food, and a bottle filled with water quenched her thirst as she lay hidden in the recesses during the day. At night she slumbered on a pile of dry leaves, huddled in by stones and boulders forming some semblance of a bed. In this primitive manner she lived for nine weeks, three miles from a busy city and scarcely 30 yards from an electric line, which hundreds of people daily passed.

That, of course, was her mode of life is evident from the manner in which she was captured. She was found in a cave, and she was found in a cave. She was found in a cave, and she was found in a cave. She was found in a cave, and she was found in a cave.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—John Jacob Astor, of New York, dropped the role of millionaire, and took up that of a locomotive engineer for a short time yesterday. With blue jeans, overalls and buckskin gloves the colonel sat on the right side of a locomotive and worked the engine for a few hours.

Col. Astor was scheduled to come to Chicago in company with President Stuart, but he was unable to do so. He was in the city for a short time, and he was in the city for a short time. He was in the city for a short time, and he was in the city for a short time.

He missed the train to which was attracted the president's car and the attention of the crowd. He was in the city for a short time, and he was in the city for a short time. He was in the city for a short time, and he was in the city for a short time.

When Eikhart was reached at 3:30 p. m. in the morning the colonel decided to take the trip on the engine. It was a locomotive of the Chicago and North Western, and it was a locomotive of the Chicago and North Western. It was a locomotive of the Chicago and North Western, and it was a locomotive of the Chicago and North Western.

The engineer invited his guest to "take the reins" and the invitation was coupled with another to "push her along." The colonel accepted both invitations. From South Bend to Hammond, a distance of twenty miles, the new engineer made the distance in a little under twenty minutes.

THE VOGUE OF THE BOX PLAIT ASSURED

It Figures on Everything From Lingerie to Tailor. Makes Graduated Flounce Not So Much In Evidence.

New York, Oct. 12.—Except that the graduated flounce is not so much in evidence, the new skirts differ little in line from those of the summer. Efforts are still clinging at the top and sweeping and furling at the bottom; and in order to make these more than over pronounced dressmakers are bringing forth some singularly novel devices which are intended to take the place of the petticoat and time-honored chemise. These may be modestly called divided skirts. If you choose—then they are to be worn on either leg, fastening with ribbon draw strings, or elastic, either above or below the knee, something after the fashion of the old-fashioned pantaloons. The last sort very much the long skirt gives to the hips is thus obliterated, and when the outer flounce is lifted no difference is perceptible in this under petticoat.

But seen in process of the toilet these leg-skirts (what else can they be called?) are funny, to say the least. What is worse, they will afford little protection against the blasts of winter.

However, there is no great need to worry about the matter as yet, for the leg-skirts are too ugly to be universally adopted. A few extraneous will take to them and the rest of us—those to whom femininity is dearer than ever the honorable under togetherness which has given pretty good satisfaction up to date.

Another device to create slenderness at the hip line is found in petticoats with a deep yoke to fasten to the bottom of a long skirt. Imported corsets with skirts, or full petticoats show a uniformity of color very attractive. For instance, a corset of pale gray, with white lace, and a petticoat of white and gray striped ribbon, is provided with a yoke of white and gray striped ribbon, and a corset of blue or black will be accompanied by skirts of satin, silk or lustrous in tone same shade, the last sort very charming with iridescent and lustrous effects of black lace or footings.

The one device which is continued with house dresses is the shoes and stockings. Thus a costume of blue, white or gray, with a blue or gray skirt, and a blue or gray blouse, is continued in the same tint, the effect being very pretty and elegant in movement.

Again it is observed that some women of good taste in dress are taking to white openwork stockings with black patent leather pumps for house wear, and after the long reign of black stockings the innovation seems quite desirable. But, of course, feet and ankles must be shapely to support this. While has the effect of startlingly emphasizing the ankles, though nothing could be prettier than a white dressing of pretty extreme.

Speaking of feet, and the consideration they should exact, news comes from England that smart society women have reacted against trailing skirts for street wear. They have decided on making jupes, or skirts, as the ground by at least two inches; but, remembering the proverbial bluntness and homeliness of English extremes, one marvels at the courage it must take to display them. In Paris the English vision is always recognized by her feet, as well as by the hard knob of hair that ornaments the back of her head.

"And what?" one passerby says audibly, for though famed as a nation for politeness, the French are singularly defective in the matter of street manners. And the arrangement, a curious animal, and not quite civilized to his thinking, is always a spur to a Frenchman's wit. For this reason, if for no other, it is always wise for visitors to Paris to costume themselves as much like Parisians as possible. That is the feminine portion, of course, for the men of Paris are as notorious for bad dressing as the women are for good.

With all this contempt for the fashions of Great Britain it may seem singular to hear that not only this country, but Paris, depends upon London for its choicest tea gowns. In the days of the aesthetes craze England studied clinging picture effects with a lasting intent, and today the house gowns in Paris are always well supplied with them, and these that find their way to this country are worn by the smartest women.

In the matter of driving coats, plain affairs that need a certain simple cut to give them swag, London is likewise the mecca of the modish pilgrim. "Coats are never plain enough in Paris," declares the people who are supposed to know the subtleties of fashion; so the best of our trip, plain coats, come from the city across the channel. On the other hand, the dressy affairs must have the Parisian stamp, and charming indeed are some of the Louis XIV, XV, and XVI models great dressmakers are now displaying. These garments, which are made of handsome cut velvet and plain satins in the heavy, velvet or cloth type. Some times the whole costume is made of velvet, which seems somehow to suit the picturesque coat model better than a combination of materials, as with their jeweled buttons and white satin and lace trappings they all belong to a period when magnificent materials were in order.

A long skirt, entirely without trimming and showing in many cases a very narrow front panel, is the usual type for one of these jackets. Elaborate flowing-sleeve effects distinguish many of them, giving with soft under-sleeves and high wrist frills, for instance, a velvet jacket going with a silk or satin skirt, and one of satin with a velvet or cloth blouse. Some times the whole costume is made of velvet, which seems somehow to suit the picturesque coat model better than a combination of materials, as with their jeweled buttons and white satin and lace trappings they all belong to a period when magnificent materials were in order.

For a time French millinery found little favor in New York, the general feeling being that it was too extravagant for our quieter tastes. This year such a change can certainly not be expected, but the French hats, for in contrast to some of the wild freaks evolved by American trimmers, Paris has seen in the most modest and the most refined, where, if there is a brim, it is at least defined. Trimmings of fur, feathers, and velvet are used harmoniously and fold in a mass that is as charming as heavy. The over-bush of such a hat is invariably charming on the right head.

A few of the tried stiff crowns which we have been introduced to here appear. The best model in the French headpiece is intended to be generally beautiful and not excite notice at any price.

Green plays a conspicuous part in the season's wool waist models, and as a trimming tones this gay color with black or navy cloth and a collar band of black satin ribbon joined by fagot stitching. The blouse front is quite full and has a group of tucks extending from the neck to the waist. The satin ribbon band is added to this and is ornamented with groups of small gold buttons.

The newest model for dressing jackets clings to the acorned plait so long beloved by its species, but improves upon the original design by mounting the plait with a lace or ribbon arrangement in chiffon lace and lace. The sleeves carry out the same idea. One model is in tulle, liberty silk, or very fine, the sleeves alone in length and the entire model coming barely below the waist line. The over-jacket is in pale blue chiffon, banded broadly with white lace. Lace finishes every edge of the over-jacket, but as frills it takes the form of deep flat applications, as does most lace that is used for trimming nowadays. The throat is supplied.

Pearls are the preferred adornment for the neck, the single strand or wide bands of many rows. Not all of these necklaces are genuine in any sense, but many are made of glass or one of gems of purest ray serene when it is only glass.

A charming gown is made of large white chiffon poppies, with yellow or black chenille poppies. These are set with a row of small, round, white pearls, the effect of a round rose. Another is composed wholly of roses in different shades of pink, and a third is a white orkade gown.

For mountain expeditions this autumn the favored fabric will be a loosely woven fringe, trimmed with sturpings, horizontal, graduated and stitched. The coat may be short, or long, single or double-breasted, loose sack or bolero. A Russian blouse with small, round collar and fastening only at the throat, is a novel and rather attractive style.

The Louis XV vests, deep bands and waistcoats of all kinds are certainly de rigueur, and it is an excellent opportunity for the manipulation of sale remnants. A bit of good brocade, added by lace and chiffon, will make a charming vest to wear with any of those bolero or coat and to smarten up a somber day garment.

In a hat of russet brown straw trimmed with autumn leaves and an upstanding bow of sun-browned ribbon, there is a hint of the higher fall hat trimming which is promised to us. This is the time when we may expect an avalanche of the so-called novelty goods.

Let no woman and her money be soon parted in our advice. A dress suit, or a suit rather, of moderately rough goods, such as a handsome camel's hair serge or cheviot, is almost necessary investment, but it is not at all in the class with novelties, rough or otherwise.

As for a glaring novelty in a dressy rig, do we ever see them in the best imported models? The few that do appear are usually made in order to exploit a line of goods which the merchant has brought in.

Another thing, it's next to impossible to trim a novelty goods. It's usually enough, if not too much, of itself.

It is an artistic adornment, too, since it really stands for something. There's common sense as well as beauty in the hand-leaved Parisienne, or cuff, or blouse, or a panel.

point, so it comes about that when scrutinized in the hand the Paris hat seems to the uninitiated rather a careless and home-made affair. It is only when it is on the head that you see the difference—all the difference that lies between the right thing and the wrong. To achieve this affiliation between the head and its covering—for every well-dressed French woman's hat seems a part of her—Parisian milliners take infinite pains. The customer is kept waiting while effects are tried on and on, until the one is found that sets off her type to the best advantage.

Few of the new tea gowns but have something of the bolero effect. Sometimes it is the bolero and stole effects combined. Self-polka-dotted pale old rose has a bolero in killed old rose chiffon, banded with broad white lace insertion. Upon the shoulders the bolero develops into long wing-like epaulettes that fall gracefully over the sleeves. The jacket fronts from the stole ends. The sleeves proper, ending at the elbow, have a deep graduated ruffle in chiffon and lace matching the bolero. A yoke effect is achieved by the open throat being framed by tucked chiffon and lace in a dainty fashion. The foundation garment of the silk consists in nothing more elaborate than a trailing garment without fit, save such as is bestowed by the ribbon at the waist, and which owes its fullness to the mass of tiny length-wise tucks upon the bodice's upper part. At the foot of the skirt is a flounce of medium depth, beaded by an application of lace.

Dr. Lyon's PERFECT Tooth Powder

AN ELEGANT TOILET LUXURY. Used by people of refinement for over a quarter of a century.

Something is held together, or appears to be. There is a big, sketchy lacing, and there's fine, close lacing, the latter often going the length of the sleeve or bodice. Yokes, which will surely be with us all winter at least, may be of anything from lace to fur. Could the choice be broader? Fur yokes and stock will adorn many handsome street dresses, while lace yokes are the proper thing for sheer silk shirt waists. Finest silky Cluny or Maltese laces are the choice, and these "wash" waists are almost invariably of pure white. While most of us will continue to wear them over the bare skin, enterprising salespeople will show us how attractive they are over softly-tinted slip waists.

PUNISHED BY SCHLEY

Leimly Confined to Quarters and Suspended Thirty Days.

This Was Years Ago, When He Was an Ensign.

He Was Found Guilty of Cruelty to Apprentices.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 17.—At least two persons vouch for a story concerning Rear Admiral Schley and Judge Advocate Lemly, which is particularly interesting at this time in view of the fact that the former is practically being tried by the navy department, while the latter is to all intents and purposes the prosecuting officer.

The story is of punishment alleged to have been meted out to the present judge advocate by the present "applicant," and, with a knowledge of the facts, it is not hard to understand that there might not be—whether there is or not—any good feeling in the heart of the doughty Lemly for the conscientious Schley.

There reside in Baltimore two men who were, they say, apprentices on the United States gunship Essex during the years 1875 and 1876, when the Essex was in the harbor of Montevideo, Uruguay, South America. They are Frank Tighman, of 206 North Second street, and John E. Stanley, a carpenter employed at the Mt. Clare shops, operated by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and living at 124 East Madison street.

At the time and during the periods referred to, Tighman and Stanley, who were then apprentices, were under the command of the Essex, Capt. Lemly, the judge advocate in the Schley investigation now attracting the attention of the world, was then an ensign on the Essex, and both of these men assert that life on the Essex was a hard one, and that the Ensign Lemly, entrusted with authority to punish the men for any offense, no matter how trivial, exercised this authority in the harshest manner.

He was hard and, they say, a brutal taskmaster, and for this complaint was made by Capt. Schley in the winter of 1875 by Tighman in a formal manner, and Capt. Schley laid the matter before Admiral Nicholson, then in command of the squadron and on the flagship Hartford, a famous historic vessel.

Tighman further asserts that on a thorough investigation of the charges against Ensign Lemly they were found to be true, and that he was punished by confinement to his quarters for thirty days and suspended from duty for the same period. Tighman stated that the fact of the punishment should and must be entered in the navy department at Washington.

There is no record, however, in the log book of the Essex of such a happening, and Admiral Schley refused to talk about it. But Tighman gives these as the dates the Essex was in Montevideo, and he asserts that he himself, and as a result of this, he thinks that the Ensign Lemly was punished. Tighman returned to Montevideo February 12, 1876, and left finally on April 10, 1876.

J. S. PILLSBURY DEAD

Former Governor of Minnesota and One of the Pioneer Settlers.

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—John S. Pillsbury, former governor of Minnesota, and one of the state's foremost citizens, died early this morning of Bright's disease. His illness was comparatively brief, owing to his advanced age. He was over 73. He was a member of the John S. Pillsbury has been so closely identified with the state of Minnesota that to write his history fully and completely would be to write the history of the state during the last twenty-five years. Mr. Pillsbury was born at Sutton, N. H., July 29, 1828. His par-

Wadleigh. John Pillsbury and Susan Wadleigh were married in 1835, and on both sides was from the original Puritan stock. The family on his father's side started in 1630 with John Joshua Pillsbury, who received a grant of land at Newburyport, Mass., a portion of which he sold to John Wadleigh family, and came from England in 1635 to occupy it. The fourth child of John and Susan Pillsbury was the subject of this sketch. The opportunities of his father afforded him were limited, and in his early life he was induced to learn the printer's trade, but his father's death, when he was only thirteen, dissuaded him to engage as clerk for his brother, George A., in a general commission business. He was sent forward, reaching his majority, he formed a partnership with Walter Harriman and continued in the same business. In 1857, after his father's death, he was in after life Harriman became governor of New Hampshire and Pillsbury governor of Massachusetts. He was a member of the Massachusetts legislature, which he obtained in the New England country store laid the foundation for council of St. Anthony, and was retained in that position for six years. At the outbreak of the war he rendered distinguished service in the First, Second and Third regiments, and in 1862 assisted in organizing and equipping the 10th Cavalry for service in the Indian outbreak.

Mr. Pillsbury's services to the university were so numerous and so magnificent that he has justly earned the title of "father of the university." In 1863, when the university was in financial wreck, preserved the greater part of its landed endowment, and in 1864, when the university was in institution on the road to the grand success it has since attained. He also gave it in 1898 $150,000 from his private funds.

In 1875, without any effort on his part, the university was elected by the people, the legislators and elected governor. The record he made during the two years following, whether in the legislature or in the executive office, was so brilliant, from the combined scourges of grasshoppers and repudiation, formed

A DIRECT LINE NEEDED

Buenos Ayres Editor Says It Is Stupid to Have to Go From New York to South America, Via Europe.

Solace will sail today for Pago Pago, Samoa, where it will be met by the U. S. S. Admiral Robley D. Evans, Capts. Cooper, Glass, Thomas, Merry, Reller and Harrington, and Capt. Meyer, United States marine corps. These gentlemen are to form a court that will try Capt. F. E. Tiley, governor of Tutuila on charges preferred by the London Missionary society. The court is expected to reach a sufficient foundation in fact, to justify such a procedure.

The ship's dispatch to Wisconsin with Rear Admiral Cascy aboard, is now said to be on her way to Samoa and the cruiser Philadelphia, which arrived at Pago Pago last month, is en route to Panama, releasing the Iowa, in order that that vessel may go to Pago Pago for the investigation.

New York, Oct. 18.—E. P. Paz, editor and part owner of La Prensa (the Press) of Buenos Ayres, Argentina, one of the most influential newspapers in South America, who is in this country to bring about better communication between the United States and South America, makes the following observations concerning the objects of his visit:

"I leave for home on Oct. 22 and to save time I sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Große to Chibour, and take a steamer at the latter place for my home. This occupies twenty-one days. Going direct from New York requires twenty-five days. I am in the class of vessels engaged in the ser-

Elio Jaciero, in from twelve to eighteen days. Our people are becoming greatly interested and while no aid is expected from the Argentine government, the situation is being watched very closely and put on and prove a paying investment. I intend to strongly advocate better relations with Argentina. The Argentine-Burg-American company evidently sees great possibilities, and is running a line from New York to Buenos Aires, and thence down the coast to Patagonia. The Lambert & Holt company is running a line from New York to the Argentine Republic, and has more business than it can handle. Much of the commerce of the Argentine Republic is controlled by Germans, Englishmen and Italians. But I am satisfied North American companies will be able to do ours, and profitably take over many of the business concerns now controlled by other countries.

CIGARETTES ARE CHEAP

American Manufacturers of the "Undertaker's De- light," Have Commenced a Vigorous War Against British Tobacco Combination.

Cleveland, Oct. 18.—The Iron Trade Review says: With six or seven weeks of the ordinary navigation season ahead of them shippers are beginning to draw together the lines of the season's business.

New York, Oct. 18.—The London representative of the Herald cables many interesting details concerning the "tobacco war," now going on in England. In part the dispatch says:

The tobacco trade war already has commenced, the American combinations having notified its retailers of a large reduction in the price of cigarettes. The struggle between the Titans of British and American trade may be very severe and prolonged. The object of the Americans is to capture the British tobacco markets. The combination of the British firms is not yet formed, but established includes thirteen leading manufacturers, whose united capital is $5,000,000 ($25,000,000). They control roughly speaking one-quarter of the output of the tobacco in England. Further, this tobacco comprises nearly all the best known brands, so far as the attack has been directed against the makers of cigarettes. In this particular branch of the trade one British firm alone controls about nine-tenths of the output. The Financial Times, a leading news agency states that one of the largest retail firms in London has reduced the price of cigarettes manufactured by the American Tobacco Co. to include in the American combination, by fully one-third. This reduction is possible, as the American firm will now supply the United States, the English and the Continent, and thus avoid the large duty.

ness. At the end approaches the embarrassments of an unusually trying season so far as vessel dispatch and the handling of ore over the docks are concerned, are rather accented than relieved. Under the consolidated management of mining, vessel, dock and furnace operations that now af-blast furnace, a percentage of the ore is brought down, the condition of furnaces are placed in the hands of the managers and the managers are large elements in the account than before. It is a question of proposition can be made to show such economies in operation and that the interests of dependent of steel making and blast furnaces are not the least of things has come upon the vessels this season and that the management of the vessels is not from short car supply and from the operation of vessels as servants of the management. The management is not feasible. The coal movement must have attention from now on, as the coal movement is not a small movement. It will have to be carried up before navigation can be maintained. The coal movement is a supply of cars to the ore docks, and coal shippers, who earlier in the season received orders for coal, are now making large requisitions. Some of the docks are ahead of last year's requirements, and the coal is being loaded up to this date, and it is probable that all the coal will be loaded up to the final round-up.

NO SYMPATHY

Home Office.

Earl Russell's release was without a sign of sympathy from the home office. Not a single hour was abated from his sentence. He had the good sense to leave

Bangor, Me., Oct. 18.—A number of Maine capitalists are interested in the efforts now being made to form a combine of nearly all the sulphite mills in the United States and Canada. It is understood that a meeting of manufacturers concerned in the proposed consolidation of interests to be held at Boston probably today. It is said that the proposition provides that each manufacturer will be paid for his plant in stock, preferred and common, both going to the makers whose mills show a profit, and common stock to mills not showing any earning capacity.

Among the mills named by those interested as likely to join the combine are Kathadnulp Pulp and Paper company, New York; H. J. & J. J. Fibre company, Berlin, N. H.; J. & J. Rogers, Au Sable Forks, N. Y.; Dexter Pulp company, Howland, Me.; Carthage Sulphite Pulp company, Carthage, N. Y.; Dexter Pulp company, Dexter, N. Y.; Hincley Fibre company, Hincley, N. Y.; Pyrotes Paper company, Pyrotes, N. B.; Sulphite Pulp company, Muskegon, Mich.

Holloway fell quietly, after refusing to take newspaper reporters into his confidence. It has been rumored from the outset that the first impulse for the prosecution of the earl for bigamy came from court, but there is no proof that the king interested himself in the matter.

Des Moines, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Edwin H. Conger, wife of Minister Conger, commenced her journey to China this morning at 8:30 via the Rock Island route. She is accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Drake, of this city, who will be her guest for a year at Peking.

LOOKING OUT

FOR HIS BACON

New York, Oct. 18.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times in commenting on the German tariff scheme says the government attitude must largely depend on its private information in regard to the intentions of foreign governments. The really important feature of the situation, remarks the correspondent, is carefully concealed by nearly the whole of the German press.

GREEN GOODS.

How Telegrams are Sent in Spite of Police.

"If the officers of the law engaged in hunting down green-goods men were familiar with telegraphy," said a veteran operator to the New York Sun, "many swindlers would be arrested and fewer telegraph operators would be made to suffer for crimes of which they are entirely innocent. Let me give you an illustration.

"There is a certain large telegraph station and from it telegraph lines branch out in all directions. One of these lines stretches out along a one-track country railroad for about forty miles. There are about twenty-five railroad stations along the road. The twentieth railroad station was named let us say Lakeview.

"One of the new summer boarders stopping at its hotel was John Smith, who said he did business in a neighboring city. He came up late every evening and went away early every morning. When he arrived he told the telegraph operator to send any telegrams that might arrive for him to the hotel, as he often got home after the telegraph office was closed.

"He got several messages saying, 'I will call at your office at 3:30 a. m.' or 'I expect Jones back on the 25th inst.' or containing some other ordinary information such as is usually sent in telegrams. After a few days he told the telegraph operator that he was traveling, and would send a messenger with a note asking for his telegrams. In a few days notice came to the operator from the telegraph company that his office was being used by a green-goods man, under the name of 'John Smith,' and to deliver telegrams to him if properly identified.

"Detectives were then sent to watch this office. They saw a boy call one day and the operator bundle up several telegrams that had arrived for 'John Smith,' and to deliver telegrams to him. Yet John Smith knew what was in those telegrams even before the boy called for them and was doing business with those who had sent them.

"The detectives noticed the operator opening a registered letter one day and saw him take green-goods circulars out of it. They noticed a bill in the letter also. The operator was arrested and sent to prison, and yet he had nothing to do with the green-goods game. Any one who is a telegraph operator, or who understands the operating of the telegraph would never believe him guilty.

"In this case it was an extra operator who did all the green-goods business. 'It must be remembered that there is only one telegraph wire stretching from the central station forty miles along this road and passing through every station along the line. Postal stations, and whenever the key at the central station is pressed down every one of the twenty-five telegraph instruments along that line goes 'click.' If the key is pressed twice every one of the twenty-five instruments says 'click, click.' In other words, every message sent to one station is heard in every station along the line. Postal cards and telegrams are not suitable means for conducting a private business, but they are private in comparison with the telegraph. Nearly every message that is sent over the wire is heard by about fifty persons.

"Nearly every day of the month some one of the operators on the Lakeview line wanted a day off and the extra operator took his place. One day the extra was at the first railroad station, the next day he might be at the end of the line. On the third day he might be at the third station, and so on. Now each day no matter at what station he might be, if a message came for John Smith he heard it. The majority of operators hearing a message, pay no attention to it, but this extra listened attentively whenever he heard any messages to Lakeview for John Smith. Whether he wrote them down or kept them in his mind is not known; but every message that came for John Smith got to its destination. The telegraph company suspected the extra and found some excuse for discharging him. Their suspicions were confirmed by the fact that very few messages for John Smith went over the lines after he left. Why did the green-goods man send circulars and even a dollar bill in a registered letter to the innocent operator at Lakeview? Simply to cast suspicion on him, and help to hide the real operator in his employ.

"The moral of this is that detectives who hunt green-goods swindlers should be men who have been operators themselves or who are thoroughly familiar with the telegraph business. If such detectives were employed on a case like the one just spoken of the last operator on the line they would suspect would be the one at Lakeview, for they would very justly conclude that green-goods men are not such fools as to advise the man that they have indicated to aid them. The sleuths would say 'It may be one of the other twenty-four telegraph operators on this line; we will watch them; but we are sure that it is not this one, whom they are simply using as a blind to mislead people not familiar with telegraphy.'

CLAXTON MISTAKEN

He Testified That He Had Charge of Texas' Engine.

Machinist Hunley Was at Throttle All the Time.

He Says That the Engine Never Stopped a Minute.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Mr. Cronan continued his testimony at the afternoon session of the court of inquiry, relating details of the battle of July 3. He described the turn of the Brooklyn, saying that after it began, he observed that the first ship appeared to be heading directly toward the Brooklyn, creating the impression that either she meant to ram the Brooklyn or the Brooklyn to ram her. This contingency, however, was averted by both the Brooklyn and the Spanish ships putting the helm to port. He said that the Spanish land battery also fired at the Brooklyn at that time. He also stated that just before starting in shore the Viscaya had made a sudden turn toward the Brooklyn, and he had seen the town, which was practically on the Brooklyn's starboard beam. He did not see the Texas during the Brooklyn's turn.

On cross-examination, Mr. Hanna asked for a description of the after-noon session of the court of inquiry, which Mr. Cronan gave. He said that a column perpendicular to the shore line had been maintained there, and that the surf was so heavy that it was necessary to steam out occasionally. He said that he saw lights on shore there, but had not thought of their being signals.

In reply to a question by the court, witness said that so far as he knew neither the Eagle or the Vixen had made any signal regarding the sinking of the ship on the cruise from Cienfuegos to Santiago.

When Mr. Cronan was excused, and George H. Wardford, who was carpenter on the Brooklyn, was called. Describing the battle of July 3, he said that early in the action the order was passed by a marine order to stand by to ram. He said that the order was given during the battle, and that he had found that she had been struck thirty times. Mr. Wardford said that Commander Schley's conduct and bearing during the battle were that of a fearless officer. He said that during the engagement, the Brooklyn's tank of the Brooklyn filled with water.

When Mr. Wardford was excused, J. W. Hunley, who was chief machinist on the Texas during the battle of July 3, was called. He said that during the engagement he had been on duty at the throttle of the port engine. He said in response to a question by Mr. Rayner that he knew Alfred Claxton, who had previously testified that on the day of the battle he was standing at the throttle of the port engine.

"Is that correct?" asked Mr. Rayner, quoting Mr. Claxton's testimony.

"No, sir," the witness replied.

"Was the port engine of the Texas either stopped or backed?"

"No, sir; not to my recollection."

"Was it slowed down?"

"Slowed down, yes, sir."

Mr. Hanna cross-examined Mr. Hunley, who said that he had been on duty all the time during the battle.

"Is there anything to fix the signals given in your mind?"

"Nothing at all. I don't remember stopping or backing. The only orders I remember was to 'slow down' and for 'full speed'."

"Do you know of anything that was done on the starboard side?"

"I do not."

Mr. Rayner: "Who summoned you here?"

"I don't know. I was ordered to come."

Capt. Lemly asked Mr. Rayner to state the purpose of the examination.

He went on to say that this was an examination of the engine, and that he had no objection to the examination.

board and that he should be buried on land."

"Were you hurt? I mean from Ellis?"

"Yes, I was scratched in the face and in the neck and a small portion of a bone from his head lodged in my breast. It was taken out about three weeks later."

"Did you see Commander Schley about that time?"

"All the time."

"What was his manner and bearing as they impressed you?"

"Admirable, I thought."

"Was his position one of danger?"

"His position was on a little bridge built around the conning tower and he was on the fighting side of the ship all the time, as far as I could see."

"Was that an exposed position?"

"All the time."

When Lieut. Ryan had concluded, Lieut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who was Commander Schley's flag lieutenant during the Cuban campaign, was called. Lieut. Wells gave a detailed account of the entire campaign, beginning with the departure for Hampton Roads, the stay at Cienfuegos, the cruise to Santiago, the retrograde movement, the blockade of Santiago, the bombardment of the Colon and the battle off Santiago. Describing the blockade of Cienfuegos, witness spoke especially of the appearance there of the British steamer Adula on May 23, which he said brought a war bulletin from Kingston, containing information that the Spanish squadron had gone into the harbor at Santiago, but had subsequently left.

Referring to the cruise from Cienfuegos to Santiago, the witness said that the Eagle and the Vixen lagged behind and that it was necessary to slow down on this account. He remembered the meeting with the St. Paul, Yale and Minneapolis on the evening of the 25th and also the visit at that time made to the flagship by Capt. Sigsbee and the signal to return to Key West via the Yucatan channel. He also recalled that the Yale had taken the collier Merced in tow and that there had been difficulty in doing so. On the 27th the weather having cleared, the commodore signalled to ask if the Texas could coal, to which the reply was, "Can't try."

The Texas and other vessels having coaled, the fleet headed to the eastward, arriving off Santiago about sunset. The next morning the squadron had steamed in more closely, and he had seen two of the Spanish ships.

During the day off Santiago the vessels lay to, he said, while at night they steamed back and forth.

Coming to the bombardment of the Colon, on May 31, witness undertook to quote from memory a publication by the navy department which had, he said, given him the impression that the land batteries there were manned by large guns. Capt. Lemly objected, saying the publication itself should be produced. Some controversy between counsel ensued, and Mr. Rayner spoke of the objections as a "mere frivol."

To this Capt. Lemly responded:

"Object to this citation. Counsel has been repeatedly criticizing and throwing slurs on the officers of the court. I beg that it be stopped. It is unbecoming in a court of this kind. It is extremely unusual. May I please the court, we are making history here. How will these things read in history, even if they do come from the attorney general of the great state of Maryland? They are unworthy of a court of the dignity which this court possesses. It has not been done once, but repeatedly."

Mr. Hanna endorsed the statement but the publication was not produced.

Mr. Rayner asked the witness to omit the reference to the publication and proceeding on Capt. Lemly's assurance that the original would be produced, referring to the battle of May 2, Lieut. Wells said he had gone aboard the Massachusetts with Commander Schley, and he had heard a brief description of the engagement. He said he had heard of the sinking of the ship on the cruise from Cienfuegos to Santiago. Continuing he said: "I saw during the battle the tank of the ship filled with water, and I saw the ship sink."

AMERICANS LAUGHED

Not Knowing That a Tragedy Was Narrowly Averted.

In the quiet old Mexican city of Jaurez, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, there was to be a bull fight in the amphitheater, almost in the shadow of the great cathedral. It was not to be a performance of the kind that horrifies visitors from the states with its persistent cruelty and occasional gore. Several Americans were to be entertained in a way that was intended to satisfy their sense of humor, as the Mexican managers understood that mysterious element in the composition of their neighbors across the Rio Grande, says the New York Sun.

The plan was that a stout post should be erected in the center of the great arena. On the top was to be a horizontal crosspiece with four arms, and from the end of each arm would hang ropes. At the end of the ropes men would be suspended so that their toes would barely touch the sand.

As the crosspiece was on a pivot the wheel around it at a rapid rate of speed. The bull was to be introduced into the arena in the usual way, and picadors and the other performers were to goad the animal to the point of fury.

It was a fine plan, but it did not work exactly as expected. The bull, which was to be secured by the four chief performers, not reckoning the bull and his wranglers were to be of fiery red, so that the bull would merely attack the men.

Coach Park Has His Players In Fine Trim.

Local Team Has Some Clever Plays It May Use.

Coach Park cut out a terrific pace for the High School eleven yesterday afternoon.

It was the fastest and best practice of the season. Every person that watched the play is confident of a close, clean victory over Minneapolis South Side High School tomorrow.

Rumors are current that the faculty may take three of the best men off the team for being slightly back in studies. Should this rumor prove correct, the Minneapolis game will be a hard one.

The Minneapolis eleven has a hard game this afternoon with the East Side High School of Duluth. But will work only the best substitutes in order to save the star performers for tomorrow's game out at Onondaga park.

The Minneapolis men have been sending out queer hard luck stories about the condition of their team but these are discarded here. Coach Park watched this team closely for several days this week and says that it is in great condition and well up in gridiron science. However, he is confident that the right half will win by a close margin.

The local team has several clever tricks to turn and in case the game goes too close may resort to the same tactics as those used by Carlton.

The probable line-up for tomorrow's game will be:

Carlton college..... Minneapolis.
E. Olson..... right end.....Donnen
F. Olson..... right end.....Donnen
Howard..... right guard.....Johnson
A. Mallett..... left guard.....Johnson
O. Olson..... left tackle.....More
Whipple..... quarter back.....Slover
Brady..... half back.....Salone
A. Cummins..... sub back.....Salone

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE IRISH PAWNBROKERS."

When the lamented Charley Hoyt began the introduction of his farces comedies, with little or no plot, but with a sub-structure of excellent specialties and lively music, the writers were wont to term the plot a "vehicle" which served to introduce and carry along the salient parts of the production. Farces comedies still exist, but the productions of the versatile Hoyt, but of authors of lesser imagination, whose "vehicles" have become heavily saturated, whose occupants are of less merit, and whose titles are drawn from a frenzied imagination. After all, "What's in a name?" The Irish Pawnbrokers" would be just as bad under any title, and titles are deceptive at best.

The production at the Lyceum last evening had some merits, combined with its array of antiquated features. The girls were rather good looking as a whole, and their costumes were really pretty. Maudie Trumbull is a hardworking little creature, with admirable limbs, but a poor voice. The two "Muses" appeared to fair advantage in their specialty in the last act. The Hawththorn sisters sang pleasing ballads and Dick Ferguson displayed considerable ability with the cello and his "turn" with Grace Passmore was effective.

BLACK PATTS' TROUBADOURS. Tonight Black Patti's Troubadours will appear at the Lyceum. The company is headed by Black Patti and many of the other favorites who have appeared here with her at various times are still with the organization. The new musical farce, "A Filipino Mafio," is said to be the biggest hit scored by the troupe during the years of their unparalleled popularity; and the vaudeville olio, with John Tucker in monologue, the strokes of whirlwind dancers and singers; Mack Allen, a slack wire marvel; the Troubadours' quartet; and Black Patti in a new vocal setting called "Songs of Dixie," is up to the former standard.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

"Tip Van Winkle" will be billed at the Lyceum next Tuesday and it will serve to introduce some of the sons of Joseph Jefferson, namely, Thomas, who was obliged to fill his father's role some three years ago, illness compelling the elder Jefferson to retire for a short period. Thomas, it is said, gave such exact performances of this delightful play that his father insisted upon him remaining on the road, the result being the continuation of his starring tours for the past three years. He will be surrounded by a capable company and a performance of unusual merit can be looked forward to.

BOSTON LADIES' ORCHESTRA.

The Boston Ladies' Symphony orchestra will open the Star Lecture course at the First Methodist church next Wednesday evening. There will be a matinee at 2:30 o'clock, especially for the children. The orchestra is composed entirely of women and there are twenty-two of them. There include many fine soloists and solos always appear on all of their programs.

SIXTH AVENUE THEATER.

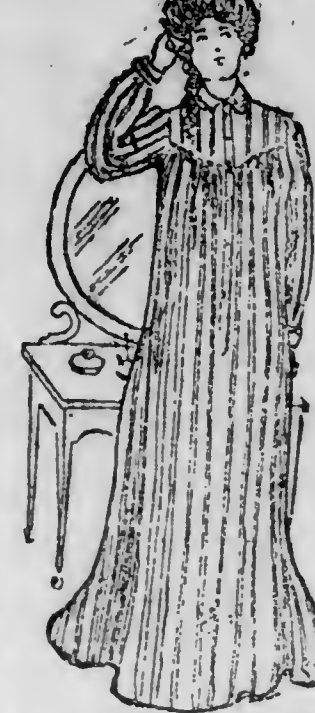

The soldon stock company continues to draw and please large crowds at the Sixth Avenue theater. Last night the "Little Men of Paris" was highly appreciated. Tonight "Kathleen Mavourneen," the greatest of Irish pieces, will be the attraction. The specialties change nightly and are leading features of the show.

ADVANCING.

Eggs Are Getting Scarcer and the Price Stronger.

From now on housekeepers may figure that they will have to pay more for eggs, and those who have to do a little reckoning to make both ends meet without lapping over will presently have to look upon eggs with more respect as an ingredient of cakes and other delicacies. This is neither because the hens have gone on strike, nor because Morgan has been among them to form a laying trust. This is the season when cold weather begins to make the hen a little less enthusiastic about laying, and she who was enthusiastic at the frost waxes and the sun wanes. She still continues to lay, but she is not nearly so prolific during the cold weather as she is during the warm weather, and the consequence is that eggs are getting higher. They are now 18 cents a dozen on Michigan street, and the outlook is that they will be higher before many hours. Storage eggs will shortly be a feature of the market and the quotations will be something like this: "Eggs, 18 cents; fresh eggs, 21 cents." This is the season of new honey, and down on Michigan street piles of open-face boxes are to be seen, with their glass sides showing the geometrical figure of the comb that contain the saccharine product of the busy bee. Dark and delicious they are coming in in large quantities. Big yellow pumpkins, suggestive of autumn, are also appearing.

It Means Outrigger.—Foul breath and disgusting discharges due to Catarrh make thousands of people objects of aversion. Hon. George James, of Scranton, Pa., says: "I have been a martyr of hemorrhoids for twenty years, of constipation and dropping in low throat and pain in the head, very offensive breath. I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application gave instant relief. After using a few boxes I was cured. Sold by Max Wirth, 12 West Superior street—14."

NEW LINE OPENED.

Omaha Using Branch Constructed Last Summer.

The Omaha company has opened its new line that has been in the process of construction since last spring in the Rice Lake section of Wisconsin, and this week there was an auction of land in the township of Birchwood, the present terminus of the new line. The new branch road begins at Rice Lake, on the Duluth-Chicago branch of the Omaha, and runs twenty miles northeastward to Birchwood. The ultimate destination of the line will be Mantouash, on the Milwaukee, Ironwood & Ashland division, a distance of 110 miles from Rice Lake. Construction work will be started again next summer. This new road will open for settlement a tract that has been held by the lumbermen for the past forty years, and who discouraged settlement because of the danger of forest fires. Now that they have cleared off the pine they have placed on the market nearly 88,000 acres, an important addition to the available farm lands in Northern Wisconsin. The lands lie in Washburn, Sawyer, Barron and Chippewa counties. The soil is said to be of excellent quality and some luxuriant growths of grass are shown wherever the land has been cleared for a time. Agriculture will not be the only pursuit left for the settler in this big area, for when the lumbermen cleared off the pine they did not touch the several varieties of hardwood timber, as it was too heavy to float down the streams and

NATIONAL BUREAU

Proposed For Identification of Criminals By Chiefs of Police.

It Would Be Established and Maintained at Washington.

The Plan Meets the Approval of the Attorney General.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The following is the text of the chief sections of the bill for the creation of a national bureau of criminal identification agreed upon by police chiefs, and which measure, it is stated, has been approved by the attorney general:

"That it enacted, etc., that there shall be established and maintained in Washington, D. C., in connection with the department of justice of the United States, a division to be known as the National Bureau of Criminal Identification, where shall be collected and filed, so far as may be practicable, for record and report, plates, photographs, outline pictures, descriptions and measurements of all persons who have been or may be convicted and imprisoned for violating any of the military, naval or criminal laws of the United States, including the laws in force in any of the territories or possessions of the United States, violations of which are punishable by the United States courts.

BLACKMAIL

Attempted By Three Men Trapped By an Ohio Grocer.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 18.—The black-mailing industry in Columbus has received a decided setback within the past few days. Last Saturday night Robert Wolfe, a wealthy shoe manufacturer, shook himself free from leeches who had been bleeding him for years by announcing to the world that he was once a convict. Now three men are securely locked in the city prison, after having made full confession that they were guilty of attempting to extort money from J. J. Tannian, the owner of twelve grocery stores in this city.

The guilty three are Doll Parsons and John Parsons, discharged about a year ago, and Edward Matthews. After the two men first named lost their positions their former employer was annoyed by the frequent receipt of anonymous letters, the writers of which threatened to inform his wife that he was in the habit of consorting with other women.

Mr. Tannian, although he suspected the source of the communications, paid no attention to them. Later he received a letter more explicit in its threat. The nameless writers told him in very bad English that Mr. Tannian had been seen in company with a disreputable woman at a certain time and place, and that if he did not pay them a certain sum of money, they would expose him. "What we want is money," the letter continued. "We have been on the close. The price is $1000. Of course, there is three of us to be paid."

It was then announced that Mr. Tannian had been seen in company with a disreputable woman at a certain time and place, and that if he did not pay them a certain sum of money, they would expose him. "What we want is money," the letter continued. "We have been on the close. The price is $1000. Of course, there is three of us to be paid."

GAMBLING

Caused a Student to Enter House and Steal Jewels.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 18.—College men are stirred up over the arrest of a class and social leader and prominent school fraternity man on the charge of robbery. The culprit is Fred Mitchell, a youth of about 20 years, who comes of a wealthy family at Wauson, and a student at the Toledo Medical college. He was caught in the act of housebreaking.

When taken to the police station he broke down, and confessed to being the perpetrator of a series of larcenies that have baffled the police for months. Edward Scramton resides on Thirteenth street. While in the dining room at noon he heard a noise in one of the front rooms of his home. He went to investigate the cause, and was startled to find a stranger rifling the jewel case of his wife. At sight of Mr. Scramton the thief broke for the door and started to run. Mr. Scramton gave chase and overtook him at Adams street, where he held him until the arrival of the police. At the station the thief was searched and much jewelry was found on his person. Quite a haul was also made when his room was searched.

Mitchell then confessed that he had stolen often before. He said his parents were well-to-do and had allowed him sufficient for his expenses, but he had been gambling and lost the money. To make up his losses and balance his accounts he stole.

Mitchell is a fine-looking young man, dressed in good taste and bears every evidence of refinement.

BOER ARMY

Augmented By Several Thousand European Officers and Soldiers.

London, Oct. 18.—The war office has been informed that 7000 soldiers, both officers and men, from the armies of Europe joined the Boer forces in South Africa during the course of last year. The man who gave this information said today:

"Two things have made possible the surprising duration of the Boer resistance. They are the rebellion in Cape Colony and the influx of European soldiers of fortune. While the majority of the European recruits are adventurous spirits who have served their time in the armies of France, Germany or Austria, quite a number of them are officers who are now belonging to continental armies, who feel leaves of absence in order to exchange the monotony of military academies for one of actual warfare. The governments of Europe are unwilling to allow the object of which officers seek temporary leaves of absence, but continental chancellors sympathize keenly with the Boers to take any unnecessary trouble in order to deprive them of reinforcements.

"Last week I dined with a French officer in Paris, who, with a number of his brother officers, had been serving with the Boers. I met another French officer who had just returned from South Africa after six months of fighting. The latter gave me detailed information respecting the magnitude of the Boer force, and the story only confirmed what I had already learned from various other continental capitals. He said the ports of Cape Colony have been plundered under martial law these alien adventurers will be effectually barred, and this will make the final defeat of the brawling 'kaffers' easier."

NEVER CONDEMNED.

Schley Has Always Stood Well With Public.

Omaha, Oct. 18.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans passed through the city yesterday on his way to the Samoan islands, where he goes to investigate charges against naval officers.

"What is your opinion of the Schley situation?" he was asked.

"Well, I might have a private opinion on that matter, but I do not think it proper to express it publicly at present," replied the admiral.

"Will Schley be exonerated?" he was asked.

Admiral Evans said he was not in a position to say more, but that the battle-ship Texas is not receiving the notice and consideration it deserves in that investigation. That the Texas played a very important and telling part in the sinking of Havana's ice-ship is no gainsaying. I was there, and I ought to know."

Admiral Evans will sail from San Francisco on the first steamer for Samoa.

SHAW DECLINES.

Will Not Accept North Dakota Position.

St. Paul, Oct. 18.—Thomas Shaw, professor of animal industry at the state college of agriculture, will not leave Minnesota. He has decided to refuse the offer from the South Dakota college of agriculture.

South Dakota will be disappointed at not getting Professor Shaw. The regents of the South Dakota school have been after him previously, but he has declined their offers. This time they made so tempting an offer that he was compelled to give it serious consideration.

Among the influences that helped to guide him to his decision were the many expressions of public sentiment that have come to him urging him to stay in the state. But it did not need the danger and consideration of the state to guide him. Professor Shaw. The people of the state have always held him in high esteem for his labors for the advancement of Minnesota agriculture.

STACK & CO.

The Greatest Sale of Bankrupt Stocks Ever Witnessed in Duluth is Going Ahead With More Energy and Enthusiasm as the Time Advances.

This is undoubtedly a gigantic trade opportunity. More than $10,000.00 worth of staple merchandise slaughtered mercilessly. Not a semblance of cost left on the face of it. In some instances 25c will do the work of $1.00. No wonder the crowds are growing larger every day. This is a sort of revelation to the people of Duluth. You can see a pleasant smile of surprise on the faces of the ladies as they witness the throng of economic women buying everything here and there around the store at a mere fraction of the actual value.

There are always advantages in a sale of this kind. First come has first choice, and beyond doubt some of the goods are bigger bargains than others. The goods that were first advertised a week ago don't last until now, so don't be disappointed if you can't get them.

One thing to be remembered in connection with this sale is that there are more goods arriving every day. You know it is practically impossible to have all the goods at one time, so it would be wise and well for all who can spare the time to come every day. We are expecting a lot of Wilson Bros.' Dress Shirts for men that we got in that stock. The regular value of them is about $1.50 each—when they arrive—we hope it will be today—they will be on sale at 50c each, one-third off their real value. A big shipment of Muffs, Collarettes, Scarfs, etc., is looked for eagerly; also a line of Ladies' Plush Capes that will be sold at 50 cents on the dollar and no higher.

This sale has been a glorious success from the start. It is flattering to the management to know that the ladies of Duluth have full confidence in their efforts, as is grandly demonstrated by the hundreds of people who are here every day.

ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

C. E. Moulex, a Railway Switchman, Tires of Life.

Shot Himself Through the Heart in Saratoga Hotel.

Leaves Farewell Note For His Wife and Children.

Strong drink caused the suicide of C. E. Moulex yesterday afternoon.

He left a farewell note to his wife and two small children, saying that he loved them and hoped to see them in another world. He also left them $300 in life insurance.

The suicide was discovered about 6 o'clock last evening, when the door of Mr. Moulex's room in the Saratoga hotel was forced open.

Sometime during the afternoon he had shot himself through the heart and from the appearance of the body death was instantaneous.

On Wednesday he addressed a letter to his wife saying that he would not see her again on earth. When this letter reached her at her home, 323 West Fourth street, yesterday, she became very anxious and instituted a search for the missing man.

In the letter was a pawn ticket for his watch and a life insurance policy of $200, which was in force.

Mr. Moulex went to the Saratoga hotel late Wednesday night. Yesterday he was awakened about noon, did not get up. It is thought that he shot himself a very short time after being awakened.

Mr. Moulex was a railway switchman employed by the Duluth Transfer company. He has always made good wages and had a very pleasant home, but drink would get the best of him at times and on such occasions he became very melancholy.

HE RETURNS.

Senator Quarles Back From His Trip to Indian Reservation.

Senator J. V. Quarles, of Wisconsin, chairman of the senate committee on Indian affairs was in the city last evening on his return from a trip through the Indian reservations of the Northwest.

He reiterated the statement that he made regarding his stand on the park question which were widely published while the special committee was on its Indian reservation trip. He believes that all Indian reservations should be opened, that tribal relations should be destroyed and the Indians should be treated as any other individual.

As to the park idea, Senator Quarles says that the timber is already over-ripe, and is going to waste. He believes that it should be cut, that the very gospel of the forestry idea is that ripe timber should be cut.

One of the matters that the government will have to meet is the method of its disposal. He park propositions would be more attractive had the reservations been wooded instead of pine on them. Senator Quarles says there are 23,000 acres of fine agricultural lands in the Red Lake reservation.

J. S. PILLSBURY DEAD

one of the most interesting chapters of Minnesota history.

He was re-nominated and re-elected in 1877, and entered upon the discharge of his duties under much brighter skies than when he began two years earlier. And so great was the satisfaction of the people with his second administration that they could not deny themselves the privilege of electing him for yet a third term at its close. The absolute fairness of his executive methods is illustrated by his appointment of William Mitchell and Daniel A. Dickinson to the supreme bench, both of them being his political opponents.

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN S. PILLSBURY.

During all this time while Governor Pillsbury was conducting the affairs of state, his private interests were neglected. At that time was being laid the foundation of the great Pillsbury mill, the fame of which is known around the world. He also engaged heavily in lumbering and real estate, and became identified with the construction of railroads, holding the office of director in the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Minneapolis & St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie. He has been a director in several of the leading Minneapolis banks and the Minneapolis Stock Yards company. He was a man who discharged business easily and without worry, and had time for the social and public duties besides. He was an officer of the First Congregational church of Minneapolis. He was a man of simple tastes, quiet manners, unostentatious, sincere and earnest. He impressed himself upon the commonwealth probably more than any other man who ever lived in it. His benefactions have not been confined to the state of Minnesota or the city of Minneapolis. At Sutton, N. H., his native town, he erected a handsome memorial hall, arranged for the use of the selectmen, for the accommodation of a library, and containing a hall which will seat 300 people. With his wife he established an endowment fund of $100,000 for a home in Minneapolis for children and aged women. Last year he built here a home for working girls at a cost of $25,000 and this year he gave $5,000 for a public library on the East Side.

Governor Pillsbury was married in Warner, N. H., Nov. 3, 1856, to Mahala Risk, a most estimable lady, who by her sympathetic and helpful association, contributed much to his honor and success.

In loving remembrance of ex-Governor John S. Pillsbury's great services to the university of Minnesota, the alumni of the university recently erected a statue in their benefactor.

Appeals In Four Cases.

The appeals of the Duluth-Superior traction company in four personal injury cases have been decided before the superior court in West Superior. The cases were tried in municipal court and the plaintiffs got judgments aggregating about $800. The motion for appeal was denied on the grounds that the terms of court have intervened between the time of the original action and the time when the appeals were taken.

DEMOCRATIC

Mass Meeting In New York Overflows Tammany Hall.

New York, Oct. 18.—The Democratic mass meeting at Tammany Hall last night brought together an immense number of people. They jammed themselves into the hall and packed Fourth street and adjacent thoroughfares until the 200 policemen detailed for the meeting had their hands full to prevent serious accidents from the crush.

The announced speakers in Tammany Hall included the chairman, Col. Geo. B. McClellan, Edward M. Shepard, W. W. Ladd, Jr., Henry W. Unger, George M. Van Heesen, Amos J. Cummings, Congressman William B. Salzer, Thomas F. Grady. Other local orators talked to the outside crowds from four stands, which had been erected for the purpose.

The speech of Mr. Shepard, the candidate for mayor, was the first he had ever delivered in Tammany Hall. He said in opening:

"It is well known to you, and it seems to be a chief part of the capital of my distinguished competitor that I have from time to time and more especially four years ago, been hostile to Tammany Hall and criticized it without stint. I am not here to excuse or to recede from anything that I have said. If it were possible for me, as I am not, to make any excuse, I should, whatever might be the increase of your liking for me, lose the respect of the voters of Tammany Hall, a genuine respect which will be of far more consequence to me and the success of my administration, if I be chosen mayor, than any liking I may gain in this campaign."

"Whatever my political fortunes may be this fall, you shall have no occasion to withdraw from me the confidence you have shown in my integrity and steadfastness of purpose by reason of any abandonment—even the slightest—of the standard of public conduct and political behavior which I have set up in the past."

Saying he had been charged with making an implied promise, if elected, not to disintegrate Tammany Hall, Mr. Shepard continued:

"I know very well that if elected I shall have no power to disintegrate Tammany Hall. And I know, perhaps quite as well, that if I were to have the power it would be gross treason to the cause of good government that I should use it for so factional a purpose. I will not do it. There are no doubt some attractions about the mayoralty, as well as much that is oppressive to contemplate; but if the attractions were tenfold over what they are, or if I thought ten times as ill of Tammany Hall as does the Republican candidate, I would not, in order to secure those attractions, promise, forgetting the interests of its 4,000,000 of people and its wholesome and splendid future development, and the sworn duties of my place, to turn the government of the city, its powers and its resources, into mere machinery to break down Tammany Hall, or the Republican party, or any political organization within its borders."

THE PARIS BOURSE.
Except, perhaps, around the Casino at Monte Carlo, there is no army of money hunters as large as that which hovers around the Paris bourse, affecting the value of stocks and bonds, and the price of the gold and silver market.

With a beautiful view of the world and possessing in full that instinctive knowledge of life, the bonhomme d'etat—so shattered in character and degraded in morals, always mental and often physical wrecks; men with broken volition, with lost purpose, with professions they no longer believe in, with the terrible despair of the unfortunates, men whose sole aim is to get rich, and whose only hope is to play the market which they themselves can never play like the Vieux professeur at Monaco, who, movement and false retirement will cast you a beautiful horoscope with his infallible diagrams and apparatus. Men—but they are not men. They are ghosts—phantoms, mere apparitions who haunt the purples of the relentless, inexorable markets that destroyed them.

These, with a few old women, are the droves and the flocks of the Paris bourse, and they are known as the pious humbles—“securities.” The securities are as “securities.” The securities are as “securities.” The securities are as “securities.”

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion. The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the sympathetic and pneumogastric.

On another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor indigestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart. The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion, to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use of a small amount of a pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be had of any druggist. These tablets, which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any form of indigestion, of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

CARNEGIE AN ISSUE

Tammany Offers Big Reward for Original of a Letter.

Court Rules Against Candidate Appearing in Two Columns.

Firemen Tear Down Republican Posters That Obstruct Escapes.

New York, Oct. 18.—Tammany Hall has offered a reward of $500 for proof that Andrew Carnegie wrote the letter, ostensibly received by Lincoln W. Kent, of Brooklyn, and read at the fusion mass meeting in Wendell's assembly rooms on Tuesday night by Samuel W. Cohen. Doubt as to the authenticity of the letter was expressed by Mr. Vannoy, who delivered during the alleged letter declared that Mr. Carnegie's utterances regarding the city government, now displayed on political banners and posters, were delivered during and referred to the late Mayor Strong's administration.

Accompanying these extracts was a letter, dated Oct. 15, from the Carnegie Trust, New York, to the effect that Mr. Carnegie had written the letter, and that he had never seen any letter from Lincoln W. Kent to Mr. Carnegie, and that he had never heard of him.

A strange fact connected with the matter is that the letter, which was handed him on Tuesday night, was written by someone who does not know.

Andrew Carnegie apparently took himself out of the municipal campaign by refusing to appear in the city in reply to a communication notifying him to do so.

There is another thing that is worth noting in the matter, and that is the fact that Carnegie, who is a Democrat, is now a Republican.

That there is no independent nomination for aldermen in the districts is a fact that is not generally known.

FORCE DISSOLVED.

Report That Botha Has Disbanded His Men.

New York, Oct. 18.—From Newcastle, Natal, a correspondent of the Times sends a dispatch which says a large number of Boers are near Pongolabosch and Slangkop, while a commando of 500 holds a position southeast of Pietermaritzburg.

Commandant Gen. Botha has dissolved his force, which numbered 2000, and has left his men to become as best they can. He himself, with a few followers, has gone north through a small unguarded space near Pietermaritzburg. The main interest of the moment, says the dispatch, centers in the operations around Pongolabosch, where the British are gradually including the Boers.

REFEREE THREATENED.

The Sports Did Not Like His Decision.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 15.—A crowd of 500 sports, who assembled last night to witness a ten-round bout between Adam Han, of Chicago, and Joe Perceynte, of Milwaukee, objected so strenuously to the decision of referee Sig Hart that he was threatened with mobbing. Both men were on their feet at the end of the tenth round, but Hart gave the decision to Kenosha. The crowd was convinced that the referee was biased, and only the interference of the police saved the referee.

WANT A FAST ONE.

Automobile Must Make 70 Miles an Hour.

New York, Oct. 18.—According to the Tribune, a contract has been awarded in this city for an automobile conditional upon the machine being able to make seventy miles an hour over a level road. If this speed can be attained the price for the automobile, complete, is to be $2000. Among those who are said to be interested in the deal are W. C. Drexel and Frederick Lande.

GETS FIVE MILLIONS.

Metropolitan Museum to Come Into Its Legacy.

New York, Oct. 18.—The payment of $250,000 to the heirs of the late Jacob S. Rogers as litigation in the contest of the will has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Metropolitan Museum of Art will in a short time come into possession of the legacy.

R. V. Lushington, who has represented the heirs in the contest, states that out of this settlement all of the heirs who have valid claims will receive their share. The division of the sum having been privately agreed upon between them.

Robert V. De Forest, of the museum, gives the following information in regard to the settlement: "The amount of the settlement was $250,000, about 10 per cent on the amount involved, and not much more than a year's normal income on this amount of property."

WEDS BOYHOOD LOVE.

Once Sentenced to Death For Slaying Rival.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 18.—The marriage of Miss Victoria Reel and Robert Sadler in St. Joseph's church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Sadler, who is one of the most distinguished, bloodstained romances New Orleans has ever known.

Sadler and Miss Reel had been sweethearts from childhood. Sadler was a hard-boiled fighter, and he could claim the girl as his bride. But Miss Reel, who was a beautiful girl, was a power to influence her against the man.

In the darkest hour of his life, when he was sentenced to death for slaying a rival, he was saved by the intervention of his friends.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

Moving Tunnel Sideways After It Is Built.

New York, Oct. 18.—An operation that is classified by engineers as one of the most remarkable undertakings in their line ever begun in this country, and certainly one that is unique in New York city, is now in progress in the Rapid Transit subway between One Hundred and Thirty-seventh streets.

It was in these two blocks that the first stretch of the subway was completed in last year. Since its completion the plans for the tunnel have been so changed that there are to be three tracks at that point instead of two.

When this change was announced the sub-contractors were faced with the choice of tearing to pieces their work and rebuilding on a wider basis, or moving the completed structure bodily. They chose the latter, and it is the moving that constitutes the present novel undertaking.

In the first of the two blocks an enormous wall, weighing about 200 tons, has been shifted, and another, weighing the same, is being shifted. They are made of concrete, heavy rock blocks and pressed brick. Their height varies from three to about fifteen feet. Their thickness from nine to three feet. Each of them, when it rests in its final position, will have been moved intact through a distance of five feet and six inches.

The second block between One Hundred and Thirty-sixth and One Hundred and Thirty-seventh streets has in it nearly 200 feet of the regulation steel structure, weighing 2100 tons, or 4,500,000 pounds.

SENT TO PRISON.

London, Oct. 18.—A dispatch received from the London Times says that a man, the anarchist who returned from the United States with Bress, the assassin of King Humbert, has been committed to prison by the court at Porto Franco in connection with the charge of being an accomplice of Bress.

KANSAS SENSATION.

A Preacher Calls the Traveling Men Mormons.

Emporia, Kan., Oct. 18.—Two commercial travelers, members of St. Mark's Lutheran church of this city, have announced their withdrawal from the church on account of statements made by Pastor Zimmerman last Sunday morning.

In his remarks he stated that in some respects traveling men now called Mormons are just as bad as the Mormons themselves. He said that he had seen a traveling man in the audience that the preacher had called a Mormon.

A regular meeting of Emporia lodge of the Commercial Travelers' union occurs on Saturday next. The meeting will be held before the meeting, and stringent resolutions have already been prepared and will be presented.

Two Women Steal Hams From a Wholesale House.

When Discovered They Flee—One Caught In Lonsdale Building.

Home of One, Mrs. Marshall, Searched With Some Result.

Female shoplifters have started a campaign in the Michigan street wholesale district.

Yesterday afternoon two well-dressed women put two fifteen-pound hams under their golf capes in the Wright-Clarkson establishment.

Owing to a loss of other things the two women were watched very closely.

Notwithstanding the fact that they were seen taking the hams they tried to get away with them.

An officer and several clerks gave chase. One of the women, Mrs. Frank Marshall, ran into the Lonsdale building and up three flights of stairs.

The ham got so heavy in her flight that she dropped it.

Officer Smalllet caught her and she agreed to pay $5 for the ham.

This woman comes from an old and respected family in Duluth and the police have decided to keep her name a secret for the present, at least.

In explanation she said this morning that she did not want to steal anything, but the Marshall woman put her up to it.

Detectives this afternoon visited the Marshall home with a search warrant. She is believed to be the woman that has been doing a prosperous shop lifting business for several months past.

When the officers entered the house she was apparently expecting them and was very nervous.

The house was still being searched at a late hour. Many boxes of valuable goods, silk stockings, hats, baby shoes, underwear, soap, towels, pillow cases, collarettes, saucers, and draperies were found in the study.

Little house, which is situated in the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets and near Lake avenue.

Mrs. Marshall claims that all the goods she cannot account for belong to her husband, who is a traveling salesman.

She says that she belongs to her daughter and that the baby that wore them had died.

She says that she never even wore them and that they belonged to her husband, who is a traveling salesman.

A GREAT ASSEMBLY

Thomas S. Wood Returns From San Francisco Episcopal Convention.

Bishop Morrison Mentioned In Connection With Bishopric.

Debate Over Divorce Canon Feature In the Gathering.

Thomas S. Wood has returned from San Francisco, where he went as lay delegate to the Episcopal convention of this city, to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church, held in that city.

Dr. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's, and Bishop James D. Morrison, of the missionary diocese of Northern Minnesota, were there also and will return next week.

Mr. Wood says that the convention was a most interesting gathering, not merely because of the attendance of those entitled to seats, but because of the enormous number of people who were attracted to San Francisco by the low railroad rates.

The California metropolis was jammed with visitors, and people at some points had to wait two days to get sleeping car accommodations, everything being booked ahead.

A matter of much interest to Duluth people is that Bishop Morrison, of this city, is prominently mentioned for the bishopric formerly filled by Bishop Littlejohn, at Long Island.

There may be a bar to his being considered when the appointment is made, however, for a canon was adopted at the convention providing that no bishop of a missionary diocese shall be transferred after he has served five years.

This canon was adopted largely because of the influence of the late Bishop Walker, who was there but a short time when he was transferred to some other diocese.

He was there, and he had been there just about long enough to get well into the work when he was transferred.

It has been rather demoralizing to the work of the diocese, and it is to prevent this that the canon was adopted.

The great feature of the convention was, however, the debate over the canon prohibiting marriage of divorcees. The house of bishops adopted a canon prohibiting marriage of divorcees without conditions.

When this canon went to the house of deputies, composed of the clergy, laymen from bishops and the laity, Dr. Huntington, rector of Grace church in New York city, offered an amendment which made the exception that, in cases where adultery was the ground upon which divorce was obtained, the innocent party might marry again.

The debate upon this question, says Mr. Wood, was a most interesting one and some of the famous lawyers of the country and some of the leading members of the clergy took part in it.

There was a very interesting discussion of the canon, and the general conclusion was that the time after this Capt. Clark turned around and called up attention to some objects in the water that looked like floating buoys, apparently three or four feet above the water. We thought they were nets with torpedoes between them, probably thrown out to injure the ship. I ported the helm and before I could do anything we passed over the spot and found that we were in the wake of the Viscaya.

Commander Nicholson then detailed the chase of the Colon, the subsequent going ashore and surrender. Commander Nicholson said that he recalled some signals from the Brooklyn on the day of the battle, among others one at the beginning of the fight to close up and another at the close of the engagement saying, "Well done, Oregon!"

"As for the first signal," he said, "we were already closing in, and it did not influence us."

In reply to questions from Mr. Rayner, the witness said he could not say positively that he had seen the Brooklyn make her turn, but that he had seen her change her position. He had never seen the Brooklyn and Texas when they were closer together than a mile and a half. He also said that he did not remember any signal from the Brooklyn to the Oregon to use her 13-inch guns on the Colon.

"Did the Oregon use her 13-inch guns early in the action?" Capt. Lemly asked, as his first question on cross-examination.

"Oh yes," was the reply. "But she stopped using them during the chase of the Colon, as that vessel was so far away that to use them would have been a waste of ammunition."

In response to another question by Capt. Lemly, the witness said he recalled that the Oregon was nearer the enemy during the chase than the Brooklyn, but the distance varied somewhat. At one time the Brooklyn had apparently turned to head off a turn of the Colon and Lieutenant Hodgson, but witness said he was unable to repeat it under oath. He had seen the Oregon firing at the Brooklyn, but he was not certain of all details.

The court asked questions of Commander Nicholson, as follows:

"Was the Oregon in her proper blockading position when the Spanish ships started out?"

"Practically yes,"

"What was her course with reference to the Moro?"

"About four miles distant and a little eastward to south of it."

"What was the distance between the blockading positions of the Oregon and Brooklyn?"

"From three to four miles in the day time, they were nearer together at night."

"What was the relative position of the American ships when the Spanish vessels came out?"

"The Iowa was due south, the Texas on her port bow and the Oregon further off to the westward. The Oregon was to the right of the Iowa and the Indiana in line with the Oregon and the New York to the distance. I remember immediately looking for the flagship and saw her seven or eight miles toward Siboney."

"Did the Oregon at anytime pass the American ships?"

"Not when they were offering any active resistance; she did as the Spanish vessels turned to go ashore."

"When the Oregon changed her direction toward the Brooklyn, had the Brooklyn completed her turn?"

"I am under the impression that she had; she must have done so."

"What was the position of the Oregon when she turned with starboard helm during the battle off Santiago?"

"She was lying still in the water, and we turned to head off the Spaniards. We overtook all but the Colon very quickly."

Mr. Charles M. Devan followed Mr. Nicholson. He said that he had been medical officer in the Brooklyn and had observed the battle of July 3 from the forecabin. He gave a brief description of the battle, saying he had been present when Yeoman Ellis was killed.

as soon as possible. Forced draught was put on. Then, of course, it was a question of how many men would get. The steam was working to the best advantage so as to increase the turns of the engines. The number of the engines from the beginning to the end.

"Were the engines at any time stopped, reversed or slowed?"

"The engines were not at any time during the battle stopped or reversed. I have no recollection of their ever having been slowed. They certainly were not stopped or reversed."

At Mr. Rayner's request, witness presented a written memorandum which he had prepared, showing the speed of the Brooklyn during the day of the battle, and indicating a gradual increase from 1 1/2 knots to 4 knots per hour. The memorandum was based upon the revolutions of the propeller. In response to questions by Capt. Lemly, witness stated that he estimated the entire distance traversed between 9:35 a. m. and 1:15 p. m. at fifty-two knots.

Again taking the witness, Mr. Rayner asked him if he had received any encouraging messages during the battle, and he replied that he had, saying:

"They were all of general purport, informing us as to what stage of the action had taken place, for instance that a ship had been sunk, had turned in shore or two ships were on fire. Of course they were all enthusiastically received."

In response to Capt. Lemly's witness said that some of the messages were from Commander Schley, others from the Brooklyn, and others from the Assistant Engineer Ryan. The court asked the following questions:

"When were the messages in the bottles that were not in use when the battle began on the morning of July 3?"

"The two after messages were used in them. Those fires were not laid until after the battle was sounded, but the other bottles in use were laid. As to when they were laid I do not know, but the bottles had water in them and those without water were kept uncharged."

"Did Carter was then excused and W. P. Cronan, an ensign, who served as signal officer on the Brooklyn in the morning of July 3, was called?"

"Yes, sir. That morning I was on watch, and after the order of the Brooklyn was given, I went to the Brooklyn. We sighted three ships coming from the Brooklyn and of the converted yacht. The Scorpion left the column and went over toward this point. When the Scorpion came back and communicated by megaphone to the Brooklyn. The whole of this part of the Brooklyn's action, the Scorpion's action, and that he had not been able to complete the repairs until the evening of the next day, May 28. He also said that while the Merrimack was not engaged, her horsepower was used to dredge and that she was able to hobble along only at the rate of four or five knots an hour."

The court asked Capt. Hannum the following questions:

"What was the Brooklyn's most economical speed and how much coal per day did she burn at that rate?"

"I never had opportunity to test the vessel in order to arrive at that, but the economical speed I think was about ten knots, burning from seventy to seventy-five tons of coal a day."

"What were the fires had ready for lighting under all boilers not in use by the Brooklyn July 2? If not, why not?"

"I think the furnaces were cooled. I am pretty sure they were ready to throw a shovel of coal on them and start them."

Capt. Hannum was then excused, and Lieut. Thomas P. Carter, passed assistant engineer, who was in charge of the machinery of the Brooklyn during the Santiago campaign, was called. In reply to a question from Mr. Rayner, he gave a statement concerning the condition of the engines of the Brooklyn on the morning of the battle, July 3, saying:

"The after main engines were not used. The forward main engines were disconnected from the forward end, and steam was in three boilers."

Mr. Rayner: "Can you tell me what went on in the engine rooms during the fight in connection with increasing speed?"

"Every effort possible was made to keep the steam up to get the most power, the most turns of the engines. The fires were started in the other boilers

AMERICAN INVASION

On European Industries Cause Uneasiness In Provincial Centers.

Norwegian State Railway Is to Be Supplied With Cars.

Considered a Menace to British Iron and Steel Trade.

New York, Oct. 19.—Commenting upon the American industrial invasion of Europe, the London correspondent of the Tribune says:

Provincial industrial centers continue to display uneasiness over the encroachments of American trade in Europe. Birmingham has heard that an American firm has made a provisional contract for supplying the Norwegian state railways with 200 passenger and freight cars. This is an experimental contract and if the rolling stock proves satisfactory in use there, there will be large additional orders for the equipment of state railways from the United States. This order is regarded as a menace to the British iron and steel trade.

JOSEPH B. FORAKER.

Agents of American manufacturing companies have been exploring the continent during the last year and have been able to find a ready market for their wares. American competition is also being felt in motor cars, one of Birmingham's specialties, and improved machines with electric motor are displacing the earliest vehicles favored by the natives. The Motor Manufacturers Association complain of the competition of the United States in the cotton trade, but is anxious to secure a safer market in India, and a larger one in China.

There is a general feeling of dragging the exports of worsted and woolen goods to the United States not increasing. The best hope is that the European market not having been helped by any favorable rumors about the king, the worsted goods will find a ready market which the West End tradesmen have been forced to pay as a safeguard for their stock.

STEEL RAILS.

Large Orders Have Been Placed For Delivery
In 1902.

New York, Oct. 19.—According to the Tribune, orders for 1,800,000 tons of steel rails for delivery in 1902 have been placed with the various manufacturers to which must be added 350,000 tons hereover from this year's orders, making the total amount actually on the books 1,650,000 tons. The aggregate orders for next year, it is estimated, will be about 1,600,000 tons. The output of rails in 1900 was 2,383,650 tons. It is understood that the price is at present being maintained at $28 a ton.

INTEREST IN THE GAME RUNS HIGH

Whole High School Excited Over Contest With Minneapolis Central School Next Saturday
---Debaters Preparing For Work.

The high school football team is certainly up against it out at Onota park this afternoon. The boys from Minneapolis are playing a hard game this year and are said to be in the best of condition for the game with the local high school. Although they met the East Side high school of Minneapolis yesterday they played most of their substitutes in the game, so that the team which plays this afternoon is practically fresh.

The local boys are in good condition too. Capt. Mallet will in all probability be in the game again, and Smith, the substitute center, has been showing up exceedingly well during the week. While he has had less experience than Cummings, the regular man, he is much heavier and stronger, and it is hoped that he will accomplish by sheer force what he may not be able to do by science, owing to his lack of experience.

The men have practiced more regularly and with more vim during the last week than at any time this season. Twice they have been out to the driving park playing hard practice games against the full second team. Yesterday afternoon Coach Park put them through a light practice and some fast signal work. He expressed himself this morning as being confident that his team would win.

The reports have it that the men from Minneapolis are heavier than the local boys. As a consequence, they are slower. Everything points to a close, hard fought game this afternoon. At 3 o'clock the teams lined up as follows:

Minneapolis.
E. Olson ..... right end ..... Donnan
Putter ..... right tackle ..... Ostrander
Howard ..... right guard ..... Johnson
A. Mallett ..... left guard ..... Jorgensen
O. Olson ..... left tackle ..... Moore
Whipple ..... quarter back ..... Stover
Bradley ..... right half ..... Hoover
A. Cummings ..... full back ..... Salome
Great interest in the contest has been shown at the high school this week. The issue of the game will give the local enthusiasts an idea of the chance that the local men have of capturing the championship of this part of the country. If they win the game scheduled for the next three weeks there will be no question about their title to it.

Not only Duluth but also the Twin City experts are watching the game with anxiety. They have heard of the success of the Duluth team last year and this year, and are much afraid that their school, which has been the unquestioned champion for several years, will lose the distinction.

The high school rosters have been plugging along, and the new year is springing on the Minneapolis and St. Paul teams, which are to be here for the next three Saturdays. Several new yells have been devised, and if yelling can help their team to win—and they are of the opinion that it can—they will be right here in pursuit of all the honor that can be earned by mere lung power.

The schedule for the three weeks contains the best and hardest games of the season—Minneapolis South Side high school today, Minneapolis Central high school next Saturday, and the Champlain Arts high school, of St. Paul on Nov. 2. These are the three big games of the year. If they are won, they give the local boys the scholastic championship of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa.

The Minneapolis central meets the Mechanic Arts of St. Paul today. From the result of this game the chances of the local team for winning the pennant can be guessed pretty closely. Although the next three games are the most important of the season they will be out for scraps when the local boys go over there, and will certainly give them a run for their money.

One thing that the high school men, and indeed the entire city, should congratulate themselves on is the reputation for fairness the high school teams have built up for themselves through out this section of the country. By the gentlemanly football and the excellent treatment that they give to the teams that come here, they are known all over the state. Every team that comes to Duluth to play is sure of getting the best possible reception from the local school.

This is exemplified by the following, which was taken from one of the Superior papers. It refers to the game with the Blaine high school a week ago:

"The local boys are high in their praise of the excellent treatment accorded them by the Duluth team, and say that the game was the fairest they ever played."

"This from Superior, which of all the towns which the high school men visit, cherishes the strongest feeling toward them, is pretty good testimony. Arrangements have been made by the senior class of the local institution to give the Minneapolis central high school a pretty, though informal reception on the evening after the game. The place where it is to be held has not yet been decided upon. There will be music and dancing. The reception will be very enjoyable informal, and should prove a pleasure to all concerned.

Ashland, which the team meets on Nov. 23, has been making quite a record so far this season. She has not been scored on. Ironwood and several other schools of the section, have been among her victims. She is eagerly waiting the game with the local team in the hope that she may be able to even up the score of last year, when she was taken into camp 17 to 0 by the central team.

DEBATERS PREPARING.

Getting Ready For Debating League Contest.

The high school debaters have been busy for the last few weeks getting ready for the contests which they will take part in as members of the Minnesota State Debating league.

Mr. Thomas, who has charge of that part of the high school work, has had about twenty candidates reading up references and preparing themselves for the work which is to come. The question on which all the debates of the league will bear for the coming year is that of capital punishment. The prospective debaters are taking hold of the subject with vigor, and an excellent team is expected to be in the field to represent the local institution.

A senior oratorical contest has also been arranged to take place some time in December. There are several promising candidates for honors in this, and from all present indications the contest will be a splendid exhibition of scholastic oratorical ability.

With these two contests soon to be held the declamatory talent of the school should certainly not lack development.

Will Buy New Cover.

The High School Musical society, in a meeting held Tuesday afternoon, decided to present the school with a new cover for the piano. The society will furnish the material and the girls of the senior class are to embroider the cloth.

The old cover, which has seen much service, is in rather dilapidated condition, and the new one will certainly add much to the appearance of the assembly room. The new cover will be in place in about a month if everything goes well.

How to Tell the Genuine.

The signature of E. W. Grove appears on every box of Winslow's Soothing Syrup. The remedy cures a cold in one day.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The Minnesota-Grimell football game has been cancelled on account of Governor Pillsbury's death. Minnesota will stand to lose its $500 guarantee. The game can hardly be pulled off later, as there are no open dates.

The Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, by a vote of 145 to 50, passed a resolution opposing the moral support of the federation to the endorsement of a chair of domestic science at Milwaukee-Dowder college, Milwaukee. The resolution was amended so as to recommend instead of giving financial aid.

President Hutin, of the Panama Canal company, had another conference Friday with Admiral Walker and former Senator Pasco, of the Isthmian canal commission. No formal proposition for the sale of the Panama canal to the United States was made, nor is it certain that a definite offer will be made at this time.

C. S. Mellen, president of the Northern Pacific, arrived at Tacoma Friday to meet J. P. Morgan, who will arrive there with the Episcopal bishops from San Francisco. Other railway officials will also be on hand to meet Mr. Morgan.

The negro arrested in East St. Louis Tuesday on suspicion of being the murderer of John G. Foster, of Sarsopore, Ind., was released from custody as the telegraph description of the negro did not tally and was faulty in many respects.

WORLD OF LABOR

Municipal Employment Bureau Is to Be Started Soon.

Will Probably Open In City Hall or the Armory.

Speaking and Music at Next Meeting of the Trades' Assembly.

Railway firemen No. 533, tomorrow, Proctor-knot.

Railway firemen No. 519, tomorrow, Irwin-Sloan hall.

Railway trainmen, tomorrow, Irwin-Sloan hall.

Sheet metal workers, Tuesday, Kalamazoo block.

Meat cutters, Tuesday, in the Kalamazoo block.

Barbers' union, on Tuesday, in Brown's hall.

Porters' union, Tuesday, Labor World office.

Walters and cooks, Tuesday, 215 West Superior street.

Plumbers' union, meets Thursday, in Kalamazoo hall.

Retail Clerks' union, Thursday, in the Hunter block.

Trades' assembly, Friday, in the Kalamazoo block.

Bricklayers' union, Friday, in Brown's hall.

Lathers' union, on Friday, in Kalamazoo block.

Longshoremen, Saturday, Gilley's hall.

The free municipal employment bureau, organized by the city at the urgent request of organized labor, will be inaugurated in two weeks. The commissioners having it in charge have been making desperate efforts to get a suitable location on the Bowery, which is the labor market of Duluth, but so far they have been unable to get a desirable place.

It is probable that the bureau will either have to open up in the city hall or the armory. Either of these locations are sure to be more or less handicapping to the project. On Superior or Michigan streets, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, is the proper location for an employment office. The city hall and the armory are too far away from this center of labor seeking men. The bureau will furnish employment free to all workmen looking for jobs and it will also endeavor to secure work for women.

Alderman Johnson, of the clerks' union, on Monday called the city council's attention to the lack of progress in the building of the Tenth avenue west foot viaduct. It is probable that the city engineer will have an interesting report to make on this bridge at next Monday night's meeting.

The Trades' assembly next Friday evening will devote much of its session to social affairs. There will be some speaking and a good program of music.

LABOR NOTES.
Spain imports American rails.

Boston has a Newsboys' Protective union.

Camden, Ark., boasts of 76½-pound watermelons.

Germany is to have a co-operative shoe factory.

Montana has 2700 pickets out last Sunday to see that the Sunday closing law was enforced. The boss butchers propose fighting the law.

At Marlon, Ind., plumbers were locked out for ten weeks, but the master plumbers finally signed the journeymen's agreement, and now everything is in satisfactory shape.

Montana secured the banner union state of the country. The legislature has just passed a law establishing the eight-hour day for miners and smelters of the state.

The making of a bar of soap in the last years of the century took twenty times the labor that is required today. The labor cost of making 2,000 pounds of laundry soap is $2.50 now, against $4.70 of former years.

Over four hundred delegates attended the annual meeting of the British Trade Union congress. When it came to a show of voting strength compulsory arbitration was rejected by 670 to 266,000 votes.

The trade union is founded upon the best of human rights; it stands as the mighty protest against all forms of wrong and injustice; it instills courage, manhood, independence, fraternity, the love for the good and the true; it lives in the hearts and minds of the toilers and the people; it will not die.

American Federationist.

Trade unionism is productive of friendship, fellowship, fraternity. It creates a bond of sympathetic fellow-feeling one for another, an agreement of action, a common feeling of love and good will for others less fortunate; inspires a spirit for the exercise of the greatest of all virtues, charity for all mankind.—Sam Leffingwell, in American Federationist.

The annual contribution to the income of the working class is estimated at fully $50,000,000, and while the increase in pay has not been evenly distributed throughout all trades, there has been a general upward tendency.

They will have the co-operation of all the stenographers, and now run employment offices in connection with their stenographic schools. They will be opposed by the numerous colleges that turn out stenographers by the hundreds, promising the employer that help furnished from the union office will be competent in every respect.

Unlovely Looking Petticoats and Patalets That Carry Out This Effect—London For Tea Gowns and Driving Coats.

New York, Oct. 16.—Except that the graduated flounce is not so much in evidence, the new skirts differ little in line from those of the summer. Effects are still clinging at the top and sweeping and furling at the bottom, and in order to make these more than ever pronounced dressmakers are bringing forth some singularly unlovely garments which are intended to take the place of the petticoat and time-honored chemise. These may be modestly called divided skirts, if you choose—but they are to be worn on either leg, fastening with ribbon draw strings, or elastic either above or below the knee, something after the old-time patalets bottoms. The additional bulk the long skirt gives to the hips is thus obliterated, and when the outer jupe is lifted no division is perceptible in this under petticoat.

But even in process of the toilette the leg skirts are funny, to say the least. What is worse, they will afford little protection against the blasts of winter. However, there is a great need to worry about the matter as yet, for leg skirts are to be universally adopted. A few chemists will take to them and the rest of us—those to whom femininity is dearer than all else—will cherish more tenderly than ever the honorable under loggery which has given pretty good satisfaction up to date.

to display them. In Paris the English visitor is always recognized by her feet, as well as by the hard knob of hair that ornaments the back of her head. "Anglaise!" any passerby says audibly, for though famed as a nation for politeness the French are singularly defective in the manner of street manners. And the stranger, a curious animal, and not quite civilized in his thinking, is always a spur to a Frenchman's wit. For this reason, if for no other, it is always wise for visitors to Paris to costume themselves as much like Parisians as possible. That is the feminine portion, of course, for the men of Paris are as notorious for bad dressing as the women are for good. With all this contempt for the fashions of Great Britain it may seem singular to hear that not only this country, but Paris depends upon London for its choicest tea gowns. In the days of the aesthetic craze England studied clinging picture effects with a lasting intent, and today the house gowns which the "liberty silk" people yearly deport are considered the most charming that can be bought. A retail shop in Paris is always well supplied with them, and those that find their way to this country are worn by the smartest women.

An English tea gown pictured is made of liberty velvet, claret red striped with black. This forms the train portion, the chemise-like fall of the Empire front being of biscuit toned a velvet or cloth jupe. Sometimes the whole costume is made of velvet, which seems somehow to suit the picturesque coat models better than a combination of materials, as with their jeweled buttons and white satin and lace trappings they all belong to a period when magnificent materials were in order.

A long skirt, entirely without trimming and showing its juicy curves a very narrow front panel, is the usual jupe for one of these jackets. Elaborate flowing sleeves of lace distinguish many of them, giving, with soft undersleeves and rich wrist frills of lace, rather a fancy dress look. Pointed cape collars in heavy lace, coming below the shoulder blades at the back and as long in front, are also seen on them.

For a time French millinery found little favor in New York, the general verdict being that it was too extravagant for our quieter tastes. This year such a charge can certainly not be brought against Parisian headgear, for in contrast to some of the wild freaks evolved by American trimmers Paris hats seem as modest as the wayside violet. A low broadness is the characteristic feature of all hats on the turban principle, and by this is meant draped hats, where, if there is a brim, it is at least not defined. Trimmings of feather braids are put on to lie flatly, and velvets and dull finished silks blend harmoniously and fold in a mass that is as cunning as heavy, for the result of such a hat is invariably charming on the right head.

Few of the trying stiff crowns which we have been introduced to here appear. The best model in French head-dress is intended to be generally head-dressing and not excite at any point, so it comes about that when scrutinized in the hand the Paris hat seems to the initiated rather a careless and home made affair. It is only when it is on the head that you see the difference—all the difference that lies between the right thing and the wrong. To achieve this perfection between the head and its covering—for every well-dressed French woman's hat seems a part of her—Parisian milliners take infinite pains. The customer is kept waiting while the facts are tried on and on until the one is found that sets off her type to the best advantage.

STUNNING PARIS FROCKS.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Nothing is more stunning than the coat and skirt gowns of the winter. Already one can see them in all their picturesque grace of the

THE MODISH VELVET COAT

The winter girl will be clad in velvet. This beautiful three-quarter coat is one of the most practical models shown and has already won her unqualified approval. It is black velvet and has a collar revers and cuffs of marten fur. It is trimmed with black satin and jet

Gowns and wraps of this royal material are the height of her ambition. This beautiful three-quarter coat is one of the most practical models shown and has already won her unqualified approval. It is black velvet and has a collar revers and cuffs of marten fur. It is trimmed with black satin and jet

The coat skirts were rather long and flaring and their front corners were turned back and fastened with buttons, showing the white taffeta lining. The bell elbow sleeves were slashed and had their corners buttoned back and a bouffant undersleeve of linen embroidery with gray velvet strappings at the wrists completed the pretty effect. The hat was a wide, loosely rolling one of white Himalaya felt with black plumes.

A black panne jacket was an odd mixture of the Louis XV and the Louis XIII. It was worn with a smart white cloth skirt and a toque of white velvet poppy petals veiled with a black Spanish scarf. Its long ends at the elbows, showing the white taffeta lining, were tucked vertically down the front breadth as low as the knees, then flaring in a full ruffle, which continued about the sides and back, tuckings giving the ruffle the necessary fullness all about. The velvet coat had immensely bellying sleeves, encrusted with ivory guipure, and a deep guipure shoulder collar hung nearly to the elbows. Big ivory and gold buttons fastened the coat crosswise of the front in a sort of surplice effect, and a scarf of pale rose faille fastened with ivory and gold ennobled the waist line.

Cloth embroidered in English fashion perforated and buttonhole stitched is very much the rage. It makes a smart little coat of pale rose broadcloth laid over a changeable rose and gray taffeta lining. The scalloped edge of the embroidered cloth lies over a band of rose This describes a bolero outline, and coat-tails at the back, the belt being of black taffeta with coral and gold buttons. On the skirt, the embroidery forms two straight bands with a band of velvet between.

An odd bolero gown is of brown baty wool, very rough. It is trimmed with row borders of yellow panne work in the bolero sleeves, almost exactly like a bow of yellow lace and a turnover collar of embroidered yellow panne. The front and back and pockets are of straps of embroidery on the bust hold them flat in nice folds. Beneath there is a broad belt of wool in shingles.

All white costumes have been given the word of approval for the winter as well as for the summer, certainly not for the street but for carriage wear, for elegant rooms and receptions. A white cloth gown covered with embroidery, a white lace toque with hanging ends, a long white taffeta coat, lined with satin and strapped with panne, this a toilet suggested for a wedding in October. With panne cut into scrolls on the edge and embroidered with jet is one of the pretty trimmings of the winter. It is chic as a border cloth, the sleeves of which have long bouffant-trimmed black mouselines.

The cravat of black velvet and the turban of black velvet with torsade of sea black taffeta through which a black ostrich panache is thrust, its sweep encircling the hat and prodding downward in an immensely smart way.

The race for white has brought ermine to the fore. I have already told you that wide bands of fur will be used on many of the winter skirts. When of ermine their effect will be considerable. Boleros of ermine, jackets, cuffs, pelerines and finally whole long coats of ermine with braided borders of sable tails are among the beautiful things offered by the furriers. Little, if any, will be worn on the street; a great deal with all reception toilettes. On evening gowns, especially, will bands of ermine have a great success. Empire gowns of black panne with ermine boleros and winter reception. Scarcely of black tulle will soften the effect, and a black lace veil draped over white tulle will form the toque.

The empire gown in cloth for the street is contemplated and models have appeared. It will, of course, be worn with a long loose coat, knee long or ankle long. It will be richly trimmed on its deep flounce at the hem, thus taking away the narrow effect of the real empire gown. Indeed, it is only the straightness of the lines that conceals the waist that properly belongs to the empire gown. "Lace gowns for afternoon or evenings will have arabesques

LOUIS XV. MODEL.

The stately Louis XV coat is very much in evidence this season among fur wraps. This model of rich moire astrakan has the ruffled cuffs; the collar and the pockets trimmed with rich Persian embroidery. Delicate blond at throat and waist.

Another device to create slenderness at the hip line is found in petticoats with a deep yoke to fasten to the bottom of a long corset. Imported corsets with skirts for this purpose show a uniformity of color very attractive. For instance, a corset of pale gray striped alpaca. Other corsets of blue or black will be accompanied by skirts of satin, silk or batiste in the same shade, the last sort very charming with insets and flounce edgings of black lace or footings.

The one color scheme is continued with house clothes to the shoes and stockings. Thus a costume d'intérieur of blue or gray crepe will show accessories in the same tint, the effect being very pretty and elegant in movement. Again it is observed that some women of good tone in dress are taking to white openwork stockings with black patent leather pumps for house wear, and after the long reign of black stockings the innovation seems quite dashing. But, of course, feet and ankles must be shapely to support this. White has the effect of startlingly emphasizing blueness, though nothing could be prettier than a white dressing of pretty extremities.

Speaking of feet, and the consideration they should exact, news comes from England that smart society women have reacted against trailing skirts for street wear. They have decided on walking jupes that shall escape the ground by at least two inches, but remembering the proverbial bigness and homeliness of English extremities one marvels at the courage it must take batiste embroidered with open rings and shirred in a puff over the foot flounce. A bolero jacket effect forms the upper part of the garment, which is built on a princess foundation opening at the left front. Plain bisque velvet, applied with lace in a darker shade realizes the pretty jacket, whose elbow sleeves are flounced with lace-edged frills of the same.

Such a costume is supplied in London for the modest sum of $35. Here it is somewhat more expensive, of course, but all things considered the English house gown is at no time an extravagant purchase. Of a genre distinct in itself it can never be recognized as old-fashioned. Then the materials the English manufacturers use for themselves declare the people who are supposed to know the subtleties of fashion; so the best of our trig, plain coats, it seems, come from the city across the channel. On the other hand, the dressy affairs must have the Parisian stamp, and charming indeed are some of the Louis XIV, XV and XVI models great dress-makers are now displaying. These garments, which are made of handsome cut velvets, superbly set off a plain skirt, velvet jacket going with a silk or satin skirt, and one of satin topping Longchamps race course, at the fashionable tea rooms, etc., and already, sometimes, audaciously trimmed with broad bands of fur and fur boots. The boas, by the way, before going to the details of the gowns, are like small colarettes lying flat on the shoulders, and have wide stole ends reaching to the knees or ankles. The fur boleros, too, have pelerine ends trimmed with fur tails, and tailed fringes are put on the hem of the wide belt sleeves, inside of which any amount of connective frivols of chiffon and lace and silken bits of bright colors are in evidence.

The coat and skirt costumes have long hip skirts, sometimes cut in one piece with plaits at the back, tiny revers, buttons, patters and what not, sometimes set on and trimmed with pocket flaps. The fronts of the coat skirt sometimes turn back with revers fastened with buttons. The accompanying waistcoat is sometimes buttoned back over the coat to form revers.

I saw such a smart coat and skirt gown at Longchamps the other day. It was of gray wool covered with long white hairs, almost exactly like the Himalaya felt, only of lighter weight, that is so smart for hats. The skirt had rows of white silk stitchings at the knee followed by a stitched band of gray panne. The coat fastened on the bust under a collar of white linen embroidery. Below this it was turned back with two little white taffeta revers, narrow at the top, wide at the bottom, a gold button fastening them in place. The belt of white silk passed over the coat and buckled with gold at the back.

as well as bands of fur, narrow or wide, and empire gowns will be especially chic with fur boleros. Velvet gowns with broad bands of guipure, the pattern of which will be traced with sable tails, are offered as the newest thing, and indeed the idea is original. Figured panne velvet is a material that will be used as a trimming that is rather splendid in Indian colors and designs put on in narrow bands.

For evening wear this winter there will be all manner of cloaks and coats of a delicate color and material, but of a simplicity of tailoring that is most distinguished. They are designed for restaurant and theater wear, thus reserving the dinner evening wrap for private parties and big subscription nights at the opera. Pale blue cloth, fine and satiny, in tiny accordant plaits, will be a favorite material for these coats. The sleeves will be immensely wide and picturesque, their shoulders covered with immense guipure collars. For restaurant and theater wear in the evening what can be smarter than this entirely new form of wrap? It consists of a little bolero of fur to which is attached a long flounce of lace which reaches almost to the knees. It has something of the air of an empire sacque. Its sleeves are flowing and full of lace and guipure, the hand black velvet ribbon belt is knotted with long ends at one side of the front, and the hat is a large black velvet beret with drooping black plumes that sweep one's shoulders.

White suede embroidered with flet and gold edged with Nile green panne is the charming trimming on a gown of pale gray serge. It forms lapels, cuffs and waistcoat effects, on which there are buttons of gold and jet. The blouse of tucked white cashmere has a suede belt fastened with a gold buckle, and it is crisscrossed with black velvet. This sleeve is full, too, at the top and cuffed closely over the forearm. The kid cuff is short to show a few folds and puffs of the white cashmere.

For jewelry for semi-ceremonious occasions nothing will be considered so alluring as a single great jewel strung on a chain of gold so fine it hardly more than a wire. The jewel appears to have no setting at all and sparkles in the faces of the corsage, on the bare neck, or on the forehead between the soft ringlets that escape from the lightly parted hair, with a charming effect.

The sleeve goes its own sweet way, adding all sorts of conceits, keeping hardly a moment to the same outline. Now it is bigger! At this point, row at that, nothing seems definite or fixed by rule and rote. The immense bouffant-trimmed elbow and forearm is considered still the thing. So is the perfectly close long sleeve, if one chooses to favor it with one's notice. Of equal chic is the bell sleeve, the bishop or the drooping cuff and the lace flounce of the Louis XV. Astonishing, however, in spite of our receptive attitude toward the fashions at this period of the year, is the appearance of a number of autumn gowns of the sleeve big at the top and close from the elbow to the hand. It appears in prettiest form, softly fitted into the shoulder, pouching at the elbow; here it is gathered into the long close forearm. Some of the gowns that sport this sleeve are as follows, from the hands of the best designers in Paris:

A black panne afternoon gown has a hip yoke laid in groups of encircling tucks. Follow this, groups of vertical tucks descend a little way down the skirt. The bodice has a tucked yoke separated from a tucked blouse by bands of gold brocaded galloon of ancient design. The belt and straight wide band down the front that form a vest of black taffeta embroidered in black silk in Chinese pattern. The sleeve has a few little vertical tucks at the shoulder and a looseness that pouches into a long tight forearm of white satin banded with stitched

The quickest relief for a cold is by Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

You will find the edge taken off in a night; and, in three or four days, you'll be wondering whether that cold amounted to anything anyhow.

That's relief. If you tackle it quick, the relief is quick; if you wait, the relief won't come—you know how colds hang on.

FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

Minnesota - Wisconsin Game Will Probably Decide Western Championship.

Lafayette Team Is One of the Star Elevens of the Country—Batting Averages of the National League.

Saturday's games in the West drew an excellent line of comparison and separated more clearly the first-class and second-class elevens.

Minnesota's clean victory over Nebraska was not a surprise. The Gophers are stronger, heavier and faster than last year. Their meeting with Wisconsin at Madison on Nov. 16 will come pretty near deciding the Western championship.

Michigan and possibly Illinois are to be thrust on in the championship unless the team, however, Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa are not to be thought of as championship teams.

Urbana enthusiasts do not look for an unclouded title to the championship unless Wisconsin and Minnesota meet the Wolverines. Much will depend on this Saturday's game at Madison.

Michigan, should test a team put out of the running by Saturday evening, the situation would be simplified.

The "dolphin" of the Lafayette team are not widely credited, but notwithstanding the fact that it is one of the star elevens of the country. The Ephraimians have been a thorn in the flesh for the so-called "Big Four" for several years. Lafayette defeated Cornell twice in the last two seasons and Pennsylvania once. Both these colleges concluded it was best to leave Lafayette out of the schedule for good and sufficient reasons. The Ephraimians met Princeton next Saturday, and the Tigers are looking forward to it with misgivings. Next to Yale, Princeton coaches fear Lafayette most.

The wonderful kicking ability of Pat O'Dea is not allowed to go unused. Although coaching the Notre Dame eleven, O'Dea this time to play with the South Bend Athletic association, and in the game with the Americans of Chicago last week the "Wisconsin leg" placed the ball neatly yards down the field. The longest punt ever made in Indiana football was fully up to his old-time form.

Jesus Burkett, center of the St. Louis club, who has signed to play next year with the American league team of the Missouri City, is the leader of the National league in batting. His average is .382.

Only twenty-three players in the league have a batting average of .300 or better. Delahanty of Philadelphia, who is short of the pace by twenty-five points in the batting column.

The league's batting average for the year will be .285, with the first fifteen having forty-eight to the credit of bases.

The criticism is made of Western elevens that they are weak in tackling. A serious fault, but one which is not easy of explanation. The Western players are just as strong, quick, and powerful as the Eastern players. The difference is in the physical advantages it would seem that the Eastern players have. The Western players are not so much as the Eastern players. The Western players are not so much as the Eastern players.

With an exceptionally strong team, Dexter and Bergen being particularly bright in the last two games and in the practice matches have increased this distrust in their ability. What makes the situation more discouraging is the fact that there is not any other player in sight who promises to develop anything like a sturdy form at center. Full back is causing the coaches much concern. The coaches are looking for a strong line-breaker, for DeWitt, they say, can drop back from the line without being needed. Having exhausted all the available coaches for the place without success, the coaches have decided to make a change. They have moved Meier, the old quarter back to full back. Meier weighs about 175 pounds and ought to make a fine grid-guardsman when he is rounded into form.

Devoid of Moral Sense

Assassin of President Sullen, Perverse and Hateful As a Child.

He Seems to Feel Only Fear, and the Prison Doctor Says He May Again Collapse.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 18.—It is with the greatest difficulty that even the guards who watch the every movement of the cowardly assassin of President McKinley, can induce him to speak.

All day long he lies on his cot in the house of death from which he will emerge in thirty days to pay the penalty of his crime. His nerve is entirely gone.

Since his warm reception at the hands of the mob at the gates of the prison, he has been paralyzed in the hall and crouches in the furthest corner of his cell and comes reluctantly when he is called to the door, as if in fear of a renewal of the recent attack.

Physically he has been pronounced in good condition by the prison physician, Dr. Gerin. The physician made another examination of him today. The assassin appeared to be afraid of the doctor, but submitted.

Dr. Gerin reported at the conclusion of the examination that the assassin was in good health, but that mentally he was at a point bordering on hysteria and was likely to collapse again at any moment.

The guards who will spend their entire time watching him will see to it that he does not attempt any harm to himself.

One of them enters his cell every half hour and looks him over. If he is awake he shrinks from them without an attempt to conceal his fear. They do not expect that he will attempt any violence to himself, mainly because of his cowardly nature.

To them as to others who have studied him at close range he appears to be utterly without moral sense of gratitude. He receives every attention with sullenness. He has said that he is sorry that he shot the president, and has admitted that his crime was a mistake. But he never seems to feel any remorse.
